WORLD HISTORY WRITTEN AT LEAGUE OF NATIONS SESSION

QUAQUI WAR END SEEN

Oregon Hopeful, Tells 'Times'

Says Rebellion Will Be Terminated Soon; Property Safe

Airplanes and Land on Coast to Fight Indians

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Gen. Obregon, in a telegram to a correspondent this evening, believes neither he nor his personal interests have suffered in the rebellion.

The message, dated Navojoa, Sonora, in reply to a request by the correspondent for a statement on the Yaqui revolt and his attitude, Gen. Obregon said.

"Nothing in your message, neither the situation nor that of my personal interests in this section of the country have suffered by the rebellion. As regards the military part of the rebellion, I believe it does not present a serious problem to the government; and that the small elements which are behind it will be eliminated diligently will be accomplished. To terminate the campaign with promptitude and that then the losses and inconveniency caused by the rebellion have been holding onto arms and committing all kinds of depredations will be effectively ended, although it will cost the government large sums of money to do so, the happiness is to this result.

VENTURES MADE

The Yaqui factions captained by Jose Morrin have made overtures to the government proposing to the government proposing to return to what they had been the outbreak, but the government replied it could not consider negotiations until all bands and groups which have been taking up arms and destroying were defeated and gave themselves up within a certain time limit to surrender as the alternative of choosing to fight the government.

"I believe this will be the last campaign and while lives will be sacrificed the result will be the complete submission of the tribe which has been a menace to the State of Sonora for years."

The Universal officially quotes Obregon as stating that all differences with the Yaqui Indians have been settled and that the government has not only modified its original plan of using all military strength against the tribesmen, the dispatch to Excelsior telegraphed from Hermosillo that Obregon is conducting peace negotiations with the Indians. Gen. Obregon is said to be acting on specific instructions from President Calles.

AIRPLANES LAND

Another dispatch from Guaymas announced the arrival there yesterday of the steamer Moctezuma bringing a squadron of airplanes. It also states that Federal troops have been landed at Port Libertad.

BRITISH FALL FORECAST

'Gloomy Dean' in Dour Prophecy

Inge Says Place as World Power Wanes and Only Hope in Plain Living

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—The early passing of Great Britain as a world power is forecast by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, London, in an analytical survey of the empire, published today as the latest of a series by various authors on "The Modern World."

Living up thoroughly to his title, "The Gloomy Dean," he sees great danger not only in the international situation, but even more from the "antisocial and unpatriotic sectionalism which is the curse of industrial civilization especially dangerous in a country situated as we are."

"The main danger is interior to the empire," declares the dean. "The omens at present are very unfavorable.

"Everything points to a coming time of trial for the nations and the empire. It seems for every reason unlikely that our position as a world power will endure much longer. Much depends upon the friendliness of the United States on which we certainly can not count, though of which we should not despair.

AMERICA HELD UNFRIENDLY

"The cordial friendship which many Englishmen enjoy with individual Americans . . . must not blind us either to the intense concentration of the American people at large upon what they consider their own interests, or to the prevailing unfriendliness of America, as expressed by its politicians and journalists, to this country.

"If in the future we are attacked by a European coalition, we may take it as probable that the United States will leave us to our fate, unless, indeed, we are invaded by a black army."

There are no occasions of war at present between the British empire and the United States, says the dean, "since our government invariably gives way."

"Americans insisting upon repayment of the vast debt, incurred for France, to which we rashly put our names, have secured that we shall remain permanently tributary to them.

"We probably shall retain our present form of government if only because there is no obvious alternative.

"In plain living and high thinking will be our salvation, or the salvation of the 'remnant' which will survive the turmoils of an age of transition. Plain living will be forced on us, whether we will or not."

POISON FOOD QUIZ STARTS IN CHICAGO

Story of Drinking During Banquet at Which Many Became Stricken Denied

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Samples of food served at the Edgewater Beach Hotel were taken for examination by the health department today in the beginning of an investigation directed by Dr. John C. Geiger, acting Health Commissioner, into the cause of the illnesses which fell upon many guests at a banquet at the hotel on Friday.

Thirty employees in the kitchen of the hotel were also ordered to report to the Iroquois Hospital today to determine whether they are carriers of a type of germ which might have caused the ailments.

As a third possibility, it was learned that the health department was investigating reports made by the hotel officials that some of the banqueters were intoxicated, possibly having drunk poison booze. Dr. Geiger and the hotel officials refused to make public the direct charge that there was drinking and officials of the Florists' Telegraph and Delivery Association, which gave the banquet, were positive in assertions that there was no liquor of any kind drunk.

Information given Dr. Geiger at the hotel, he said, was to the effect that only fifty of some 1600 guests at the banquet became ill.

Other reports had more than fifty guests suffering from the same symptoms, and Dr. Geiger hopes tomorrow to question many of the guests at the health department offices and to learn from them the full nature of their indisposition and the probable cause.

Norway Teaches Viking Was First in New World

OSLO (Norway) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Lief Ericcson's discovery of America is being played up in all the Norwegian papers today. The government has decided that school children will be taught hereafter that Ericcson, instead of Columbus, was the first to land in America. A monument to the ancient Viking may be erected in Oslo shortly.

Interest in Ericcson's journey has just been raised by President Coolidge's speech of last year, when he mentioned the Norseman's discovery of America and the recent trip of Capt. Folgeroe to America for the Philadelphia Exposition in a replica of Ericcson's ship has been the cause of much interest here.

Suspect Held as D'Autremont in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Denial that he is one of the three D'Autremont brothers wanted for the dynamiting of a Southern Pacific mail car October 13, 1923, as it ran from a tunnel in the Siskiyou mountains in Oregon, was made tonight by a man who is in jail here on suspicion of being Ray Charles D'Autremont.

The prisoner declared his name is George Fletcher and that his home originally was in Copperas Cove, Tex. He said he had an uncle residing there now. He said he has been employed by the Gulf Refining Company in Port Arthur, Tex., from March 13, 1923, until August 1, 1924. Police said his general description answered that of one of the D'Autremonts. They are checking to see whether the D'Autremont has a glazed eye, as Fletcher has.

Fingerprints of the prisoner have not been compared with those of D'Autremont but will be soon.

LEAGUE TRANSITION PERIOD PERCEIVED BY EXPERTS

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

(Copyright 1926 by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

GENEVA, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—"Now, what of the future of the League? The effect within and without of German entrance?" This is the single question which rose on all lips when the dramatic and slightly overemotionalized moment of Briand's welcome to Stresemann had passed. The question was put squarely to one of the most distinguished figures in the whole history of the League and his reply was a little startling.

He said, "Last March I told you that the League was no full crisis. The crisis has not been resolved. It continues; perhaps it is a little aggravated. You tell me that you have an impression that the League has submitted to an internal shock totally different from the outside success which has momentarily caught attention. I agree. The small nations have suffered a profound shock, the League itself has lost not a little of its democratic character; it has become more like a concert of Europe than like the original conception.

"I will go farther and say that in my judgment the heroic period of the League is over. By that I mean the period in which the small powers played great roles and representatives of the small powers strove rather to be European than nationalistic. That time is over. Branting is dead. Benes is going, Spain, which played a very real role, has retired. In my opinion the League is destined to enter a period of real decline.

SENSE OF CHANGE

"Today no one knows what has happened, all are waiting, all are not a little anxious. The coming of Germany has brought with it a shock to everything; I mean a sense of change. We are now going to see the national game here played very intensively. But no one knows what combinations will come. Yesterday, perhaps today, Italian feelings were very bitter toward Germany, but it may already have changed overnight; it may change instantly. For myself I believe the League will regain much; it is now bound to lose. I am not a pessimist, but I do see a change, a decline for the next few years. In a sense, as I have said, the passing of a heroic period."

I talked with some most distinguished German representatives. One of them said to me: "Before we came here we found our main objection that the great powers exercised a controlling influence over the small, that in reality the small powers were more or less servants of the large. But coming here our first impression is even more strongly confirmed than we expected. We had hope that the League was a democratic institution made up of great powers and small which were independent, but shall I say to you that our first impression confirms our fears rather than our hopes?"

Moreover, following the first sentimental stage, nothing is more significant than the instant reaction of pessimism both in French and German quarters, the rather abrupt realization that all the kind words left everything just where it was, that now realities had to be dealt with by a system of rather sordid bargaining. To the German the presence of French armies of occupation on German soil after Locarno and Geneva seemed a thing at once unnecessary, and to give a character of hypocrisy to Briand's fervid words. To the Frenchman the immediate opening of this question appeared no more than evidence that Germany had come into the League only to seek to destroy agreements and peace treaties under more favorable circumstances.

Both French and Germans are constantly conscious of their public opinions, their oppositions. The German Nationalists demand that German entrance to the League, which they opposed, shall bring forth fruits and already characterize the failure to get these as evidence of the sham of the whole thing. French public opinion feels uneasily that the actual reappearance of Germany as a great power means the opening of a period of dangerous, costly diplomatic maneuvering.

In the meantime the smaller powers, the men who made the League, in a sense, are not only disappointed by what has happened, but are disturbed to see the League itself pushed aside, and Geneva become a market place where the great powers trade under cover of a society of nations.

Nothing is more difficult at Geneva than to preserve a true balance between the inordinate amount of sentimentality, the rather fervid idealism which flourishes here, and the cold, quite calculating policies the representatives of several nations adopt toward each other. In Geneva statesmen kiss in public amid the applause of an audience, and the indescribable enthusiasm of League supporters; but an hour or two after the osculation one finds them separated by wholly selfish issues, combating national causes with more skill than sentiment.

So far both the Locarno and the present Geneva episode have both been consequences of cool, clear, calculating business consideration rather than of any degree of profound humanity. The politicians have been controlled by business, they have done their part with very becoming gestures made toward the League, but at the bottom it would be quite impossible to differentiate between the real objectives pursued now and in the pre-League period. The fact that material rather than moral forces explain the changes does not make them less important nor less likely to last.

BARRIERS REMAIN

It is absurd to believe that because Briand and Stresemann indulged in rather dramatic gestures in recent days, as they did at Locarno, the real barriers of Franco-German understanding are now eliminated. All barriers are still there. We have before us beyond any doubt a long period of difficult negotiation during which the spirit of Locarno and the League will be invoked by both contestants to serve their purposes, but discarded with equal facility when found inconvenient.

Perhaps I can best illustrate what I mean by saying again that three days after the Briand-Stresemann affair in the assembly, I found all my French and German friends in several delegations depressed rather than exultant, pessimistic rather than optimistic. Both were rather comically aware that neither had in any real degree changed its position, that none of the solid difficulties had been dealt with.

The German delegation is here to the League to obtain the evacuation of the Sarre and Rhineland. It is just as certainly here to seek the return of the Danzig corridor, together with Upper Silesia. It is here because it believes these objectives can be better served within than without the League. Like every other great power here represented, it is here to use the League to serve its own ends. It has accepted the League as a valua-

RESORT IN DANGER AS FIRE RAGES

Two Hundred Battle Forest Blaze in Butte County; Citizens Join Fighters

CHICO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Back-fire reinforced by more than 200 workers snatched Butte Meadows from an inferno of flame late last night and turned the forest fire, still uncontrolled, in a new direction.

Butte Meadows, Butte county's resort, listing more than fifty cottages and a small business district, was directly in the path of the sweeping flames which were contested mile by mile by a swiftly growing group of fighters for more than thirty-six hours before the town was saved.

Oroville and Chico contributed heavily to the ranks of fire fighters. Many citizens in each city have summer homes at the resort.

SAN RAFAEL, Sept. 26. (AP)—Two threatening fires which started in the wooded sections near here today were brought under control tonight.

One blaze was extinguished after it had advanced to and burned the trees on the upper rim of the Mt. Tamalpais amphitheater, while the other was stopped after it had burned some 400 acres of brush land on the northwest slope of Pine Mountain, five miles from here.

GUATEMALA PRESIDENT SUCCUMBS

Heart Disease Fatal to Central American Chief; Successor Assumes Post

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—President Orellana of Guatemala died early this morning of heart disease.

Gen. Lazaro Chacon, the first designate, has assumed the Presidency.

Word of President Orellana's death was received late today by Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan Minister. The President succumbed to the heart attack at 12.15 a.m., the message said. No further details were given.

Escaped Circus Beasts Cause Panic in Town

VINCENNES (Ind.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Panic reined when ten lions, a lioness and a tiger escaped from a traveling circus which met with an accident.

For several hours the beasts sauntered or slunk through the streets, while the inhabitants barricaded their doors and took to the roof tops and attics. The trainers finally succeeded in rounding up the beasts. One lion was found, gorged, in a butchershop and the lioness was found curled up in a china shop.

TETRAZZINI TELLS OF PLAN TO WED FRIDAY

FLORENCE (Italy) Sept. 26. (AP) Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, opera singer, today announced that her marriage to Pietro Vernati will take place on October 1 in this city, where she was born fifty-two years ago. The prospective husband is 32 years of age and a native of Rome. Tetrazzini says she will spend November in Rome in her own palace, and later may go on a concert tour in the United States.

WAR SCARS UNHEALED

Poincare Refuses to Forget

Sharp Utterance at Variance With Briand's Friendship Effort in Geneva

ST. GERMAIN (France) Sept. 26. (AP)—Premier Poincare today made his first public utterance on international affairs since he assumed the combined task of Premier and Minister of Finance. In a rather sharp talk to disabled war veterans, evidently destined to carry beyond the frontiers, the Premier served notice that, no matter how far France might be willing to meet Germany in new friendship, there was one phase of the situation in which he would never yield a jot, namely, the responsibility for the war. On that point he was adamant that the Germany of 1914 was responsible.

The enthusiastic cheering that greeted the Premier's address showed that the war veterans at least indorsed his position. The meeting was presided over by Louis Marin, one of the staunchest of Nationalists and the leader of the Right group in the Poincare Cabinet, which is directly opposed to the elements represented by Edouard Herriot and Aristide Briand. The Premier's speech is entirely at variance with the recent efforts of Foreign Minister Briand, at Geneva. There is much speculation as to what Briand will do at the next meeting of the Cabinet Council.

DISAPPROVE DEBT PACTS

The Congress of Disabled War Veterans, which closed its sessions here today, adopted a resolution calling upon all members "to refuse a vote to any parliamentarian who accepts the ratification of the London and Washington debt agreements in their present form."

The Premier's speech is interpreted generally as a reply to that of Foreign Minister Stresemann at Geneva.

"You know too well the horrors of war to be anything else than faithful servants of peace," M. Poincare told the veterans. "But peace should never be for you a reason to abdicate your glory or to renounce the rights you defended."

When the Central Powers "let loose upon the world an unprecedented cataclysm," the Premier said, "it never entered your minds to render the responsibility of that aggression to all Germans without distinction."

"Nor did you," he added, "blame indiscriminately all German officers and soldiers for the atrocities committed in occupied villages. You cannot forget, however, that war was declared upon us; that it was waged upon our soil through violation of a neutral state; that upon orders from the Imperial General Staff it was conducted with pitiless cruelty.

REMEMBER THE PAST

"If Germany of today would disavow openly some of the practices of the Germany of yesterday, how much easier it would be for you to forget your war scars and extend a hand to those responsible for your wounds."

Poincare denied it was "incumbent upon you or France" to repudiate anything of the past. "In you are incarnated the finest qualities of our race," he declared. "Through you France has merited the admiration of the world. As much and more than gold and silver, these elements count in the patrimony of a great nation. You were the creators of great wealth, which you do not intend to abandon. You aspire only to the tranquility of Europe, the stability of our frontier and the independence of our diplomatic action. Be certain of the government's and nation's approval if you remain proud of having, in a war of defense, contributed to repulsing the forces of the invader and liberating our territory."

FROST RUINS LATE CROPS

Heavy Damage in Midwest

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Late corn and vegetables suffered heavy damage in the Middle West from frost this morning. Fields and gardens were blanketed with frost and Chicago thermometers registered at the lowest point for September 26 in thirty-nine years. Frost was general all through the central area.

The official temperature was 32.4 deg. above zero, or .6 of 1 deg. higher than the record of 1887 at the Weather Bureau's station. The thermometer is enclosed seven feet above the ground, but the temperature was low enough on the ground for frost to form. In suburbs west of Chicago unofficial temperatures were reported several degrees below freezing.

Ice a quarter of an inch thick formed on pools of water in gardens and fields at Aurora, Ill. Late corn is badly damaged in that section and practically all garden crops are killed. The temperature was down to 28 deg. at Aurora.

LATE CROP LOSSES

Reports from farmers indicate that much of the late corn was badly damaged in Northern Illinois. Truck gardeners near Joliet said they had a general freeze that nipped their tomatoes and tender sweet and field corn. Big losses among growers of egg plant, tomatoes, late beans and practically all the vine crops are reported from Palatine, Ill.

At Paris, Ill., a heavy frost hit with temperatures falling within twenty-four hours from 60 to 36 deg., and late vegetables and corn were damaged.

Tomato growers in Northern Indiana suffered some loss from frost, but M. M. Justin, the State Federal crop reporter at La Fayette, Ind., says the frost was not heavy enough to seriously injure the late field corn. There was light frost as far south as Indianapolis.

WIND SAVES FRUIT

A gentle wind from Lake Michigan helped to save losses in Michigan's great fruit belt in Berren county. In other parts of Michigan frost appeared in spots and damaged some of the late corn.

Thousands of acres of corn were damaged in Wisconsin, where frost appeared generally and snow was reported at Stevens Point, Wis.

Late field corn and popcorn were hit hard by the frost in the Odebolt (Iowa) district. The late planted field corn has been damaged throughout Iowa, reports say.

The Dakotas, Northern Kansas, Northern Missouri and Minnesota have also suffered from killing frosts. Missouri had a light frost as far south as the central counties. Davenport (Iowa) thermometers showed the lowest temperatures ever recorded this early in the year.

HEAVY RAIN BREAKS ARIZONA'S LATE SUMMER

PHOENIX, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—A belated summer today was broken by rains that extended from Flagstaff to the Mexican border, with reports thus far of precipitation of more than an inch in the Safford section and of less than an inch around Flagstaff, Phoenix and Tucson.

The storm brought a drop of 20 deg. in temperature and was attended here by much lightning. Observer Grant of the Weather Bureau sees no early end to the disturbance.

FOOD PIPE SUNK TO MINERS

Entombed Workmen Will Be Fed With Tablets While Renewed Rescue Work Continues

IRONWOOD (Mich.) Sept. 26. (AP)—A new drive to reach the forty-three imprisoned miners in the Pabst Mine here was decided upon by mine officials tonight. Already terrific efforts are being made to clear out the wrecked shaft; to sink a diamond drill 400 feet, starting at the second level, to the eighth level, where the men are, and to build a rise around an obstruction in the lower part of the shaft.

The new drive consists of driving an inclined rise 300 feet through virgin ground to the eighth level of the Pabst mine from the thirteenth level of the Aurora mine.

Down the main shaft, in which the cave-in occurred, killing three men trapped in the cage, one crew set to work drilling a one-and-one-half-inch hole through 400 feet of debris which blocks the shaft. If the miners are found to be alive, food in tablet form will be sent down to sustain them until a passageway can be dug.

Officials believe the men are alive. Efforts are being continued to clear the main shaft. At the same time another crew, which had entered an adjacent mine a half-mile from the wrecked shaft, had started digging from a lower level hoping to connect with the mine level on which the men were trapped.

While it was expected to be some time before the men could be reached cots, blankets and first-aid supplies were brought to the mine today and ambulances were held in readiness, while relatives and friends of the men gathered about the opening awaiting news.

Prince Nicolas to Accompany Rumania Queen

BUCHAREST, Sept. 26. (AP)—Prince Nicolas will accompany Queen Marie on her visit to the United States. The royal party will number twenty, including the servants. The Queen will go direct to Washington for her visit of ceremony, not tarrying in New York on landing.

In the royal party will be Col. Athanariu, special aide de camp to the Queen, Radu Lapten, Councelor of the Rumanian Legation in London, and Prof. Nicolas Petrescu, formerly a professor in Wabash College. There will be ten servants in the party of twenty.

George Cretzianu, recently appointed Rumanian Minister to the United States, will sail for New York immediately in order to be on hand to receive the Queen on her arrival.

FLORIDA CHURCH SERVICES MEMORIALIZE STORM DEAD

Ceremonies Take Form of Funerals for Those Hastily Buried; Relief Work Unceasing

MIAMI (Fla.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Regular Sabbath services which took the form of funerals and requiem masses for the many storm victims buried without benefit of clergy were attended by thousands here today. Churchgoers flocked to places of worship spared by the hurricane of a week ago, as well as to temporary structures hastily erected on the sites of those destroyed. A union open air service in Royal Palm Park attracted hundreds.

The day, however, found no cessation in the work of the rehabilitation and relief. Workers concentrated on Fort Lauderdale, Dania, Hollywood and Hileah, where, with water still flooding most of those regions and many persons reported in need, conditions were described as most desperate.

With the death of six injured persons today, Miami's loss of life in the storm reached 114, while 235 persons were listed officially as missing. The known fatalities in the entire storm area approximate 400.

Under the supervision of Vice-Chairman James Pieser of Washington, the American Red Cross will assume general charge of relief work in Greater Miami tomorrow.

Forty nurses and 100 other workers will be brought in to replace the corps of physicians and nurses sent here on a special relief train by the Chicago Herald-Examiner, which will depart tomorrow.

Mr. Pieser said in a statement today he believed the total of sufferers from the storm directly and indirectly would approximate 100,000 and that homes demolished or badly damaged will number 20,000.

CHICAGO RIALTO GIVES GENEROUSLY

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Chicago's rialto answered Florida's distress call today with an early morning benefit show that added $15,779.41 for the relief fund for hurricane sufferers.

Five hundred entertainers hurried from showhouses, cabarets and ballrooms to take part in a four-and-one-half-hour performance that began at midnight.

More than 3000 people paid $2 and $5 and more if they wished for seats or standing room. During the performance the fund was increased by auctioning autographed photographs of the stars, two of which sold for $100 each.

Gene Tunney has been asked to take part in an exhibition match the first week of October when fight fans can contribute to the Florida fund.

C. W. Runcke, chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission, is arranging a boxing show. Boxers invited to participate also are asked to pass up any thought of a purse on that night, Runcke said.

BENEFIT SHOW HERE GETS $8000

Approximately $8000 was raised for Florida relief at a benefit performance which began at midnight Saturday and lasted until 3:30 a.m. yesterday at the Metropolitan Theater. The amount was turned over to the Red Cross by Frank L. Newman, manager of the theater and manager of the Los Angeles Theater Managers' Association, which sponsored the performance.

The "sold-out" sign was in evidence early, and many thousands endeavored to gain admission without success, it was declared. The headliners from each theater were on the program, and so were many film stars from the Hollywood studios. There were many personal contributions by actors to the fund.

"During my entire career in the theatrical world," stated Managing Director Newman of the Public Theaters, "I never witnessed such a generous response on the part of citizens to a cause of this nature. With only three days to arrange and stage the show, by Saturday noon every seat in the Metropolitan was sold. On the part of the Los Angeles Theater Managers' Association I wish to extend our deep thanks to the press, professional people and general public who aided in making the benefit such a marvelous success."

HALF OF RELIEF FUND QUOTA SUBSCRIBED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Coincident with his announcement that the Florida disaster relief fund now totals $2,484,000 or approximately half of the $5,000,000 minimum goal set, John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, declared tonight that emergency relief work in the devastated regions of Florida is practically ended and the work of rehabilitation well under way.

"The less spectacular but equally essential rehabilitation work has begun," said Mr. Payne. "The American Red Cross proposes to use all its wide experience and its resources in completing its task in record time.

"In the midwestern area swept by the tornado in March, 1925—Southern Illinois and sections of adjacent States—it took from eight to ten months to complete the rehabilitation work, to bring the communities back to normal living conditions. We plan to complete the rehabilitation work in Southern Florida in a much briefer period.

"To this end, we are concentrating larger numbers of trained personnel in the Florida area than in the early days following any other major disaster. We have just ordered forty additional nurses and 120 other workers into Miami and other centers and we will increase their numbers if it is necessary.

"To those who are not familiar with Red Cross procedure after disaster, let me make it clear that the Red Cross meets the expenses of providing these workers. The $5,000,000 disaster fund we have asked for relief work is used for the relief of those who suffered in the storm and for that purpose alone."

CUBAN PRESIDENT AIDS FLORIDA RELIEF

HAVANA, Sept. 26. (AP)—President Machado has donated $5000 and the Tourist Commission a like sum for the Red Cross fund for Miami sufferers. The cruiser Cuba will sail for Miami tomorrow with food, clothing, physicians and medicines for the hurricane victims.

SAN FRANCISCO RAISES $15,000 TOWARD QUOTA

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—San Francisco's contribution to the relief of Florida's hurricane sufferers amounted to approximately $15,000 tonight. The subscription was brought to that figure by a midnight revue, given by local theaters last night, which realized $6000.

City officials have indicated that the fund will be increased by $10,000 tomorrow through an appropriation by the Board of Supervisors.

OBREGON SEES END OF REVOLT

Yavaros and that a land column commanded by Gen. Serrueche is conducting its march through Sinaloa, while Gen. Manzo is moving toward the northern Yaqui border through Hermosillo.

The government's plan apparently is to direct an invasion into the Yaqui stronghold in the Bacatete Mountains with the main forces landed at Guaymas, while Manzo closes in from the north and Serrueche from the south. While these preparations are under way, Gen. Obregon, if the Hermosillo dispatch is true, is attempting to talk the Indians into submission. It is said that these peace negotiations have reached a stage where Gen. Obregon is directly in touch with eight civil "governors" of the tribe who are reported to be opposed to the war-like attitude of Luis Matus, supreme military chief, who is barricaded with his warriors in the mountains.

OUTCAST HELPS FEDERALS

Mori, deposed Yaqui chief who, last year was stripped of his leadership by Matus after a public whipping, is reported to have allied himself with the Mexican government and to be assisting Gen. Obregon. It is understood that Obregon's terms, sent by runners to the tribe governors, declare that the Indians will not be molested if they will disarm Matus and his men but that a relentless campaign will be waged unless the latter are surrendered.

A Nogales dispatch states that train service south to Hermosillo will be resumed Tuesday, and that meantime government army trucks are moving citizens to places of safety. Railway repairs south of Guaymas will probably be completed by the end of the week.

Massey May Be Canada's Envoy to Washington

OTTAWA (Ont.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Premier King, who succeeded Arthur Meighen in that post yesterday, said that Vincent Massey of Toronto is his choice for Canada's first minister Plenipotentiary at Washington.

Definite appointment, however, will not be made until after the Prime Minister has discussed the matter with the British government, which he intends to do when he goes to London next month for the imperial conference Mr. Massey probably will be asked to visit London at the same time.

Mr. Massey, who was born in Toronto, in 1887, was educated at St. Andrews College and the University of Toronto. He was a lecturer in modern history in the University of Toronto from 1913 until 1915.

In 1919 he entered the Massey-Harris firm as secretary and director and later became its president.

During the war Mr. Massey was in command of the school of musketry, Military District 2. He was promoted temporarily to lieutenant-colonel and later became associate secretary of the war committee at Ottawa. He married a daughter of the late Sir George Parkin and has two sons.

Franco-German Conflicts Are Carried to Geneva

ble instrument. It believes it can fight better here than anywhere else for what it means to accomplish, which, by and large, is the destruction of much of the Treaty of Versailles, although by no means all.

The French are here to defend the treaty. They have assented to German admission because they believe Germany, under the influence of the League in which France is strong and has many friends, can best be opposed here. But the French are in no mood to part with anything which they hold, even for a short time, only save as they are paid in a larger way. They still hold out for the integrity of Poland, the permanence of the Treaty of Versailles, territorially at least, as the recent episode demonstrated.

Nothing is less exact than to believe that either France or Germany accepts the League as a place of peace—on the contrary, for both it is the battle ground on which for varying reasons they prefer to join battle—and the battle is just beginning.

BEHIND THE SCENES

The American observer of events at Geneva must always be on his guard against appearances. The European is at less disadvantage because he knows all the machinery of which foreign offices operate. He sees behind the scenes to a degree, and never for a moment imagines that what is actually on the stage represents anything but a comedy-tragedy arranged for the audience—not to be sure, present, but the reading world of the press. The European knows that the battle between foreign offices is eternal, and follows lines which are little modified of the centuries. He never weeps over the preamble, and is little impressed by announcement of agreement in principle. He is realistic, sophisticated, not too hopeful.

The American, on the contrary, sees absolutely nothing of what actually goes on. He is not even informed of the months of preliminary fighting in conference, of the cool, realistic bargains which have been struck in advance, often enough at the expense either of League principles or the real rights of the smaller nations within and without the League. The drama which he actually witnesses in his eyes is spontaneous and complete. He does not read the comment of Berlin, Paris and Rome newspapers, he does not see old Europe moving along its familiar pathway with only slight variation of pace. Then one day there comes a surprise, the occupation of Corfu, war between Poland and Turkey—nothing happens of all he had expected.

PERIOD OF CONTROVERSY

Everyone here is conscious that a great period of the Franco-German controversy is beginning, not ending, at Geneva. The danger of war is not avoided by the fact that both have come here, but both have agreed to come here because neither had the remotest notion of fighting now or in any future which is now worth considering. They cannot fight, neither do they want to fight. But Germany thinks she can gain more by being here than by staying home; France believes she can lose less with Germany here than without. But both have brought here all the machinery and methods of their foreign offices; both are at all times completely controlled by their own domestic public opinion and interests.

The most important fact about the League is not that it contributes or can materially contribute to making peace or keeping it between nations which are resolved to fight, but that all save perhaps one of the great powers, having renounced fighting under necessity as much as by conviction for all present time, have decided to carry on their conflicts here. To them the game becomes one of seeking to use the League platform and League sounding board to their own ends. But let the League propose some such thing as a disarmament conference and the atmosphere here, which is idealistic and almost superheated, turns chilly instantly.

MATERIALISTIC ANGLE

There is no very profound gulf between the methods and ideals of our domestic politics and Europe's international dealings. The great differences lies in the fact that our international relations being relatively unimportant, we give them a highly idealistic tone, while Europe's international relations being a matter of life or death, they give them a highly materialistic color. But we, who are seldom deceived by a party platform or a campaign flood of eloquence, surrender discretion when European politicians use the same language, methods and devices here at Geneva.

Seeing and hearing Briand the other day, most of my American acquaintances here affirmed an enormous thrill, a sense of the beginning of a new, even golden, age. But M. Kaas, one of the German delegates, voiced the European view when he said: "We Germans found Briand's address full of holes. When we looked into the holes for real concessions we found only eloquence."

The League of Nations is for the moment almost wrenched from its foundations by violence attending the effort of forcing it to absorb Locarno. It has now become the battle-ground of Franco-German interests which may easily promote divisions and provoke grave crises. I do not go so far as to accept the view of one of the most distinguished of all living French diplomats that it will be necessary for France to leave the League within two years, so completely successful will Germany's anti-French campaign be, but I suggest that there is a flood of light to be had from the comment.

RECONCILIATION GAINS

Franco-German reconciliation and economic association are, in my judgment, two things so well-nigh inevitable, given European conditions, as to defy the stupidity of statesmen and the folly of politicians to prevent. They have both made notable progress in the past two years, progress particularly noticeable as one returns to Europe after an absence. But neither was accomplished here in the recent session. Little is gained by minimizing the appalling number of obstacles that lie in the way or by believing they will be eliminated by eloquence or by the traditional methods of European diplomacy. To believe this is to insure disappointment, which will come soon on our side of the water, and lead to the conviction that there is no sincerity in European statesmanship.

The American who comes to Geneva is not infrequently in the position of another American who attends a game of cricket and interprets it and applauds it under the impression that it is played according to the rules of baseball. I do not mean to suggest even remotely that European statesmen or politicians are more dishonest, insincere or hypocritical than ours, or that the main object of their words is to disguise their thoughts, or of their promises to deceive. The point is that they are talking to an audience which knows the realities, understands the language, appraises the degree of actuality exactly, while in America, particularly among Americans at Geneva, circumstances are ignored, words are taken for face value and even more.

COURSE AT GENEVA

France, Germany and Britain agreed at Locarno not to fight by arms; that is a great gain for peace. It was real because none of them now believes war can lead to victory. But then they came to Geneva, forced to ratify their bargain and, even to the extent of creating new Council seats, and are now proceeding to organize within the League to carry on their rivalries with very little regard to the interests of the League, to the wishes of the smaller states which constitute a majority, or of anything save the business which they have in hand. Every real friend of the League perceives that this process may be immensely expensive for it. Therefore, it is easy to see why, despite all outward semblance of success, this last session may prove a disaster.

Locarno was a very real peace pact, because it was a bargain between the great powers made on a business basis which represented realities. It had nothing to do with Geneva. It was only made after the Geneva plan for peace—namely the protocols—was scrapped by the great powers. Afterward the League was used to give an appearance of idealism to the affair. But actually Locarno was made at the expense of the League. The first costs were disclosed in the fiasco of March, the other costs have been revealed here, and still further expenses are foreseen.

In other words, in my judgment the great powers have successfully if perhaps only temporarily captured the League and turned it to their uses, while with enormous skill and success making the realization of their ends seem a victory for the League. As a result the League becomes for a time not now to be calculated a chess board of foreign offices, a battleground of great power campaigns, intrigues and manipulations.

German Planes End Flight to China and Back

BERLIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Two superplanes have just completed a test flight from Berlin to Peking and back planned for the purpose of establishing a basis for a regular air service to the Far East. The aviators' return was attended by Traffic Minister Krohne and other government representatives, the Russian Ambassador, the Chinese and Lithuanian Ministers, and Sven Hedin, the explorer.

In a speech of congratulation the Chinese Minister expressed the hope that the projected air service will strengthen the economic relations of both countries, asserting that "foreigners, who like the Germans observe mutually just agreements, are ever welcome."

SECRECY INDICATES TURK SITUATION BAD

TEHERAN, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The strictest press silence regarding the military situation in Kurdistan and along the Turkish frontier, together with frequent lengthy code messages between Shah Rhiza Khan Pahlevi and his Kurdistan commander, is regarded here as evidence of the seriousness of the situation. Many arrests are being made due to the belief that spies are leagued with the Kurdistan revolutionary elements.

CONNIE DINES WITH COLLIER

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Broadway has a new subject to chatter about. Can it be possible, Broadway wants to know, that Constance Talmadge and Capt. Alaistair MacIntosh, her husband of seven months, have come to the parting of the ways?

For some three weeks now, or ever since Connie and the captain returned from abroad, reports have been raging up and down Broadway. But nobody paid much attention, for the once gay white way has said the same thing about practically every couple who ever had any connection with the stage. There the matter rested, until the wee small hours of this morning. For Connie Talmadge entered Texas Guinan's all-night play ground on West Fifty-second street on the arm of Buster Collier, the man she jilted in order to marry MacIntosh.

HUBBY'S ALL ALONE

There were four in the Talmadge party—Buster, Connie, Jack Mulhall and another woman whose name could not be learned. Buster and Connie seemed very happy. And hubby MacIntosh was nowhere in the vicinity.

Just to make the situation a trifle more complicated, a little lady sat some four tables away and surveyed the situation with eyes that were filled with amazement, if not with

WIDOW GUILTY OF SLAYING

Idaho Jury Convicts Mary A. Crumroy in Asserted Poisoning of Husband

RUPERT (Idaho) Sept. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Mary A. Crumroy was brought into court here early today and told by a jury that she was guilty of poisoning her late husband, Carl Crumroy, whom she met through correspondence started by a matrimonial agency. The verdict carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Suspicion was not directed toward Mrs. Crumroy until months after the death of Crumroy, when his brother-in-law learned that Mrs. Crumroy had renewed a lapsed life insurance policy on her husband and was the beneficiary.

Mrs. Crumroy continually maintained that she had not fed her husband potions of poison as the State contended by a chain of post-mortem evidence and letters written by the defendant to her daughter.

Crumroy fell ill on October 21 1926, and died in eight days. It was not until February that the insurance angle of the family affairs cast suspicion on Mrs. Crumroy.

Mrs. Crumroy formerly resided in Springfield, Ill., and had been married previously to Mathewson Arbuckle, who wandered away from her after he had been injured in a fall from a cathedral. She married Crumroy in 1924.

A thread of tragedy runs through both the Arbuckle and the Crumroy families. Crumroy, who had previously married also, had three children. His first wife died and one of their daughters, Mrs. Meotta Tate, wife of a minister, was burned to death at her home at Hagerman, Idaho.

Mathewson Arbuckle, the first husband, was killed in a mine accident in Pennsylvania in 1923.

says the writer, "is a wholesome indifference to the opinions of foreign nations.

"The Englishman is neither industrious nor thrifty, but disposed to be lazy, open handed and fond of good living . . . We owe our position as a great power to geographical situation . . . and to comparative freedom from continental entanglements . . . It may seem unscientific to attribute much importance to sheer luck."

Of the World War, he says, "no greater misfortune has ever before befallen Britain . . . There are ominous signs that it may be the last great war to be decided by naval power."

Among the specific "problems" he lists the immigration exclusion policy which "can only be maintained while it is possible to exclude by force" and the fact that the loyalty of the colonies "is less whole-hearted than an Englishman could wish."

CANADA PROBLEM

The absence of any real imperial government is declared an outstanding drawback to the empire's stability.

"The future of Canada is problematical," says Dean Inge. "Its chief safeguard is that it's not to the interest of the United States to conquer it. If the British flag was hauled down on the North American continent, it's more than possible the nations of Europe, enraged by bloated prosperity and airs of superiority of the man who won the war would combine to draw Shylock's teeth.

"South Africa is in less danger of conquest. . . . The main problem there is not the native races.

"The future of India lies on the knees of the gods. Democratic institutions have thrown power into hands of most pernicious agitators . . . native states are far happier and quieter than British India.

"Ireland's loss will perhaps be considered in the future the most shameful event in English history. . . . Three-quarters of Ireland was left to relapse into barbarism."

MIDWEST FROST DAMAGE HEAVY

The metropolitan area was touched today by a fringe of the cold wave that blanketed parts of the Far West with snow, and if the prediction of the weather man counts for anything, tomorrow will be just as chilly.

The thermometer dropped 35 deg. from 86 at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday to 51 at six a.m. today. The mercury failed to rise much during the day, the high mark being 61 deg., which was reached at 4:40 p.m. At 9 o'clock tonight the temperature stood at 59 deg. and a gentle east wind was blowing with a prospect of considerably lower temperatures before morning. Fair weather was predicted for Monday with showers Tuesday.

The low-temperature mark today did not approach the low record for the day which was 45 deg. in 1887, nor was it as low as the 50 deg. temperature registered in the cold snap that surprised New York last July.

DENVER REPORTS FIRST SNOW OF SEASON

DENVER, Sept. 26. (AP)—A trace of snow, the first of the season, was reported in Denver today by the Weather Bureau. Low temperatures prevailed through the Rocky Mountain region and snowfall was sported in several of the mountain ranges.

In Denver the thermometer dropped to 33 deg. last night.

Rainfall was reported in several other parts of Colorado today, with cool temperatures.

At Albuquerque, N. M., there was a slight rainfall during the night with a temperature of 44 deg. Rainfall brought cooler temperatures in Southern Arizona, while in the mountains of the northern part frost was recorded.

TRAVELERS DISAGREE ON FRENCH IRE

Some Observe Unfriendly Attitude Toward America, While Others Do Not

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Sharply contrasting opinions regarding the attitude of the French people toward American visitors were brought home today by passengers on the Royal Mail liner Ohio.

State Senator and Mrs. John C. Sweet of Minneapolis, Minn., expressed indignation at what they termed "the ungrateful attitude" of the French, while Rev. Father Stanislaus, who returned after a two months' tour of Eastern Prussia, the Ruhr, the Rhineland and parts of France, said he saw no evidence of ill feeling or disrespect for Americans.

Fritz Heiner, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, although he reported no public evidence of dislike for Americans on the part of the French, declared he was "sick of Europe," and hoped soon to become an American citizen.

"The hostile attitude of the French people toward us," said Senator Sweet, "is so obvious that I cannot understand how any visitor fails to observe it. The feeling is particularly bitter among the French war veterans.

"Something must be done to crystallize American resentment of this ungrateful attitude, and in this respect I would suggest that next year's convention of the American Legion, which it is proposed to hold in Paris, be held elsewhere."

BUZZARD CAN'T FOREGO CHICKEN

Mountaineer's Appetite for Fowl Survives Forty Years of Prison Servitude and Goads Him to Renew Coop Ravages as Soon as He Tastes Freedom

PHOENIXVILLE (Pa.) Sept. 26. (AP) Forty years spent behind the bars for stealing chickens has failed to reform 74-year-old Abe Buzzard. With two companions the notorious Welsh Mountain chicken thief was arrested today in North Coventry township with a wagonload of chickens, automobile tires and other articles which the authorities say represented a night's raid on neighboring farms.

Six months ago Buzzard was freed of a charge of stealing chickens after he had promised to "turn over a new leaf."

At the zenith of his career of crime Buzzard was leader of a desperate band of desperadoes who made nocturnal descents from their mountain stronghold on the inhabitants of the valley below, stripping them of all their valuables, robbing even roosts and leading fowl from stables.

Released in 1901, after serving prison sentences of seven years, Buzzard said he had reformed and on a lecturing tour of the state on "Ruin and Reformation." The reform lasted until November, 1925, when he was arrested for stealing chickens and carrying concealed weapons.

This drew him a ten-year sentence in the eastern State penitentiary in Philadelphia. Upon the expiration of this sentence in March, 1926, he again said he had reformed and that he would devote the remainder of his life atoning for his old life of outlawry.

Three Autoists and Baby Hurt in Motor Crash

SAN RAFAEL, Sept. 26. (AP)—Three persons and a 3-year-old child were injured and narrowly escaped death by electrocution today when their automobile was crowded from the road and, after overturning twice, hurled the occupants to within three feet of the third rail of an electric railway.

The injured, all of San Francisco, were Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] and their daughter, Peggy, 3 years old, and Ruth Dennis, 18. They were cut and bruised. The accident happened near San Anselmo when the automobile, attempting to pass, struck the Burns' machine, overturning it off the road.

BODY TO BE "SILENT WITNESS"

TULSA (Okla.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Charging that juries are becoming too soft hearted and too prone to overlook the fact that a man has been killed, County Attorney Byron Kirkpatrick announced that at the next murder trial here the corpse of the victim would be brought to the courtroom as a "silent witness."

"The defendant during the trial is surrounded by friends and members of his family," Kirkpatrick said. "Juries are becoming soft-hearted, they forget the victim. Any reference to the dead man is promptly objected to by the defense counsel on the ground that it is prejudicial. This time, however, I am going to produce the dead man himself."

The first tryout of Kirkpatrick's plan will come next month when Mrs. W. J. White, negro, is put on trial charged with slaying her husband. The negro woman charged that her husband was attempting to "separate me from my religion."

Kirkpatrick said that he expected to meet with considerable opposition to his plan, which he believes may set a precedent in Oklahoma.

Thompson Ends Prolonged Term on Trade Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Huston Thompson of Colorado rounded out his term yesterday as a member of the Federal Trade Commission and retired to private life.

While it has been understood for some time he would not be re-appointed, there has been no pronouncement from the White House as to his successor.

Mr. Thompson, who has served on the commission longer than any other person, first was appointed to that body by Woodrow Wilson in January, 1919, for a brief term and in September of the same year reappointed for a seven-year tenure. He twice served as chairman, from December 1, 1920, for one year, and from December 1, 1923, for another twelve-month period.

Estranged Wife Becomes Ill on Death of Duke

VIENNA, Sept. 25. (AP)—The death of the Duke of Orleans at Palermo, Sicily, last March, proved such a blow to Archduchess Maria Dorothea that, despite the long estrangement of the couple, she fell ill and is now lying in a serious condition at her castle in Hungary.

The Archduchess is poor. She is being supported by her brother, Archduke Joseph, and her lawyer desires to fight the will of the Duke of Orleans, in which she was cut off from any of his property. The lawyer says he believes she is entitled by law to the Duke's estate. Although they were living separately, they never had been divorced, he contends.

The difficulty seems to be to de-

BAY CITY CRASH KILLS ONE AND HURTS EIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 26. (AP) Courtney Owsley, 17 years of age, of this city, was killed and eight others injured when two automobiles collided at a street intersect on here today. Two of the injured were girls, 15 and 16. They suffered cuts and bruises in the face and body.

by the official class) that know no speed laws.

Nearly everybody of the proletariat seems to be eating or smoking on the streets. The consumption of cigarettes is enormous. Mostly Russian cigarettes (chiefly a mouth piece and a little tobacco from Southern Russia) are used and the streets are littered with "snipes." Men, women and children sell their wares on the streets. Hundreds of cigarette sellers are among these street merchants, but they do not compare in numbers with the fruit venders. There are good apples in Russia, and pears and plums are to be had in quantities. Watermelons also abound—round-striped or pale green melons about the bulk of a football—though some are larger Slices of these are sold at the stands for 5 to 10 kopecks, depending on the diameter of the wedge. They are sweet and good. Choice apples and pears of baseball size are dear—15 to 30 kopecks. (One hundred kopecks make a rouble, which is worth 50 cents in American money.) Small apples, tennis-ball size, are abundant.

SUNFLOWER SEED AS FOOD

Sunflower seed is a staple street food. Peddlers sell them at every street corner, and are themselves among their best customers. They munch the seeds untiringly, and piles of the hulls, like peanut remnants at a baseball game, mark the spots where the venders barter and consume. Candies and cakes are also offered on the streets. The cabbage cake is everywhere popular. This cake is a sort of turnover with cooked cabbage stuffed in dough, baked to a crisp brown. It is a cheap and nourishing viand with a fair quota of vitamines and calories.

People probably lunch on the streets because it affords relief from the intolerable housing conditions, with one kitchen to five or six families, and no dining-rooms. They are a patient, but not cheerful, people. They have entertainment often, and indulge to excess because driven to it by lack of normal opportunity for the exercise of their emotions.

They are used to burden-bearing and many of them find the excitement of street life in the capital a relief from the gloom of peasant existence to which they have been accustomed.

Public dance halls are forbidden, but drinking and eating saloons are open and entertainment of the variety-theater class is permitted in these. Beer is a common drink, but vodka, with 40 per cent plus of alcohol, is to be had. The peasants make their own often, and it is a hideous drink, reminding one in odor of the alcohol used in the laboratories for "pickling" snakes and other "varmints" designed for dissection.

ROADWAYS BEING BUILT

Moscow will have new buildings and roads because it must have. The government is already building some roadways, particularly in the boulevards leading to suburbs, out of the debris of old buildings. Women are found here, too, carrying loads of brickbats, shoveling sand and earth, and, in brief, working as day laborers. There is still much unemployment, estimated at 1,000,000 adults in Russia, but the "workers" will work if they can find something to do. That is, most of them will work, if they do not get out of the habit while waiting for the new era to develop. There are the habitual beggars, including many half-grown boys, who may be too far gone to redeem and who will be a serious threat for the next generation.

Meanwhile, save for the persistence of depraved beggars, Moscow is as safe a city for strangers as is any other European city—and safer probably than Chicago, unless, of course, one is an open counter-revolutionist or proposes to set up a government more to his taste.

NEW YORK DRYS SEEK STAMPEDE

Republican Antiliquor Chief in Last-Minute Drive

Appeals for Party Unity on Prohibition Question

Mills Looms as Favorite of State Convention

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—A last-minute drive to increase the strength of dry Republican candidates for Governor and United States Senator at the Republican State convention here tomorrow was begun tonight.

Dr. Samuel E. Nicholson, Anti-Saloon League leader, who is campaign manager for Franklin W. Cristman, independent Republican candidate for United States Senator, issued a statement appealing for party unity on the prohibition question and announced that opening of the convention tomorrow would be preceded by a meeting of dry advocates.

OGDEN MILLS FAVORED

Delegates arriving from up-State districts tonight said there was little chance of a wholesale swing to the dry ranks. They pointed out that the majority of the delegate chosen at the recent primaries were pledged to support United States Senator James W. Wadsworth for renomination. Senator Wadsworth is a moderate wet.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, who has vigorously opposed Gov. Smith's policies during the past year, is considered as leading in favor for the nomination for Governor.

A bitter struggle was predicted in some quarters tonight on inclusion of reference to prohibition in the Republican platform. Avowed up-State drys are willing to submit to the nomination of a moderate wet, such as Mr. Mills, for Governor, but they will fight to the last ditch any attempt to carry out Senator Wadsworth's pronouncements in favor of prohibition modification.

DEMOCRATS MEET TODAY

Dr. Nicholson in his statement sharply warned that "a political revolt such as has not been witnessed since pre-Civil War days" would follow any action that might be construed as an attitude of obedience to the liquor interests.

The Democrats will open their convention at Syracuse tomorrow with Gov. Smith the expected unanimous choice to succeed himself.

Thomas F. Conway of Plattsburgh, former Lieutenant-Governor, is the leading up-State aspirant for nomination for United States Senator. He says he believes that inasmuch as Senator Copeland is a resident of New York City, the other Senatorial nomination should go to an up-State man. The Tammany candidate for the national Senate is Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner of New York City.

FIREWORKS EXPECTED AT MICHIGAN CONVENTION

DETROIT, Sept. 26. (AP)—Michigan Republicans will gather here Tuesday in a State convention which may produce some fireworks.

The Detroit police, warned by the riot that split the Wayne county Republican convention last week, will assign 230 policemen to keep peace in the event the forces of Col. Fred W. Green, Republican nominee for Governor, and of Gov. Alex J. Grossbeck, who lost to Green in the primary election, continue their argument. Thirty policemen will be stationed inside the convention hall, another 100 will be held in readiness at police headquarters and 100 more will be within call.

Two sets of Wayne county (Detroit) delegates will seek seats in the State meeting. One set will be that chosen by the regular convention, controlled by forces friendly to Gov. Groesbeck. The other delegates who will demand seats are those chosen by the rump convention, composed of Green supporters.

Wayne county will have approximately one-third of the total of delegates in the convention. Political wiseacres believe that the other two-thirds, almost solidly behind Col. Green, will seat the delegation named at the rump convention. Others would not be surprised to see some coup by the opposing Wayne county faction.

Several minor State officers are to be nominated, including Secretary of State, Auditor-General and Attorney-General. There were whispers tonight that Gov. Groesbeck himself might seek the Attorney-Generalship—an office he held before he was elected Governor, six years ago.

Interest was added yesterday with announcement from Gov. Groesbeck's Detroit offices that charges of malfeasance have been filed with him against Thomas E. Johnson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The charges were filed by Leonard T. Hands, State Commissioner of Insurance. A date for Supt. Johnson's hearing has been set for October 6.

Democrats will hold their State convention late this week at Muskegon. There are no contests among the Democrats, who have indicated they will prosecute a strenuous campaign to elect William A. Comstock Governor. Excessive campaign expenditures already have been charged against the Republicans by Mr. Comstock.

French Flyers Start Nonstop African Flight

PARIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—In an effort to establish a new nonstop flight record, Aviators Coste and Devitroles hopped off at Le Bourget at 6 o'clock this morning and headed for Africa.

They hope to land near Victoria Nyanza by Tuesday daybreak. They carry 900 gallons of gasoline and sixty gallons of oil and are confident they can remain aloft for forty-eight hours.

Coroner's Inquest Held in Case of La Habra Fatal Scalding

FULLERTON, Sept. 27.—At an inquest today, Coroner Brown found that the death of Elias Orosco, 4 years of age, of La Habra, was accidental. The child was scalded to death Saturday night in a tub of boiling water his mother had prepared for washing some clothes, dying almost immediately, though his parents heard his cries and got him out as rapidly as they could. The inquest was conducted at the McAuley undertaking rooms.

VOLSTEAD LAW FOES RIDICULED

Senate Nominee of Illinois Reveals Liquor Stand

Points Out Enforcement Act Repeal Useless Move

Constitution, Not Laws, Must be Changed, He Says

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee for United States Senator from Illinois, declared tonight "that so long as the Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the Constitution, I shall uphold it." His statement was made in reply to those who have asked his attitude on the prohibition question.

"If and when a majority of the people of Illinois, upon a properly submitted question, vote for either the modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, I will, as Senator, comply with their mandate," the statement added.

VOLSTEAD ACT MACHINERY

Col. Smith said that the prohibition question could not be settled by modification or repeal of the Volstead law because prohibition is embodied in the Constitution of the United States. While the Volstead law constitutes merely the machinery for enforcing it.

"If the Volstead law were repealed, a United States Senator under his oath of office would be required to enact similar legislation," he asserted.

"Any person who may go to the Senate from Illinois can promise beforehand that he will vote for the repeal or modification of what, in common parlance, is called the Volstead Act, but when he gets there he will have to promise the people of Illinois, the people of the whole nation, and Almighty God, that if he votes to repeal the Volstead Act he will next vote to pass another of the same purport, and also promise that any modification of the Volstead Act which he may support will not permit what the Constitution calls 'the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the United States for beverage purposes.'"

LIQUOR NOT ISSUE

George E. Brennan, Democratic nominee for Senator, running on a platform for repeal or modification of the Volstead Act, Col. Smith said, "could neither help those with a craving for intoxicating drink nor satisfy those sincerely opposed to what they regard as a restriction of personal liberty, if he obtained the repeal of the Volstead law.

"The merits of the question of whether this country shall remain dry or shall become wet are not at issue in this campaign," Mr. Smith said. "The Volstead Act has nothing to do with whether this country shall remain dry or become wet; the merits of that question can be raised only by a proposal to repeal or revise the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution."

COIN OF 1802 FOUND

SAN JOSE, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—An old Spanish coin bearing the date of 1802 was recently discovered in a field in the Gilroy district a few miles from here. One side of the coin shows a likeness of Carlos IV of Spain and the reverse side shows a coat of arms. The figures giving the value of the coin are practically obliterated. The coin is in the possession of Constable Jack White.

Sesqui-Centennial This Year

When the Centennial Exhibition was held in Philadelphia in 1876, Lydia E. Pinkham, a woman in Lynn, Mass., was just beginning to market her root and herb medicine. Her first large order was for eighteen dollars' worth.

Philadelphia is now celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In Lynn the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company occupies six buildings in the manufacture of their root and herb medicine.

YOUNG ORATORS APPROACH TEST

Party to Leave Mexico Soon for Washington

Southland's Winner Among Chicago Honor Guests

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) The spokesmen for England, France, Canada, Mexico and the United States in the international oratorical contest will be the guests of honor at a luncheon to be given at the Palmer House in Chicago next Friday under the auspices of a special representative local commission, B. F. Affleck, chairman.

The International Oratorical Contest, in which more than 2,000,000 secondary school pupils of the five nations have participated, has two major objective. First: To increase interest in and respect for the basic principles of government of each of the participating nations; second: to bring about a better understanding between nations by means of a frank and friendly statement of national viewpoints. The project is sponsored by leading newspapers in the United States and in the four other participating nations.

The five national speakers are: William Meaden Newton for England; Henri Rubidon for France; Jose Munos-Cota for Mexico; Herbert Moran for Canada, and Herbert Wenig for the United States. After a visit to Mexico City the party will return to the United States, reaching Chicago next Thursday.

ALL TO SPEAK

The luncheon in this city on October 1 will be the first occasion on which these youthful orators will be heard together on American soil. They have toured eight European countries, Canada and Mexico, but have not heretofore come together in the United States at a public gathering. From Chicago, the national spokesmen will go to Washington to compete in the final meeting for the 1926 international oratorical contest in the presence of the most prominent officials in the national capital. At the meeting in Washington the winner will be given a handsome silver loving cup which carries with it the international speaking championship for 1926.

The speakers are limited to ten minutes, each one dealing with his own governmental institutions, their subjects being as follows: William Meaden Newton, "The British Empire;" Henri Rubidon, "The French Government;" Jose Munos-Cota, "Bolivar and the Latin American Republics;" Herbert Moran, "Canada's Part in the New World," and Herbert Wenig, "The Constitution of the United States."

Each speaker will speak in his native tongue, so that the audience will have the privilege of hearing three brief speeches in English, one in Spanish and one in French, by 18-year-old boys who have proven themselves to be pre-eminent as public speakers among those of their own age in a competition in which the ablest and most ambitious boys and girls in five nations have taken part. One of the most interesting features of the meetings in which these speakers have participated has been the opportunity furnished for comparing the tonal value of the three languages used. For the benefit of those who do not understand French and Spanish, programs containing English translations of the French and Mexican speeches will be made available so that they can follow the sense as well as the sound of the speeches.

BOYS' BIOGRAPHIES

The international finalists who are to be heard at the luncheon on October 1 have distinguished themselves in other lines than those of oratory. The English spokesman, William Meadon Newton, has been awarded a scholarship at Balliol College, Oxford University, for distinguished accomplishments in history. He holds a number of gold medals for prizes in history, French, Latin and English and is one of the best athletes among English secondary school pupils. He is 18 years of age, born of English parents, lives in Liverpool and is 5ft. 11in. in height. Henri Rubidon, 16, lives in Paris, has distinguished himself in his secondary school work and will enter the Sorbonne, perhaps the most famous university in the world, this fall.

Jose Munos-Cota, 18, is from the National Preparatory School of Mexico City, is president of the Students' Federation of Mexico and speaks English and French in addition to Spanish. He has distinguished himself by various articles contributed to Mexican newspapers on philosophical and historical subjects. Herbert Moran, 18, of Toronto High School, Toronto, Can., is a sturdy athlete and an excellent scholar. He will enter McGill University this fall. Herbert Wenig, 18, is the president of the student body of the Hollywood High School, Los Angeles, and is a good track man in addition to making high grades in all his classes. He will enter Leland Stanford University late in October.

Michigan School Head Cited for Neglect of Duty

DETROIT, Sept. 26. (AP)—Thomas E. Johnson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has been cited to appear for a hearing October 6, next, on charges of malfeasance and misconduct in office and wilful neglect of duty. Gov. Groesbeck announced here that charges in writing, signed by L. T. Hands, commissioner of the State Insurance Department, had been laid before him, and that a copy of them had been given the State police for service.

Hands charged that Johnson "is wholly unfit to execute properly the duties of the office," that he had "unlawfully and corruptly appropriated to his own use certain moneys, under the claim and guise of salaries."

CRASH INJURIES FATAL

SAN JOSE, Sept. 26. (AP)—Peter Bonacich of Los Gatos, who with his wife and two children was injured several days ago when his automobile overturned on the Santa Cruz highway near Los Gatos, died at the County Hospital. The other three will recover.

In spite of the hazards of the Far North it is said that 87 per cent of Arctic explorers have returned alive.

DAUGHERTY MAY MOUNT STAND

Miller Also Likely to Testify in Own Behalf

Seventy-five Witnesses so Far Called by Government

Prosecution Expects to End Its Case Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Entering its fourth week tomorrow, the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial in Federal court has as its chief interest the possibility that either or both the defendants personally may take the stand as part of the defense's strategy.

In its effort to convict former Atty.-Gen. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, once Alien Property Custodian, the government tried to establish a record in documentary evidence. Seventy-five witnesses have been heard, some of them two and three times, and these have identified 227 exhibits, comprising hundreds of separate items.

Checks from banks in Cincinnati, Washington Courthouse, O., Wilmington, Del., Cleveland and New York are included, as well as transportation vouchers, ledger sheets, letters and other excerpts from official and private files to furnish identification numbers. The alphabet has been exhausted several times, one of the latest being labelled "No. 201AA."

Only one or two witnesses remain to be called by the prosecution and U. S. Dist.-Atty. Buckner has expressed confidence he will close his case tomorrow.

Mr. Buckner holds he has successfully traced $124,000 to Daugherty and $50,000 to Miller of the $441,000 "fee" admittedly paid by Richard Merton, German agent of the Swiss claimants, for assistance in releasing $7,000,000 sequestered alien funds.

VALENTINO NEAR SUICIDE

Senor Masses, Artist Friend of Sheik, Declares He Prevented Death Effort After Divorce

PARIS, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—That Rudolph Valentino was so despondent over his being divorced by Winifred Hudnut, known to the motion-picture fans as Natcha Rambova, that he attempted to commit suicide at his Los Angeles home, but was prevented by timely intervention, was the startling revelation made today to the film star's Paris friends by Senor Fredirico Beltrum y Masses, celebrated Spanish painter.

The artist said that he snatched the revolver from Valentino as he was on the verge of pulling the trigger and Rudolph collapsed in his arms weeping. Senor Beltrum was Valentino's guest and adviser.

"I loved them, one as much as the other," the painter said of Rudolph and Natcha. "Their discord gave me great sorrow. He thought with his head and she with her heart. I counseled them to go patient but it could not continue.

"Immediately after the divorce Valentino wanted to commit suicide. I found him one morning with a revolver in his hand and his will already written, on the verge of the fatal gesture. I tore the weapon from him and threw it into a drawer, crying, 'that is idiotic.' Rudolph realized then that it was and threw himself into my arms weeping.

"Ever since that day Rudolph called me his brother. I loved him as a real brother."

THIRTY-THIRD DEGREE GIVEN 104 MASONS

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Sept. 26. (AP)—The thirty-third degree has been conferred upon 104 candidates by the Supreme Council, Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry, at its one hundred and fourteenth convention here. The list includes Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts and Samuel M. Goodyear, Carlisle, Pa.

French Losing Cookery Art, Gourmet Says

PARIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Paul Descamps, noted gourmet and author, who has written more than a column on the matter in La Fonda, the daily newspaper of the feminists, says that French cookery is on the decline.

M. Descamps finds that in most restaurants, as well as in the village inns and homes, food of little distinction, prepared hurriedly and with an idea to quantity rather than quality, has taken the place of the famous dishes of a generation ago.

Woman's many present-day activities, taking her out of the home for all but a few hours each day, are blamed by M. Descamps for the gradual extinction of the fine domestic art of cookery.

Patrons of restaurants, with the hurry and bustle of modern life ingrained in them, demand quick meals, and chefs who used to spend loving minutes in preparation of some favorite sauce, now hustle together the ingredients, he says.

HUNTER SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

RED BLUFF, Sept. 26. (AP)—While deer-hunting with two companions in Log Springs district, a few miles west of Paskenta, Orenzo Wilder, Jr., of Corning, was shot in the back of the head and killed. While details are lacking, it is believed he was mistaken for a deer by one of his two companions.

The revenue from the estate tax increased by $14,619,269.89, the total collections from this source amounting to $116,041,096.09 as compared with $101,421,766.20 in the fiscal year, 1925. Revenue from the gift tax, which was repealed effective January 1, last, fell off from $7,518,129.32 in the fiscal year, 1925, to $3,175,338.73 in 1926.

ADDITIONAL INCREASES

Other boosts in tax revenues included an increase of $35,419,287.91 in revenue from tobacco taxes; $14,574,028.51 from excise, stamp and special taxes, and $533,514.16 from distilled spirits. There was increase of about $15,000,000 in the revenue from automobile taxes. The capital stock tax on corporations, which was repealed, effective July 1, last, yielded $97,385,755.61 in the fiscal year, 1926, or an increase of $7,383,161.05 over 1925, when the total was $90,002,594.56. Collections from all miscellaneous taxes showed a net increase of $30,414,832.

One of the principal decreases in miscellaneous tax collections was from the admission tax to theaters and other places of amusement, which fell off by $6,927,123.43, total collections from this source being $23,980,676.86, as against $30,907,809.09. This was more of a decrease than anticipated in view of the fact that the only change in the law was an increase in the exemption from 50 to 75 cents, effective March 29, last.

REFUNDS TOTAL

The expenditures in administering the internal revenue tax laws for the fiscal year 1926 were $34,946,483.37, not including expenditures for refunding internal revenue collections and taxes illegally collected. The cost of operation for the fiscal year 1926 was 1.23 for each $100 collected, compared with $1.44 for each $100 collected for the fiscal year 1925, or a reduction of 14.6 per cent.

New York ranked first among the States in total internal revenue collection, Pennsylvania being second, Michigan third and Illinois fourth.

The New York total collections in the fiscal year 1926 amounted to $733,729,733.66; Pennsylvania, $252,317,837.75; Michigan, $225,629,148.44, and Illinois, $216,719,787.42.

Next in order were: North Carolina, $192,403,633.94; Ohio, $155,755,622.72; California, $135,060,004.93; Massachusetts, $118,847,761.41, and New Jersey, $112,371,336.01.

CHURCH OUT OF BUDGETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Disappearance of church expenses as a major item in the American family budget is seen by Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, as "another proof of the weakening influence of religious modernism."

This change in the family budget recently was brought out through a report from Cornell Agricultural College, which gave the actual expenses of two generations of the same family. In 1880 the major expenses of the family were food, clothing, children and church, while in 1926 the church dropped out as a comparative major item.

"Modernism," said the fundamentalist leader in a statement on the subject, "has no positive religious message for the people, and therefore it is of no value. Wherever modernism prevails vital interest in religion wanes, and it is but a matter of time until all support of organized religion will cease, should modernism become really dominant.

"An individual who has been truly regenerated by the supernatural power of God through the preaching of Bible truths, would not only be willing, but enthusiastic in the support of that truth that others may receive the blessings which have come to him.

"But any secular society or mere reform agency could do the work that modernistic so-called religion essays to do, and therefore, while large sums of money may be obtained for the support of a religious establishment because of tradition or family influence, or a desire to help what is regarded as a good cause, nevertheless, the devotion of the masses to the churches will weaken and finally die unless there is a return to a faith in the tremendous truths of revealed religion."

ENGLISH STRIKE LOSS SET AT $970,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, estimates that the direct loss up to the present time on output alone in the protracted British coal tie-up probably is not less than $970,000,000. Sir Phillip, in a speech here on the coal situation, also said that there were additional indirect losses which no one could estimate.

This Most Convenient Electric Washer

—fits on stationary tubs

Requires No Floor Space

Royal fastens on your sanitary stationary tubs. No machine in your way or to shove around when used.

No Water to Handle

Just turn the faucet for all the hot or cold water desired, pull the plug when through.

Cleaner Clothes

Your clothes will be getting gently washed with a natural hand washing motion, and then you rinse by power in clean hot water. Rinsing is as important as washing. Using power for both washing and rinsing means cleaner clothes.

Simple to Operate

And it's all so simple. You just place the wash, a few pieces or many in the tub, turn the faucets for all the hot or cold water you need, put in your soap, turn the electric switch and—that's all.

Sanitary

Your porcelain enameled lined stationary tub is the logical place to wash—it stays clean and sanitary, zinc, tin, copper, aluminum bath tubs and laundry trays are practically unknown today for the good reason.

STUDENTS QUIT LATIN QUARTER

Americans May Join Others in New Dormitories

Old Sorbonne May Replace Picturesque Area

United States Requested to Provide Edifices

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—American students of the Latin Quarter in Paris may soon join the students of other nations in leaving their picturesque haunts for a dormitory of their own in the new "University Village" of the Old Sorbonne. This is the hope of Paul Lapie, president of the University of Paris, who is in New York now at the close of a visit to this country in the interests of international education.

The old center of learning, where in the middle ages the brilliant, heretical Abelard expounded the scriptures to his pupils, seated on straw, has come into a Renaissance that has made it once more a magnet, drawing young scholars of every nation, the learned president, a doctor in philosophy, declared.

"Today there are in Paris 2000 American students, most of them centering their studies in the Sorbonne," he said. "They are loved by their French fellow students. The anti-American tourist demonstrations this summer had no bearing on the situation between French people and American students.

"These demonstrations took place in Montmartre, the night life section of Paris, and were started by Americans throwing handfuls of coin into crowds of self-respecting French people, as though to throw largesse to a crowd of beggars. It was insulting and it was naturally resented. But the resentment in no way touched the splendid, warm-hearted industrious American students."

The project described by M. Papie, in which America is being urged to take a part, is that of providing a group of national dormitories built on a site that was formerly part of the old city walls. A French endowment has already built a group of dormitories housing 350 French students, in the "cite universitair" of Paris. Canada, Belgium, England and Argentina, through gifts of wealthy countrymen, have made arrangements for the housing of a number of their students so that in all 1200 of the university's 22,000 are housed in dormitories on American plan. Ambassador Herrick is among those working for America's participation in the plan. An option on a site already has been obtained.

In this country, M. Lapie, besides attending the congress of philosophers at Cambridge last week, visited leading American universities and arranged for extension of the exchange of students between France and America.

"Fifteen young women from our university are at this moment on their way to colleges in this country," he said. "It is a great ideal, that of developing friendliness between the young people of the world. They are very much the same in every country. Let them share their enthusiasm for sports, for each other's literatures, philosophies and scientific contributions and out of the sharing will come a new international understanding and the world-wide advancement of science and social development."

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Número 470

En el último párrafo de la Plática 468 dice "puedere" por "puede" y "uno sola" por "una sola." En el segundo de la 469 dice "Al ver la cosa" por "Al ver la costa," y en el último, "enépoca" por "en época."

La versión inglesa del pasaje de Cervantes citado al final de la Plática 469, es: "Thus discoursing, they arrived at the foot of a lofty mountain, which stood alone, almost like a hewn rock, among many other surrounding ones: a smooth little brook flowed by its skirt, and there throve over its rotundity so green and luxuriant a meadow, that it filled the beholding eye with delight: many wild trees were to be seen there, as well as some plants and flowers, which rendered the place quite restful. The Knight of the Rueful Countenance (of the Ill-Favoured Face, of the Woeful Figure) made choice of this spot to accomplish thereon his penance, and, on viewing it, he began to say in a loud voice, etc."

Los caracteres generales del paisaje descrito eran seguramente los mismos cuando Cervantes los refería en su relato, y casi indudablemente lo son aún en la actualidad; sin embargo, el narrador hace uso de imperfectos para indicar que ese paisaje lo contemplaban sus personajes en época pasada. No sería incorrecto sustituir esos imperfectos por presentes de indicativo; pero el relato saldría perdiendo mucho en intención y elegancia.

Sabedor ya el estudiante de las principales diferencias entre el imperfecto y el pretérito, pruebe a determinar qué modificación de sentido acarrearía el decir "Llegaban en estas pláticas al pie de la montaña," en vez de "Llegaron en estas pláticas, etc."

Es importante la siguiente observación del señor Bello sobre el imperfecto o copretérito: Poniendo al copretérito en relación con el pretérito, ¿se pueden expresar con él, no sólo las cosas que todavía subsisten, sino las verdades de duración indefinida o eterna? ¿Y no será impropio decir: "Copérnico probó que la tierra giraba alrededor del sol?" Si es exacta la idea que acabo de dar del copretérito, la expresión es perfectamente correcta. Podría tolerarse "gira"; mas entonces no veríamos por entre la mente de Copérnico el giro eterno de la tierra, como el sentido lo pide.

Cabrá, por último, estas observaciones del señor Salvá sobre el uso del imperfecto, o pretérito coexistente, como él le llama:

Empleamos el pretérito coexistente para denotar los destinos, ocupaciones, costumbres, etc., habituales de toda la vida, en contraposición del absoluto (pretérito), con el que solemos señalar los eventuales o pasajeros, según se ve claro en estos ejemplo: "Cicerón era orador elocuente," y "Cicerón fue cuestor." Puede, sí, suplir el absoluto al coexistente, pero no al revés; porque si está bien dicho, "Cicerón fue grador elocuente," no lo está de seguro, "Cicerón era cuestor," anunciando asís secas y sin algunos de los acontecimientos relativos a su cuestura, como si añadiésemo, "cuando Roma padeció escasez de trigo."

Se echa mano, por fin, del pretérito coexistente en la narración, a fin de comunicar mayor interés y vida a los hechos, representándolos como más inmediatos o más enlazados a la época actual. En el opúsculo intitulado "Elogio fúnebre de los valencianos que murieron en la tarde del 28 de Junio de 1808," después de exponerse en presente de indicativo todos los males que Napoleón fraguaba, prosigue felizmente el autor usando del coexistente: "El tirano de la humanidad contaba para conquistarse con vuestra corrupción política . . . . Ignoraba que en las dinastías anteriores, etc." ¡Cuánta más alma tiene este giro que si dijera: "El tirand de la humanidad contó . . . . ignoró que, etc.!"

Dos párrafos más adelante topamos con esta cláusula en el artículo de Fernández-Flórez: "Sin mi neurastenia—lo comprendo con diafanidad—hubiese seguido siempre paseando por aquella acera." Antes de censurar la construcción principal, estimo de justicia hacer notar al estudiante lo expresivo de la oración intercalar, "lo comprendo con diafanidad," qué vale "lo comprendo con absoluta claridad," por cuanto "diafanidad" (diaphanousness) es la calidad de los cuerpos diáfanos, esto, es, de los que dejan pasar la luz casi en su totalidad, como el cristal de roca.

Hay que criticarle en cambio a Fernández-Flórez la práctica de usar la forma en "se" del imperfecto de subjuntivo en la opódosis de los períodos condicionales, como se observa en el que dejamos citado, que equivale a "Si no hubiese tenido neurastenia, HUBIESE seguido siempre paseando, etc.", y en esta otra, que encontramos algunos párrafos adelante: "Si yo no estuviese inmóvil a consecuencia de un concienzudo razonamiento, me HUBIESE detenido para no participar de aquel ajetreo inútil." En ambas debe sustituirse la forma "hubiese," de la opódosis, por "hubiera" o "habría," para arrimarse al uso de los buenos escritores.

Que ese uso lo conoce perfectamente nuestro articulista, no obstante despegarse de él en ocasiones, lo prueba el hecho de que encontramos en distintas partes de su artículo estos períodos condicionales bien construídos: "Si alguien me preguntase, '¿qué haces allí?', yo CONTESTARIA soberbiamente, etc."; "Si ustedes lo viesen se RETORCERIAN de risa;" "Si yo la conociese a ella, le DIRIA, etc."; "Si todos consiguiésemos ver en vida nuestro esqueleto y los de los demás, SERIAMOS mejores."

La regla a que obedece la construcción de los períodos condicionales de negación implícita, nos la expone claramente la Gramática de la Academia Española: I. Cuando la condición se refiere al presente o al futuro, empleamos en la prótasis el pretérito imperfecto de subjuntivo; así: "Si yo temiera o temiese;" y en la opódosis, la forma en "ra" del mismo pretérito imperfecto, o el potencial simple: "también temieras o temerías tú."

II. Cuando la condición se refiere al pasado, empleamos en la prótasis el pluscuamperfecto de subjuntivo, o sea las formas verbales compuestas correspondientes a las simples del primer caso así: "Si yo hubiera o hubiese temido;" y en la opódosis, las formas compuestas correspondientes a las simples de la opódosis del primer caso, o el potencial simple: "hubieras o habrías temido tú también, o temerías tú, también."

Para ejercicio de mis lectores transcribo a continuación algunos ejemplos de períodos condicionales de negación implícita o condición imposible (condition contrary to fact), tomados de la obra del Prof Ramsay, para que prueben a verterlos al castellano, y luego comparen sus versiones con las correctas, que aparecerán en mi próxima Plática:

1. We arrived at the the station a little late, and if the train had not been twenty minutes behind time, on account of a slight accident, we should have had to postpone our departure until the following day, which would have caused us much annoyance. 2. If there were a breeze, we wouldn't feel the heat so much.— 3. Yes, indeed; but the wind would raise a dust that would blind us.— 4. If tailors and dressmakers did not have the power to change fashions at their will every years later, when she was eleven, and a junior in high school—the Gardner School for Girls, New York City, from which she was graduated in May of this year—she wrote a 3000 word short story, called "Homesteaders," a realistic story of the West, which was published in her school annual, Milestones. The heads of the school pronounced it the best

BEGINS MAGAZINE WORK

In the meantime, I was gaining strength rapidly. I went to California weighing only ninety-four pounds, but within three months had reached 118. I had only one friend in Los Angeles—a college chum. It was unable to get work on the newspapers. By answering an advertisement, I obtained a secretarial position, which rapidly developed into an assistant managership, with a salary to match. But I was not happy in commercial work, and when the opportunity came to take a minor position on Screenland, a motion-picture magazine published in Hollywood, I cheerfully gave up the very good salary I was making, and went back to writing. I was determined that the position should not long be a minor one.

In August Elizabeth made the long journey from New Mexico to California alone, and no mother was ever more glad to see a child. During those months of separation I had come to realize how much I depended upon her love for me, how necessary it was for me to have some one on whom I could lavish tenderness and care. But I confess that I felt something akin to dismay when she hurtled herself into my arms. She had grown so fat and tall that I hardly recognized her. I made her weigh herself right then and there, and we were both astounded when the scales registered 102 pounds.

BUTTERMILK "GUZZLER"

"Too much buttermilk," she giggled. "I guess you'll make me reduce."

Which, as "little Benny" says, I did. But it was not an easy task. She had grown accustomed to taking more food than she really needed, and her fat was the most unmelting kind I have ever seen. Her face still looked like that of a cherubic infant, but her body was enormous for a child not yet nine years of age. Although I was able to reduce her weight ten pounds in the first three months after her arrival in California, by giving her almost nothing but fruit and vegetables, she was still too large for her age—and still is. There must have been some extremely potent vitamines in that buttermilk she had been guzzling in New Mexico!

Hollywood fascinated her with its color, its exotic houses, its movie studios. My work on Screenland gave me entree into the studios, of course, and she was never happier than when watching her favorites perform before the camera. A few of the stars talked with her, found her interesting, unusual, and had their pictures taken with her, to her unbounded delight. But she seemed to lack the element of conceit in her composition, for I never heard her brag about these adventures to any one. She seemed then, as now, to expect delightful things to happen to her, and to accept them with all the poise and ease of a woman of the world.

The latter part of August I made inquiries of the Los Angeles Board of Education as to where Elizabeth should enroll for the eighth grade. When I mentioned her age—8 years and 11 months—I was met with scoffing disbelief that she could possibly be qualified for the eighth grade. I had grown to expect this opposition, and offered her for examination. The psychology department refused to accept the report made by Miss Clara Mallory of Beaumont, showing that Elizabeth had an "I. Q." of 202 plus. They demanded that she be given the Terman tests in their own offices.

The results of this test made Elizabeth a nine days wonder—a newspaper sensation.

STORY of ELIZABETH

by her mother

Anne Austin

(Copyright, 1926, in United States and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

Motherhood or a career? This great problem of women, leaving their "teens has been solved by Miss Anne Austin, who chose both. She has edited four national magazines and by writing has earned a living for herself and her daughter. At 30 she sees her 12-year-old Elizabeth ready for college next fall a champion of intelligence, record-holder in all of the best known tests.

Miss Austin and her husband, Elizabeth's father, were separated shortly after the child's birth. How the mother finished her college work, reared Elizabeth to be a charming, healthy girl and a champion of intelligence at 12, and kept her own charm and freshness through the struggles of an extraordinary career is told in this series of fifteen articles written exclusively for the Los Angeles Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Elizabeth Benson, Miss Austin's daughter, possesses an intelligence quotient of 214 per cent—more than double the normal quotient—by the Binet-Simon Intelligence test. She has scored the highest marks ever achieved in the Terman Group Intelligence test, the Otis test and the Miller test for mental ability.

Miss Austin's own story is an epic of motherhood and of human life. Her fresh and vigorous philosophy is backed by the authority of achievement.

XI. IN HOLLYWOOD

Although Elizabeth again changed in a hospital in Austin, she did not schools when I sent her to Waco to lose ground; in fact, she gained, for upon examination, insisted upon by the incredulous school principal, she was found to be ready for the latter half of the seventh grade, although she had been in the first half of it only one month.

I can't imagine how she did it. I have never been able to understand how she accumulated actual "book learning" so much faster than other children, when she received no help at all outside of the schoolroom. The only explanation I have ever been able to get from Elizabeth herself was:

"Oh, I read to the end of the book instead of just where we're supposed to be."

Since it took her only a very few minutes to master a lesson in any text book, she employed the remaining minutes of her study periods in reading ahead of her class, and in trying her hand at arithmetic problems which looked fascinatingly hard, away at the end of the book.

I think she did it to keep from being bored; I know she had no definite plan to get ahead of the others, for she has never seemed to be at all ambitious. In fact, all of her school life she has apparently never studied really hard, has never studied at home until her senior year at high school, and has never been detected by any teacher in the act of "digging."

8-YEAR-OLD HOUSEKEEPER

"I remained in the hospital in Austin for four interminable months, a major operation being performed after I had been there eight weeks. My doctors had taken it upon themselves to resign for me my position with the Texas newspaper syndicate soon after I went to the hospital, and when I went to Waco in May, it was as a jobless, almost penniless, very weak and thin young woman, yearning for a sight of her child. The syndicate had generously paid my salary the whole time I was in the hospital, or I could never have weathered the dreadful period.

Although school would not close for another month, I could not wait in Waco for that event. Elizabeth was given special examinations on her high seventh-grade work, and passed them brilliantly, making her usual A average. She was then just 8½ years of age. She had taken her first course in domestic science—sewing and cooking—and was jubilant over her accomplishments in biscuit-making, pie-baking and apron-designing. I shall never forget the look of ineffable joy with which she watched me eat a wedge of pumpkin pie, made by her own small hands.

WINS HEARTS

Two of the teachers wept when they told her good-by; and the seventh-grade children showered her with fruit and flowers. It is a day that stands out glowingly in my memory, for it proved to me that my child was winning her way into other hearts, not as a precocious mental freak, but as a lovable, loving and considerate person. For the first time in her school life she had been wholeheartedly accepted by her school mates, not as a baby, but as an equal.

I had been ordered by the doctors to go to California for my health, but had been advised not to try to take care of Elizabeth during the summer. I was to concentrate on getting well, and it was easy for them to see that I loved Elizabeth too much to take my responsibilities toward her lightly.

My relationship, by correspondence, with my former husband's family, whom I admired enormously, had never been severed. It was on the invitation of her paternal grandparents that Elizabeth stopped off in New Mexico for a long visit, while I continued on my way to California.

FARM-LIFE THRILLS

Her letters were full of her exciting new life. Once she wrote me, quite casually, "I rode over to the Allen's ranch today, all by myself. It is five miles. I galloped my horse."

MODIFIED DRY LAW PROPOSED

Prohibition League Reports Survey Findings

Further Restriction Advanced for Substitute

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) Some degree of temperance could be obtained by a "wise restrictive law" rather than by a bone-dry law, is the conclusion announced today by officials of the Moderation League, an organization opposed to the present law, following its national survey of prohibition conditions during the year of 1926.

Under its banner "the restoration of temperance," the league lists as members and members of its advisory board a number of nationally known figures drawn from every walk of life.

"Since we consider that drunkenness generally has increased to the present level, and that drunkenness and drunken children have been rife for above anything ever known before in this country, despite all reports, 'we cannot escape the conclusion that the Volstead law has failed utterly to do what it was intended to do, namely, promote temperance and sobriety.

SEES NO HOPE

"Further, since conditions have grown worse, not better, each year, we see no hope that the next generation drinking will be any better, there seems to be no hope that the Volstead Act, or any other drastic form can ever be made to serve its purpose.

"From the experience, before the adoption of the Eighteenth amendment, of the States and communities of the whole country during the years 1915-1919, from the experience of the Canadian Provinces and other countries, we believe that a system of temperance can be established by the restrictive law than by any law which does not have the support of a large part of the people.

"At the time of the firm conviction that a policy of wise restriction would be the fundamental advantage of almost entirely the suppression and bribery of public officials, would stop the growth of the overwhelming nationwide disrespect for law, and in addition, produce a handsome revenue."

MARS MAY REVEAL SECRETS

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Secrets of Mars may be learned before the end of next month, Prof. E. B. Frost of the Yerkes Observatory at the University of Chicago has declared.

During the latter part of October, he said, the planet will come within approximately 42,600,000 miles of the earth, and with the sun opposite, conditions will be most favorable for observation. However, the planet may not move to a favorable point until a week later, he said.

In July, 1924, the planet came even closer to the earth, but because of its position then conditions were not favorable for observations.

almost immediate curve upward with the advent of national prohibition. A startling increase in consumption of bootleg spirits in 1926 over 1924 is cited, the league basing its conclusion upon police figures covering arrests for drunkenness submitted from representative cities in every part of the nation.

Statements of police officials in various parts of the country are given to indicate the "distressing" increase in drinking under the Volstead Act of young boys and girls, and similar marked increases in the arrests of drunken automobile drivers.

WHEELER SAYS REPORT JUGGLES WITH FACTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League tonight described the Moderation League's "second annual screed against prohibition" as being "as foundationless as the first one." The Moderation League's report on a survey of prohibition conditions in more than 1500 cities was made public tonight in New York, comprising statistics and other information gathered since its review of the situation last year.

"It juggles figures," Mr. Wheeler said, "by ignoring increased population, failing to compare conditions now with licensed days and failing to take into account greater activity in arresting intoxicated persons.

"Of course, there are more drunken auto drivers arrested now than formerly because we now have over 30,000,000 automobiles, compared with a few thousand some years ago. The lie about increased drunkenness among youth was nailed by the recent survey made by the Literary Digest.

"If the dry States were half as bad off as this report asserts, the voters in these States would not continue to send solid delegations to Congress to strengthen national prohibition, and elect State legislators and public officials to uphold and enforce their State prohibition laws."

SNAKE BITE MAY BE FATAL

REDDING, Sept. 26. (AP)—The bite of a rattlesnake may prove fatal to Stanley Peruda, who was brought to the hospital here. After being bitten, Peruda killed the snake, sucked the blood from the wound and then walked five miles to town.

WIND RUINS COTTON AND NUT CROPS

Reports Flow in of Heavy Damage Done by Storm in Gulf Region

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive) — Reports from correspondents in different towns of the State indicate the wide territory in which the wind took a huge toll of damage to the crops. Cotton, much of which was unpicked, bore the brunt of the wind. Butler county estimates its loss at $250,000. Farmers of Covington county report that one-third of the entire crop was in the field when the wind struck and was blown to the ground.

Pike county estimates its crop damage at $500,000. In Geneva county half the cotton had been picked before the storm and that which was left in the fields was blown to the ground and otherwise badly damaged. Crenshaw county places an approximate estimate of its cotton damage at from $100,000 to $200,000.

Central Alabama was blown off the map. Trees and 10 per cent of the pecan trees were blown down and destroyed. In the recent storm, is the estimate of Clifton Kirkpatrick of Selma, president of the Alabama Pecan Growers' Exchange and first vice-president of the National Pecan Growers' Exchange, who was in Montgomery Friday.

Pecan crops in South Alabama, especially in Mobile and Baldwin counties, Alabama and Jackson county, Mississippi, he said, suffered very heavily. Mr. Kirkpatrick expects to make a report of conditions at the annual meeting of the National Pecan Growers' Exchange at Albany, Ga., next Tuesday.

MISSIONARY, NOT WOMEN, HONAN PREY

Shekichen Advices State Davies Taken by Bandits; Wife and Aide Escape

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26. (AP)—Advices to the China Inland Mission from Shekichen, Honan, sacked by native bandits, are that Freeman Davies, the missionary, was captured, but Mrs. Davies and Miss Poppins, associated in the work of the mission, escaped. Earlier advices were that the marauders had burned the city, destroyed the mission buildings and carried off the two foreign women.

Previous reports from Shanghai said, the newspaper China Press reported a serious outbreak of organised banditry in Honan Province in which thousands of the inhabitants of Shekichen had been slaughtered when the town was sacked and burned. The establishment owned by the China Inland Mission in that city was reported destroyed and the two women missionaries were said to have been carried off into captivity.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The northern Chinese forces recaptured Nancheng, capital of Kiangsi Province, from the southern, forces today, indicating the stiffening of the northern resistence to the previously unobstructed southern advance. It also is reported that the northerners, assisted by Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, are organizing a force in Shantung Province for the purpose of dispatching them to Hankow to drive out the Cantonese.

BIG FOOTBALL SQUAD

A new record number of football candidates turned out at Pomona College this year. Ninety-two varsity and freshman players signed up and a dozen or more were unable to secure suits.

FRENCH PONZI DEALS IN PIGS

Director of "Own Your Own Porker" Enterprise and Aids Arrested in Raid on Luxurious Offices After Gathering in $695,000

PARIS, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—"Pigs which isn't pigs" is a French discovery that made a fortune for a flourishing French concern which collapsed after four years of operation when police raided the headquarters, arresting the director, Georges Ramond, and three of his collaborators.

The company, under the name "Porcheris Francaise," or "French Piggery," maintained luxurious offices downtown in Paris, advertising "own your pig. Your capital grows as your pig gets fat." It used propaganda that the pig purchased was cared for at the company's expense and sold at the end of three months' fattening process, netting profits of 25 to 30 per cent.

The company sold thousands of pigs in different parts of France, the subscription totaling close to 25,000,000 francs ($695,000,) the police believe.

The police, when they raided the asserted farm headquarters near St. Cloud, outside of Paris, found 180 pigs, seventy of which were listed as the personal property of the director. It is the theory of the authorities that these were the only animals owned by the concern and that they were sold and resold, some of them credited to some fifteen or twenty owners.

While some investors in the company received big returns, about a dozen out of fifteen owners of each pig received a terse notice saying: "We regret to inform you that your pig is dead."

Those stockholders filing suits were reimbursed, hushing up the scandal, but the police received too many protests.

WOMAN RECOVERING AFTER POISON DOSE

Because of financial difficulties, Mrs. Marie Gergan, 32 years of age, a widow, of 742 Garland street, yesterday swallowed poison, according to a police report. After treatment at Receiving Hospital by Dr. Dorn, she was taken to the General Hospital. Her recovery is expected.

Permanent Hair Part Given to Long Beach Man

LONG BEACH, Sept. 26.—P. F. O'Neil, a young accountant of 2632 East Second street, will have no difficulty parting his hair in the middle at any time in the future he desires to do so.

O'Neil was looking down the barrel of a borrowed 38 caliber revolver today, he told police, when he absentmindedly pulled the trigger. The ball plowed a neat furrow across O'Neil's scalp from front to rear. At Community Hospital several stitches were taken in the wound and he was sent home.

COLOMBIA COLONIZING

South American Republic Planning Agricultural Development

BOGOTA (Colombia) Sept. 26. (AP)—The Department of Industries has presented a measure to Congress for the colonization of government lands and calling for an appropriation to assist with money and farming implements.

At a public meeting of influential citizens, plans were drawn for the creation of a National Department of Agriculture, the establishment of schools in each State and the development of cattle raising.

There Is No Better Assurance of Complete Suit Satisfaction Than That Given by the Extra Pair of Pants!

Unparalleled Values!

Here, men, are the outstanding values in the history of the John Wright institution . . . here are tailored-to-measure values that exceed in worth anything ever offered before . . . and these "newer values" are the result of keen foresight on the part of the buyers of woolens for John Wright and their ability to purchase in BIG LOTS for cash. The savings on tremendous yardage purchases of fine woolens are reflected in the savings John Wright makes for his customers. They are rare values indeed that are offered for the Fall season and represent a quality that compares favorably with suits selling for a considerably higher price.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

One of the important things to remember is that John Wright backs up every suit he makes with his personal Iron-Clad Guarantee of "Complete Tailoring Satisfaction." More than 30,000 men in Los Angeles have become friends and boosters of John Wright because of the care which is exercised by the fitters and finishers in filling every requirement of theirs in these Two-Pants Suits. The Woolens are the best in both Imported and Domestic weaves. The finishings are decidedly of the highest character. If you want economy without sacrificing "class," in a real tailored-to-measure Two-Pants Suit, come up and make your selection from the great stock of new Fall woolens now on display.

Perfectly Tailored

In the great John Wright workshops none but the best craftsmen in the tailoring profession are employed. The men who produce the garments for John Wright customers are just as anxious to produce garments that meet with the approval of the wearer as the wearer is to have them RIGHT. Because of this fact John Wright is known throughout the length and breadth of the land as THE RIGHT TAILOR. Every one of these two-pants suits is perfectly tailored to your individual measure and finished in the same way as much higher priced garments.

There Is No Substitute

There is positively no substitute for these John Wright Two-Pants Suits at $34 and $44 . . . and men who have once become patrons of John Wright, realize through experience that there is by no means any better way to keep well dressed than by having that extra pair of pants. Such values are to be had only from the world's largest tailors, because of their ability to buy in large quantities and their ability to produce them in large numbers . . . and here at John Wright's you will find values that have established a leadership that is unbeatable.

Why California Days are short

TIME flies in Los Angeles. No one seems to know where, yet the explanation is simple. Minutes do not tarry where happiness and comfort exist.

In Los Angeles business life the Bureau of Power and Light contributes many of your comforts. Elevators fly faster—lighting is easier on the eyes—tasks are accomplished electrically. Everywhere dependable Bureau power is faithfully speeding the lagging hours of the day. And when the day is over, mind and body are better for it.

While the average person is unconscious of this service, yet it is a definite part of the Bureau of Power and Light's program to give particular consideration to the welfare of Los Angeles' commercial life.

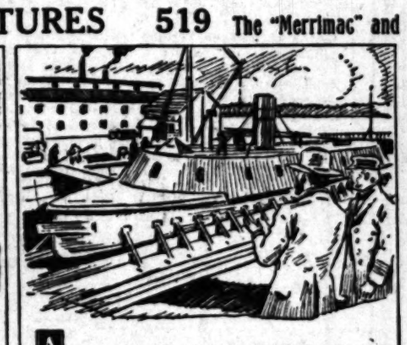
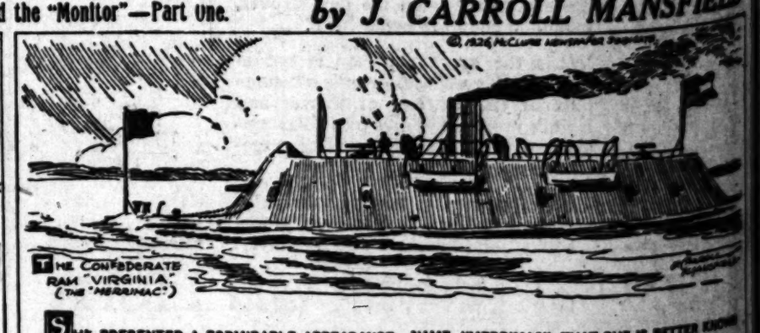
OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 519 The "Merrimac" and the "Monitor"—Part One. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHEN THE STATE OF VIRGINIA SECEDED FROM THE UNION AND JOINED THE CONFEDERACY, THE FEDERALS ABANDONED THE GREAT GOSPORT NAVY YARD NEAR NORFOLK. BEFORE THEIR DEPARTURE, THEY SET FIRE TO THE BUILDINGS AND BURNED AND SCUTTLED A NUMBER OF NAVAL VESSELS THAT COULD NOT BE REMOVED IN TIME (APRIL 20, 1861).



AFTER THE CONFEDERATES HAD TAKEN POSSESSION OF THE NAVY YARD THEY FOUND THAT THE "MERRIMAC", A FINE STEAM FRIGATE, HAD BEEN ONLY PARTIALLY DESTROYED. SHE WAS RAISED, PLACED IN DRYDOCK AND WORK WAS BEGUN TO TRANSFORM HER INTO A POWERFUL IRONCLAD RAM FROM DESIGNS OF CONFEDERATE NAVAL EXPERTS.



SHE PRESENTED A FORMIDABLE APPEARANCE WHEN COMPLETED. HER SLOPING IRON SIDES WERE INVULNERABLE TO CANNON FIRE AND HER HEAVY RIFLED GUNS AND IRON PROW FOR RAMMING MADE HER A DANGEROUS FIGHTING MACHINE. THE CONFEDERATES RENAMED HER THE "VIRGINIA", BUT IT IS BY HER ORIGINAL NAME, "MERRIMAC", THAT SHE IS BETTER KNOWN IN HISTORY. THE DESIGNERS OF THE RAM HAD MUCH FAITH IN HER FIGHTING ABILITY, BUT MANY SOUTHERNERS RIDICULED HER CONSTRUCTION AND SOME OF THE CONFEDERATE NEWSPAPERS PROPHESIED SHE WOULD BE A "PERFECT FAILURE."

DOWNTOWN CLUB
for BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

Deauville City Club

An absolutely new idea in metropolitan clubs—

Backed by a group of the city's strongest business men—

Offering $200 Founder Memberships at only $100 [plus tax]—

The club for the ultra-modern man and woman—an idea that has taken the town by storm!

THERE has never been anything like it before—yet it is just what thousands have long been wanting! It's the club of today for the men and women of today. And of course it was born in Los Angeles—the city that sets the pace for the nation!

JUST WHAT MEN WANT—All that any city club has offered to serve business men in business hours—for athletic purposes—and for social pastimes. In addition, it affords what no other club has ever offered—an opportunity for men to share its activities and advantages with their companions of the fair sex—for dinner, dancing, swimming or card parties—a brilliant business and social center.

JUST WHAT WOMEN WANT—A centrally located club which business women can use continuously to excellent advantage for lunches, appointments or entertainment. And for the woman who has leisure time, or whose principal activities are in the home, it is an ideal downtown rendezvous—for afternoon teas or bridge parties, for swimming and other athletic diversions, and for any and every kind of evening social affair!

Centrally located at Sixth and Flower, the Deauville City Club will be a height limit structure costing over $1,500,000 for the building alone. Whole floors will be given over to gymnasium, hand ball and squash courts, swimming pool with lockers for both men and women—Turkish and Russian baths for both men and women, bowling, pool, and card rooms, main dining room, large ballroom surrounded by alcoves and private dining rooms, grill, women's dining room, cafeteria, nursery in charge of trained nurse, and two entire floors for garage and parking space. Morgan, Walls & Clements have been engaged as architects, and the Scofield Engineering Co. as builders.

The offering of Founder Memberships at $100 is for a limited period only. The regular price is $200, which will be the figure as soon as this restricted preliminary allotment is exhausted. Memberships are transferable at any time after club opening, at minimum transfer fee.

Memberships must all be passed upon by the membership committee, which reserves the right to reject without explanation. To take advantage of the low price of $100 for membership, you should file your application at once!

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

METHODISTS IN ANNUAL MEETING

Southern California Conclave at Pasadena

National Questions Up For Discussion

Bishop Burns to Preside Over Sessions

PASADENA, Sept. 26. — Methodist pastors from all cities of Southern California and numerous speakers from other parts of the country will gather here this week for the fiftieth annual Southern California Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which will be held at the First Methodist Church of Pasadena, beginning Tuesday and continuing until Monday of next week.

Prohibition enforcement, Bible teaching in the public schools, home and foreign missionary work and many religious topics will be discussed by the convention. A number of anniversary meetings, celebrating the semicentennial of the conference, will be held by the various groups which form the conference.

Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of San Francisco, will preside at the convention, and Dr. Merle N. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, is in charge of local arrangements. The Maryland Hotel will be Bishop Burns's headquarters, and most of the delegates will be housed in private homes.

Dr. George Elliott of New York, editor of the Methodist Bimonthly Review, the oldest Methodist publication in the country, has already arrived in the city for the convention and will be one of its chief speakers.

Dr. Elliott has been a Methodist minister for fifty-two years, and is one of the oldest pastors in the church in length of service. He preached in the First Methodist Church here this morning and will address the conference each day. The review which he edits is in its 109th year of publication.

ASSESS HEAVY FINES

Huntington Park Men Guilty of Liquor Violations

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 26.—Charles Rudy and E. L. Freeman, both residents of Live Oak street, in the Tract 2509 addition to the city, will hereafter have to be on their good behavior, or they will be compelled to each pay heavy fines, which were suspended yesterday by City Judge Louis Rudway of the local court.

The two men were captured in a raid made by the local police and both were charged with possession of intoxicating liquor and attempting to destroy evidence. Following their hearing, which was Friday, the judge announced that he would take the matter under consideration and would announce his verdict twenty-four hours later, which he did yesterday.

Rudy was sentenced to pay $500 on one count and $300 on the other count. The $300 fine and $250 of the other fine were suspended on condition of future good behavior. Freeman was fined $250 for possession and a fine of $300 for destroying evidence, the latter fine being suspended.

The officers a few hours before the raid were given a tip and, under the director of Police Chief Will Hultquist, they captured the two men, who were in the act of selling to a third party, according to the police. Both men pleaded guilty when brought before the judge.

MINISTER RECOVERS

Business Men Volunteer Blood for Transfusion

MONROVIA, Sept. 26.—Dr. John W. Haman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was reported much improved today and recovering from a serious operation performed at the Huntington Hospital Monday last. A blood transfusion was resorted to yesterday in an effort to build up his weakened constitution.

Fourteen members of local lodges and service clubs, to which the popular minister belongs, volunteered to give blood for the transfusion and E. F. Eisbell, Monrovia business man, was selected by attending physicians.

Dr. Haman collapsed three months ago and was under hospital treatment for weeks in preparation for this operation, which is expected to restore him to health. He is one of the Southland's most prominent ministers and was moderator of the Los Angeles presbytery at the time his health failed.

CHANGE DIRECTORS OF NATIONAL BANK

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 26.—William C. Harvey and Malcolm Crown, two temporary directors of the new City National Bank, have resigned, their resignations having been accepted, and Louis H. Hamilton of the Huntington Park Mercantile Finance Company, and K. L. Stockton, principal of the Huntington Park Union High School, have been selected to fill the vacancies.

The new bank will open here October 8 in temporary quarters. Plans and specifications are being prepared for a new bank building to occupy a prominent lot in the 200-block on South Pacific Boulevard, which the bank recently purchased.

ACCEPTS CALL AS ASSISTANT PASTOR

MONROVIA, Sept. 26.—Assuming his new duties October 1, Rev. Douglas Ryan, recent graduate of the University of Southern California, will become assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church here, succeeding Rev. C. S. Reynolds, who will be assigned a full-time charge during the Methodist conference in Pasadena this week.

TO SUBMIT PLANS

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 26.—Certified architects have been asked to submit plans for the $50,000 expansion improvement of the Santa Monica Public Library Building, the Santa Monica Planning Commission having decided on extending invitations for plans.

SHORT CROP OF WALNUTS IS REPORT

First Picking Arrives at Packing-House in Orange County City

ANAHEIM, Sept. 26.—This year's walnut season was formally begun yesterday when doors of the Anaheim Walnut Growers' Association packing-house were thrown open to receive the first consignments of nuts from groves of the district, Walter J. Ross, manager of the house, reported this morning.

Opening of the house this year is just one week later than last year, when the first nuts were received on September 17. Shipping last year began on September 22, whereas the first car of nuts is not expected to be put on the rails this season before October 1.

Mr. Ross said very few nuts have so far been received and harvesting is expected to continue slowly for the next few weeks, the peak of the season not being expected before November 1, he said.

Cracking of some of the early arrivals has revealed only fair with considerable mold and worm damage evidenced. The first nuts of the season are never of the highest quality, however, and better results are expected when the season is more fully advanced, Mr. Ross said. Final estimates of the Anaheim crop have not been completed, but indications still are from those already made, though the yield this year will fall below 30 per cent of last year's phenomenal record. Prices are to be correspondingly greater though the actual prices to be paid will not be set by the central association until October 6.

Council May Force Through New Highway

ARCADIA, Sept. 26.—Heirs of the E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin estate will give a decision on proposed extensions of highways through that famous ranch by October 6 or the Arcadia City Council will attempt to force through such improvements under the Mattoon Act. This ultimatum was laid down at a special meeting of the city board last night by Mayor A. N. Muiter, who stated that "city officials were tired of the continual delays attributed to the Baldwin interests."

The proposed improvements include extension of Colorado avenue, Pasadena, to connect with Orange avenue in Arcadia and Monrovia; extension of Huntington Drive, north of the Pacific Electric tracks to connect with East Huntington Drive at Santa Anita avenue; and removal of all restrictions on the extension of Baldwin avenue from Huntington Drive through the ranch to Foothill Boulevard.

A tentative agreement to these plans was submitted to the Council by Baldwin attorneys ten days ago, lacking only the authorized signature of Mrs. Anita Baldwin, who is in Paris. Cabled approval of the plans has been expected daily, but has not arrived, and the Council set their next regular meeting date as a "dead-line" for acceptance or rejection.

LEAVES HIS SEAT

Surprised Autoist Refuses to Ride In His Own Car

COALINGA, Sept. 26.—A badly frightened man was H. E. Hushaw, manager of the D. & B. Pump and Supply Company of this city, when, while driving his roadster to Fresno there were two loud explosions directly under the cushion on which he was sitting. He instantly left the moving car but states he does not know how, the blast probably helping his speed.

The car ran only a short distance and stopped. Recovering from his fright Hushaw returned to the car, finding the cushion on fire. Another car came by and its occupants assisted Hushaw to put out the fire, which had destroyed all the upholstery.

Hushaw received several bad cuts on his legs and some blisters. His only explanation of the explosion he states, is that two shotgun shells had slipped unnoticed down under the cushion, while he was on a dove hunt. He threw out a lighted cigarette and it must have blown back into the car. The fire from the cigarette burned through one of the paper shells, or the cushion might have caught fire and caused the shells to explode.

WHITTIER BIDS FOR AVOCADO PLANT

WHITTIER, Sept. 26.—According to a statement of B. G. Martin, secretary of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce, the Quaker City will make a strong bid for the first avocado-packing plant in Southern California.

Plans were advanced and a committee appointed to confer with the Southern California Avocado Growers' Association pertaining to the plant which the association intends to build soon.

This committee is composed of L. C. Montgomery, whittier; Edwin C. Hart, Los Angeles, and Dr. H. C. Stonebrook of Pasadena and La Habra. Interest in the proposed plant will doubtless be stimulated by the fact that the association is planning a big annual field day at Carlsbad October 2, when growers from all parts of the State will be in attendance.

Whittier and vicinity has a large acreage planted to avocados and according to the local growers, this is the logical place for the avocado-packing plant.

RIFLE BULLET MAKES TOUR THROUGH HOUSE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 26.—While Leighton Burse of South Miles avenue, was cleaning a .32-caliber rifle yesterday afternoon, the gun exploded, the bullet doing a quite out-of-the-ordinary stunt. It made its way entirely through a garage and then passed through the kitchen and into the dining-room at the home of Mrs. Mary Drake, on East Saturn avenue. During its route, it severed the wire connecting the electric door bell at the Drake home.

SEES PROSPERITY COMING

Nationally Known Hotel Man Brings Report of Good Business in the East

PASADENA, Sept. 26.—Unprecedented good business conditions and interest in Southern California in the East assure the Southland that the next few months will inaugurate the most prosperous year in Southern California's history to date, in the opinion of D. M. Linnard, widely known California hotel man, who has just returned to his home here after an eastern business trip.

Evidences of continued prosperity throughout the country were characterized by Mr. Linnard as the most encouraging he has ever seen and he says that his hotels here and in Santa Barbara and San Francisco are preparing for the largest tourist influx they have ever experienced.

He expressed the belief that all Southern California is following the example of Los Angeles and is dispelling the old illusion about seasonal business fluctuations. "The Huntington Hotel," he declared, "in the first summer season that it has remained open has found that business can be maintained for the entire year at normal winter volume."

All of Pasadena's large hotels reported that last winter was the most prosperous season they have ever had, and Mr. Linnard believes that circumstances will combine to increase travel to California to a still greater degree from now on. The five-hour cut in the running time of trains between Los Angeles and Chicago will be instrumental in this respect, he says, and expressed the hope that an additional reduction in time will be made by the railroads after the first cut is inaugurated November 1.

BUSY WEEK FOR COTTON GINNERS

CALEXICO, Sept. 26.—Lower California gins produced 2922 bales of cotton during the past week, bringing the season's total to 6751 bales, according to the reports of the ginners.

The Clark gin led the week's run with 1630 bales, the Mexican Chinese was second with 512 and the Globe third with 128 bales.

Reports from Yuma valley indicated that 7545 bales had been turned out for the season up to last night.

Picking is now in full swing in all cotton districts in the Lower Colorado River basin.

Annexationists to Celebrate Recent Victory

VENICE, Sept. 26.—Celebrating victory of the annexationist element which was successful in making Mar Vista a part of Los Angeles, a meeting will be held in the Venice Union High School auditorium Monday night at 8 o'clock. Members of the City Council, playgrounds, park, public works and other bodies will attend, and citizens from all the bay district cities are invited.

An opportunity is to be given the Mar Vistans to tell city officials just what they desire, particularly in regard to capitalizing the opportunity for lower interurban transportation offered by the inclusion of all Venice Boulevard into the Los Angeles corporate limits. Application for a bus line franchise and the possible extension of the yellow street-car service will be discussed. The opening and improvement of Venice Boulevard, from Palms into the city will occupy an important part of the meeting's attention, also the proposed 900-acre county park improvement. Better police and fire protection, garbage collection and other matters will be dealt with.

Last night at the Strand Cafeteria in Venice, 150 citizens of Barnes City, recently annexed to Los Angeles, celebrated their victory. Councilmen Barnes, Hughes and Zahn were the chief speakers. Tom Aisbitt, annexationist leader, was chairman of the Venice meeting.

Oldest Member is Honored by Knights Templar

PASADENA, Sept. 26.—Calusha M. Cole, only living charter member of the Pasadena Commandery, Knights Templar, whose 100th birthday anniversary was recently the occasion for a large Masonic banquet in his honor, will turn the first shovelful of earth at the ground-breaking ceremonies of Pasadena's new Masonic Temple next Tuesday.

The ceremony will be held at the site of the new temple at 300 South Euclid avenue, at 1:30 in the afternoon. All Masonic bodies in the city are joining their efforts in building the temple, with the exception of the Scottish Rite, which has its own building.

The completed building will cost about $175,000, and will be large enough to accommodate all lodges. Chief of Police Charles H. Kelley, head of the Pasadena Lodge, will be master of ceremonies at the ground-breaking. An elaborate program has been arranged.

REALTY MEN TO BE AWARDED DIPLOMAS

ENCINO, Sept. 26.—The Van Nuys Realty Board will give a dinner dance on Thursday, the 30th inst., at the Encino Country Club. One of the features of the affair will be the presentation of diplomas to the graduates of the real-estate class of 1926 who took the college extension course at the Van Nuys High School. A new real-estate class will be formed to start October 7. Most of the older real-estate men in this and the Van Nuys vicinity have taken the course prescribed.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 26.—A number of stage and cinema people will be the honored guests of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the de luxe meeting in the American Legion Hall, Monday evening. Among the actor folk scheduled to take part in the program are Francis X. Bushman, Blanche Mehaffey, Winona Winter, William Banks Winter, Gardner James, Dolores del Rio, Rita Carewe, John Bowers and Marguerite de la Motte. Bruce Switzler will act as master of ceremonies.

The main address of the evening will be delivered by E. M. Gott, vice-president and general manager of the Fokker Airplane Company, in America. Gott flew to the Pacific Coast in a giant Fokker to take part in the world-flight commemorative meet, held today.

Lola June Akin, 7 years of age, will sing and dance. Way Watts, Byron Stumpf and Lester Schroder, members of the Santa Ana West Coast-Walker band, will provide music. Gerald "Tex" Oliver, new football coach at Santa Ana High School, and J. R. Hunt, manager of the Orange County Fair, will also be heard in brief talks.

One of the largest crowds in the history of the junior chamber is expected to be present. A Newport Beach-Catalina Island swim, under the auspices of the Junior chamber, will be discussed in the business meeting to follow the entertainment, according to President Mason Yeuld.

Citrus Growers Receive Pay for Portion of Crop

ORANGE, Sept. 26.—Final payment on the second pool of the McPherson Heights Citrus Association, amounting to $83,000, has been made to the growers, it was announced yesterday. The total amount paid on the second pool, including yesterday's payment, was given as $87,986.46. The first installment was made earlier in the season.

Approximately sixty-eight cars were shipped in the second pool, according to C. W. Post, manager.

The third pool, just completed, totaled seventy-nine cars, but the returns are not expected to exceed the returns of the second pool, just paid out, according to Post. These returns will not be in so that payment can be made to growers for several weeks, it is understood.

The clean-up pool is now being packed. It is believed that about 125 cars will be shipped from this pool. Estimates of the total number of cars shipped for the year from the plant were given at 400 cars by Post. This represents a greater shipment than any previously recorded for the local plant, Post declared.

NEW VERSION OF MARY'S LAMB

Dogs That Follow Tujunga Pupils Make Janitor Tear His Hair

TUJUNGA, Sept. 26.—Mary, who had the little lamb and who took it to school with her, has been emulated here. In the Tujunga version of the ditty it is a case of dogs.

Of late so many of the boy pupils have been followed to school by their canine pets that the janitor, W. E. Magee, declares there are more dogs in the school yard during classes than there are pupils in the rooms.

First he tried chasing the pets away. Next he threatened the boys. Neither was of avail. As a last resort he has appealed to the City Trustees, who are now busy with a pronunciamento that all boys must chain up the dogs at home before starting out for the day's grind at school.

PARK EMPLOYEE FINDS MUCH BOTTLED CHEER

PASADENA, Sept. 26. —Somebody lost twenty-eight cases of beer today when H. R. Thorstenson, employee of the Municipal Park Department, happened on them hidden under a bank on the west side of the Arroyo Seco. Thorstenson called the police department, and Detective-Lieutenants Kaighin and Decker went out and collected the brew, and are hoping that the owner will call for it at the police station.

IMPORTANT ROADWAY SLATED FOR PAVING

ZELZAH, Sept. 26.—An ordinance of intention has been adopted for the paving of Devonshire street, between Sepulveda Boulevard and Zelzah avenue, a distance of about three and a half miles. Last day of protests on the improvement will be October 15. This new stretch of paving will be of concrete, twenty feet wide and will be an important improvement in this part of San Fernando Valley, in that it will furnish a straight route from Sepulveda Boulevard to Chatsworth, where it will connect direct with the highway over Santa Susana Pass.

TUNNEL HOLDS UP SHIPMENT

Delay Worries Anaheim Piano Dealer

Sold Large Consignment to Pomona Schools

Time Limit is Factor of Delivery

ANAHEIM, Sept. 26.—When Louis Dans of Anaheim some weeks ago secured a contract from the Pomona school board to supply twenty-seven pianos for use in the schools of that city he did so in the face of determined opposition from competing firms, who resorted to the courts in an effort to prevent the letting of such a large order outside of Los Angeles county.

But even with the contract signed he found that his difficulties were not yet over. He had agreed to deliver the instruments not later than the 19th inst. in time for the opening of school the 20th inst., but he neglected to take into consideration the size of the Hoosac tunnel on the Boston and Maine Railroad in Massachusetts, through which his consignment of pianos must pass on its way from Boston to Pomona. It perhaps did not even occur to him that the size of the tunnel would have any bearing on the length of time required to bring the pianos to their destination. But it did. The pianos all twenty-seven of them, were loaded into a freight car in Boston and rolled along merrily until the aforementioned Hoosac tunnel was reached. The bulging sides of the car proved too big to pass through this long aperture. The train was stopped and the car removed and taken back to the nearest shipping point for reloading in a car of smaller size.

When news of the tunnel delay reached Mr. Dans he began pacing the floor at nights instead of sleeping. The consignment arrived in Pomona at last, however, and Dans enjoyed his first good night's rest in many that night.

Spirited Fight Over Provisions of Woman's Will

SANTA ANA, Sept. 26.—With the issues still undecided the contest between relatives of the late Lucius Green of Balboa Island and her former friend, Mrs. Florance Nicklas over the Green will and asserted codicil produced by Mrs. Nicklas adjourned late yesterday until Monday.

The contest is being waged before Superior Judge E. J. Marks, Mrs. Nicklas being the aggressor in a fight to have the codicil probated and to unseat H. C. Head as administrator of the $16,550 estate. Head was appointed when the original will was probated a year ago. The codicil produced by Mrs. Nicklas after the death of Mrs. Green is in the form of a written statement directed to Mrs. Nicklas and informing her that the contents of a safety deposit box was to become the property of Mrs. Nicklas at the death of Mrs. Green.

What the contents of the deposit box were not revealed. Attorneys in the case say they do not know what the box contained. Under the original will Mrs. Nicklas was bequeathed $200.

Mrs. N. Kanoure, Mrs. Anna Philips and Frank Green, sisters and brother of Mrs. Green and heirs under her will are contesting the Nicklas petition with Head. They contend that the codicil is not genuine and a spirited fight has developed over the question of whether it actually was written by Mrs. Green.

Public Hearing to Decide Fate of Crowing Cocks

SIERRA MADRE, Sept. 26.—The City Trustees are face to face with a desperate problem and admit that its solution is too much for them. A delegation of insomnia-ridden citizens declare that they are unable to sleep because the roosters of the town have such well-developed lungs that their crowing makes the nights useless so far as time to sleep is concerned. They demand that the Trustees do something about it.

The city fathers feel that to order all roosters eliminated would be too drastic a measure. They don't know how to silence the overenthusiastic birds and at the same time they want their fellow-townsmen to sleep soundly.

As a result, they plan to hold a public hearing, at which both the anticrowing faction and the rooster-boosters can plead their respective cases. Meanwhile, the cocks exercise their tonsils lustily, ignorant of the civic furore their throats have created.

DOWNEY LEGION POST ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

DOWNEY, Sept. 26.—The American Legion Post has elected officers for the coming year as follows: J. R. Gresham, commander; Morton Lerude, adjutant; J. P. Catson, first vice-commander; W. D. Kincaid, second vice-commander; C. R. Ramey, finance officer; Dr. M. M. Johnson, post historian; Stilwell Findlay, chaplain; J. W. Williams, sergeant-at-arms; with the following executive committee: E. S. Cortelyou, Dr. E. H. Welcome, C. R. Ramey and L. E. Price.

Installation of officers will take place some time in October. From advance information installation night will go down in history of the Downey Post American Legion as the biggest and liveliest meeting ever held in Downey.

TO ASK INJUNCTION

SOUTH GATE, Sept. 26.—The battle to prevent the Bureau of Light and Power of Los Angeles from crossing this city's streets with a high-tension wire is soon to begin, the Board of City Trustees having instructed their City Attorney, B. H. Haynes, to bring injunction proceedings in the Superior Court to prevent the stringing of wires across thirty-five streets of the city.

PUTS BRAKES ON SPEEDER

Fresno Judge Acts Where Mechanical Device Failed

FRESNO, Sept. 26. (AP)—"Clocked" at sixty miles an hour inside the city limits here last night Tom Oddo offered a unique excuse to the arresting officer.

"My accelerator stuck wide open," quoth he before the officer could say a word.

"Couldn't you stop anyway?" he was asked. "What if someone had come out of a side street?"

"Oh! I have four-wheeled brakes," answered Oddo in a moment of forgetfulness.

"Put the brakes on the judge, then," the officer came back.

In Police Court Oddo's four-wheeled brakes failed to function, Police Judge Crichton parking his car and his license for sixty days, a day for each mile.

CROWDS TO VIEW FAIR AT FRESNO

District Exhibit to Open 27th Inst. With Numerous Attractions

FRESNO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The twentieth annual Fresno District Fair will open its gates at 10 a.m. tomorrow, with the greatest display of exhibits in live stock, agriculture and viticulture in the score of years of its existence.

Creatore's band, motorcycle and automobile racing, horse racing, vaudeville and circus acts, all go to make up a program of entertainment that has never been surpassed by San Joaquin Valley fairs.

From present indications the attendance record of 1925, which approximated 125,000 for the six days, will be shattered. Practically every community in Fresno county has completed plans to close its stores and schools during one day of the week. Fresno will be closed Thursday, while it is expected that another record crowd will attend on Saturday, when a program of automobile and motorcycle races will conclude the week's entertainment.

Judge's Ruling of Importance to Taxpayers

PASADENA, Sept. 26.—Considerable importance is attached here to the recent decision of Judge Albert I. Stephens of the Superior Court of Los Angeles that the city cannot compel property owners to pay assessments for the construction of conduits which are used by the city in its proprietary capacity of supplying electric power for profit. The municipal light department sells power to residents at Pasadena.

The decision is believed to be the first of its kind and is expected to be of far-reaching importance. Judge Edwin P. Hahn refused to pay assessments on his East Colorado-street property after the Board of City Directors had ordered E. A. Irish, contractor, to lay conduits between Marengo avenue and Mentor avenue to carry municipal power lines. The court upheld Judge Hahn on the ground that the assessments were not made because of any strictly local benefit.

TALK REAL ESTATE

District Meeting Scheduled for Monrovia

MONROVIA, Sept. 26.—All real estate boards in the tenth district of the California State Real Estate Association will be represented at a district conference here tomorrow night, according to Charles W. Stewart, president of the Monrovia board and State vice-president for the tenth district.

One of the principal purposes of the caucus is nomination of a vice-president for the district to be submitted at the State convention in Del Monte, and several prominent real estate men will speak.

Peter Hanson, State director from the Glendale board and chairman of the State committee on appraisals, will speak on the advantages of uniformity in appraisals. Ed Graham, president of the Pasadena board and chairman of the State uniform commission committee, will discuss the question of uniform commissions. Mrs. Hazel Grant of Pasadena, chairman of the State association's women's committee, will discuss women's part in the California real estate program and T. C. Coltridge, director of the University of Southern California real estate extension course, will talk on real estate education.

The conference will be held at the Aztec Hotel, opening with a 6:45 dinner. The tenth district includes all boards in the San Fernando and San Gabriel valleys, also Pasadena, Glendale and South Pasadena.

ANGELS NOSE OUT OAKLAND TWICE, 4-3 AND 3-2

ERAPHS INCREASE LEAD TO SIXTEEN FULL GAMES

Mitchell's Double in Ninth Breaks Up Duel Between Yarrison and Pruett in Opening Tussle

BY BOB RAY

Romping merrily on their way to the pennant, Marty Mc[illegible]'s high-flying Angels came from behind twice to trim the Oaks in both games of yesterday's doubleheader, winning by scores of 4 to 3 and 3 to 2. The Cherubs have bowled over the Oaks in eight out of the ten games played in this asserted "set" series and are now coasting gayly along with a six-game lead and only three weeks of the season left.

The Oaks came down here for a battle with the league-leaders and an outside chance for the flag, but compared to the way the Angels went through the athletes from Oakland, Gen. Sherman's w a n t through Georgia in reverse. The Seraphs are not yet a mathematical certainty, as the saying goes, but all they have to do is to win seven of their remaining twenty-two games to clinch the pennant. If the Angels win six contests and October 17 they will not be able to grab the flag even if they take all of their remaining twenty-two games. The [illegible] of the lengthy series takes place.

Note that the Angels already have the first five letters of the word considered on the 1926 pennant. Marty Krug is all smiles this morning as he announces that he will give Los Angeles a chance from the start, while that arch-pessimist Count August Frederic Wilson of the Western-Weber, is also willing to concede that he has a "lousy" set for the Seraphs to the finish.

OAK FANS THRILLS

Coming back to yesterday's ball game, the Angels gave the 12,000 fans on hand a couple of thrills by coming from behind to win each time. After overcoming a three-run lead in the seventh inning, the Angels won the game in the ninth when Mitchell doubled to score Hollis after two were out.

The second game was a hurling duel between Lou Dickerman and Elmer Yarrison, with the latter giving way to Pruett pinch-hitter in the ninth. The Oaks took a two-run lead in the second but the Angels came back with a scoring rally in the fifth when Mitchell got his bearings during the visit of a Cherub rally. Harry Pruett blanked the Oaks in the last two innings to secure the victory.

The opposing hurler found "Babe" Yarrison pitted against "Shucks" Pruett, with the latter having all the better of it until the seventh.

COAST PRO GRID LOOP PLANS OUT

Four Teams to Start Practice During First Part of October

According to an announcement made yesterday by A. E. Santwier, representing the Los Angeles club, four Pacific Coast cities have completed plans for a professional football league with games to be played every Sunday. Santwier promoted two contests at Wrigley Field last year and will handle the Los Angeles team this season.

Others connected with the enterprise are Bob Macomber of Oakland, M. L. Cowan of San Francisco and C. F. Parnes of Hollywood. These three cities will form with Los Angeles to make up the league. Games are to be played in Coast League ball parks in the three cities.

Santwier announces that his team will start practice October 15, next. Players desiring to sign with him can get in touch at Wrigley Field. No date has been set for the first games of the season.

BRUIN CAGEMEN TO START PRACTICE

BERKELEY, Sept. 26.—With a two week's invasion of Southern California as a future prospect, practice will soon commence for the Bruin 145-pound basketball team. Coach McCorkle will have four veterans back in Capt. Gerald Levin, Stevens, Leves and Bob Healy. Other material is also coming up from last year's 130's. Arrangements for the southern tour are progressing under the direction of Manager Grove Dye.

MULLER'S TEAM DEFEATED

Chicago Cardinals Score 15 to 0 Victory Over Local Pro Gridders in Game at Windy City

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Brick Muller, California all-American end, and his pro grid team brought Pacific Coast football to Chicago today, but the Chicago Cardinals broke up line smashes and long forward passes alike to triumph, 15 to 0, before 8000 who jammed Normal Park to see the red-headed star.

The Cardinals won because they took advantage of the breaks. The Buccaneers failed thrice when scores appeared certain. The Cardinals' line defense was magnificent. Ellis and Weller at tackles smashed through the California line repeatedly to break up the opponents' running attack.

The aerial assault of the westerners materialized in the last quarter, but while they completed six passes in that period, they were unable to get the receiver in the open when it meant a touchdown. Twice Muller tossed the ball more than forty yards, but in each instance it was intercepted and run back to mid-field. Lamb once jumped in the air to take the ball from a California end, and zig-zagged his way down the side line until forced out of bounds after a forty-yard gain.

Muller's defensive play at end was a revelation. On the first play of the game he slashed straight at the runner and dropped him for a five-yard

HOLLYWOOD BEATS DUCK GANG TWICE

Stars Grab Double-header From Portlanders by Same Score, 5 to 4

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 26. (AP)—Hollywood took both games of today's double-header from Portland by the same score—5 to 4. O'Neil pitched the first game for Hollywood while Portland used two twirlers in a vain effort to win. Portland hit Hulvey freely in the second game, but Mulcahy stoped the bombardment before it became serious. The scores:

AGGIE ELEVEN SHOWS POWER

Farmers Smash Multnomah A. C. in Easy Fashion

Oregon Has Potential Star in Young Halfback

Washington Fails to Display Anything at All

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Most impressive of the initial football showings in the Pacific Northwest yesterday was the 67-to-0 victory of the Oregon Aggies over Multnomah Club of Portland. The club team was far from the formidable elevens that have worn the Multnomah colors in the past but it was, nevertheless stronger than the set-ups usually faced by the larger schools in their opening games. The way the Aggies bowled the club men over tends to substantiate optimistic football reports that have issued from the Corvallis campus.

Coach Schissler alternated his first and second-string elevens and both took the club men down the field almost at will. The game's most encouraging aspect from the Aggies' standpoint, was the strong reserves available. Schissler not only has most of last year's team on hand but he has a wealth of new and reserve material that ought to enable the Aggies to give real trouble to some of the other conference contenders.

PILE UP YARDS

The Aggies yesterday made 345 yards from scrimmage, as compared with 63 yards for the club men, who are coached by Shy Huntington. The Farmers' 67-point total was larger than the aggregate of points they have scored in ten years of football competition against Multnomah. With only a brief practice period behind them, the Aggies were far from a finished team, but they gave promise of real power this year. Their greatest weakness appeared to be in punting.

The University of Oregon's 44 to 0 victory over Willamette was about what had been expected, but Coach McEwan has no reason to be disappointed. The Oregon team in fact looked by long odds better than it did in the practice struggles of the 1925 season. If it can show relative improvement throughout the year it ought to get along in fast company, and it will get its real test only two weeks later when it meets Washington.

A surprise feature of the game was the introduction of Arthur Ord, midget halfback who grabbed the show as far as the grandstand was concerned and proved the most spectacular player seen on an Oregon team for several seasons. Ord, weighing 145 pounds, may not be so flashy against conference rivals, but he ran rings around the Methodists. On the first play of the game he ran seventy-two yards for a touchdown and in the second half he scored a touchdown from kick-off, weaving his way for seventy-five yards through a field of tacklers.

VON ELM IS FOURSOME GOLF STAR

Hagen-Sarazen Team Held Even in Tilt by Angeleno and Jesse Guilford

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—George Von Elm, national amateur champion, and Jesse Guilford, Boston amateur, finished a thirty-six-hole exhibition match today, all even, with Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, professional champion, over the Winged Foot course at Mamaroneck. The match was played for the benefit of crippled children of New York.

The amateurs were 3 down at the end of the first nine, but braced through Von Elm's sterling play to end the morning eighteen 1 down. The Los Angeles star evened the match on the thirty-sixth green in the afternoon with an eighteen-foot putt for a win. Von Elm had the best nine-hole card. A 33 for the first nine holes of the day. Sarazen and Hagen shot a 70 on the morning round. The amateurs had 71, but came home in the afternoon in 69 to 71 for the professional stars.

Von Elm is planning to leave for his home tomorrow. He announced that he would not return to the East for another year.

STANTON RATES ELEVENS EVEN

Says Card Team is Biggest He Ever Saw

Declares Mike Murphy Hits Like Dynamite

Northern Fans Expect 'Pop's' Men to Beat Trojans

BY BRAVEN DYER

"The Stanford team is the biggest I ever saw in intercollegiate football."

"Mike Murphy hits harder than any man U.S.C. has."

"U.S.C. and Stanford are on even terms."

Such were the sentiments expressed yesterday by W. L. "Pop" Stanton, coach of the California Tech football team which on Saturday surprised themselves and everybody else by holding the Stanford behemoths to a 13-to-6 score. Stanton's remarks carry much weight for prior to leaving for the Cardinal encounter his athletes spent one solid hour in scrimmage with the U.S.C. outfit. Having been up against both elevens Stanton and his players have a pretty good line on the strength of the two teams which are slated to be very much in the running for the Pacific Coast championship.

When Stanton opines that the Cardinals are the biggest intercollegiate grid team he ever laid eyes on the Caltech coach's opinion must be accepted as authentic. The "Pop" has been touring teams for more than twenty years and in that time he's seen most of the outstanding grid creations.

"Stanford's backfield is bigger than U.S.C.'s," declared Stanton. This in itself is not so startling for everybody knows Warner has a warm spot in his heart for beefy ball players, be they linemen or backfield athletes. Stanton's next remark is startling, however, for in the same breath he declares: "Mike Murphy's line bucking was terrific. He hits harder than any man in the U.S.C. backfield. The Trojans, at this time, have no one to compare with him."

Local fans and Trojan players in particular have good reason to remember Mr. Murphy for it was he who ran back a punt through the whole U.S.C. squad for a touchdown last year. Few people hereabouts, however, considered him the Human

FIRE LADDIES TUMBLE

U. S. S. Melville Footballers Clean Up on Local Firemen's Eleven by Score of 18 to 0

The gobs from the U.S.S. Melville outclassed the Los Angeles Fire Department football team yesterday afternoon at Maier Park. Three touchdowns by the Navy men did the trick, the final score being 18 to 0.

This was the second game of the season for the newly organized fire eleven, under the leadership of Coach Bill Blewett. A little more beef on the line would bolster up the team and make holes for the backfield men. The latter consisting of Dyer, Evans, McCarter, and Remsley will outrank the average. Evans and McCarter showed particularly well yesterday.

Walker and Barrett were the outstanding ground gainers on the navy eleven. However, they were ably assisted by a bunch of beefy linesmen who seemed to be able to open up holes in the Hosemen's line at will.

During the intermission between halves the fans were entertained by the Fire Department Band. Next Sunday the Firecaters will tackle the San Bernardino Athletic Club gridsters.

ST. MARY'S ELEVEN WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—St. Mary's College of Oakland football eleven romped at will over the Ninth Corps Area Army team on Ewing Field here today, winning 34 to 6.

Starting with only a field goal, in the first period, the collegians increased the intensity of their play as the game progressed, scoring a touchdown in the second quarter, two in the third and two more in the fourth. Halfback "Cowboy" Smith starred for the winners.

Army made a lone touchdown in the third period on a 67-yard run from a St. Mary's fumble.

Hollingberry Has Hopes for Washington State Eleven

COUGAR REFORM AIM OF MENTOR

Plans to Lift Northerners Out of Slough

Bewails Long Trip to Meet Trojan Eleven

Strict Rules of Training on Varsity Squad

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Babe Hollingberry, the new coach at Washington State College, is making a valiant effort to pull that institution out of the football slough of despondency in which it has been mired the last few years. With his assistant, A. B. Bailey, Hollingberry is trying to drive out the defeat complex which seems to have affected the Cougars in recent seasons and to restore the self-confidence that used to mark their teams.

Hollingberry has been bearing down on what he expects in the way of training rules and conduct on the field. It is admitted by everyone who is familiar with the situation at Pullman that lax discipline has been responsible, at least in part, for the fact that the Cougars have not done better than they have done. Coach Exendine, who retired at the close of last season, himself admitted that he was inclined to be too easy with the boys. "They just won't seem to play football for me," he explained. This pronouncement keyed them up to make a good showing against the Trojans, but that was the only game that saved the season from disaster Exendine was very popular but he was too tender hearted to lay down the law and make his players toe the mark.

Strict training rules and rigid disciplines are now going to be the order of the day at Pullman, Hollingberry has announced. There is no indication that he is going to adopt the hard-boiled attitude that bawls everybody out on every occasion, but he has told the squad that he considers the football coach is in full command in all matters affecting the gridiron and that what he says is to go. He would rather lose every star in school than let them run the team, he said in Portland last year, when en route to Pullman and his attitude since he has arrived there shows that he meant business.

The early date of the Southern California game, October 9, is a particular worry to Hollingberry just now. The Cougars hope to make a good showing there, particularly as an overwhelming defeat would give them a setback from which they would not likely recover this year. Hollingborry has been complaining about his schedule, which necessitates three weeks of travel after the first of October—the 2000-mile journey to Los Angeles and excursions to Seattle and Missoula. But, as Coach Bagshaw recently remarked, a coach cannot always choose his schedule, and now that the Pullman itinerary is mapped out Hollingberry says he is ready to meet it as best he can.

CUBS DROP TWO

BROOKLYN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Brooklyn trounced the Chicago Cubs twice today, 3 to 1, and 6 to 2, in the final games of the season for both clubs. Dazzy Vance flashed his best performance of the year in the opener, yielding but three hits and retiring fifteen Cubs on strikes which equaled Vance's best major league performance for strikeouts, established against Chicago in 1924.

Wilson fanned four times, Beck and Tolson three times apiece and Heathcote, Stephenson, Bush, Cherry and Hartnett, once each. Freigau obtained two of the three Chicago hits off Vance.

Jess Petty twirled steady ball to win the second game, and before his start he was presented with an automobile by Brooklyn admirers. Darkness limited the final contest to eight innings. The scores:

ANGELS WIN TWIN BILL

Seraphs Make it Eight Out of Ten Over Oakland by Coming from Behind to Win Both Tilts

enth. Oakland got off to front in the third when Pruett doubled past Hood and completed the circuit on Valla's sacrifice and Reese's single. Valla's double, Reese's sacrifice and Fenton's sizzling single past Yarrison's right ear gave the Oaks another in the sixth.

The Oaks ran up their lead to three in the seventh when Bratcher reached first on Krug's error, took second on Caveney's bunt, third on Baker's single, and scored on Lary's hit to left.

SERAPHS RESPOND

When the Angels came to bat in the seventh the fans started rooting for a rally and the Seraphs responded by landing on Pruett for four hits and three runs. Up to this round Pruett had the Angels blanked with two hits. Wally Hood led off with a double against the bleacher screen and came home when Jahn, who had fanned his first two trips to the plate, singled over second. Skipper Krug also singled and the runners advanced to second and third when Jacobs grounded to Fenton. Then came Johnny Mitchell, who is poison in the pinches, with a single to center that scored Jahn and Krug, tying the score. A double play ended the rally.

Yarrison held the Oaks in the eighth and ninth and the Angels put over their winning marker after two were out in the final frame. Jimmy Reese put the Angels in position to win when he bobbled Jacobs's grounder and then threw wide to first, the Angel first-sacker rambling to second on the double error. Mitchell then punched a double down the right field line and Jacobs romped over the plate with the ball game.

The scoring in the second game was concentrated in two innings, with the Oaks getting first blood by putting over their pair of runs in the second. Jacobs fanned Buzz Arlett, to open the inning auspiciously, but Bratcher and Caveney followed with singles. Boot's infield out put the runners in scoring position and Lyn Lary provided the single that drove them home.

OUT TO DICKERMAN

The Angels did little or nothing to Dickerman's swift ones until the fifth when once more the fans started rooting for a rally. Wally Hood again started the excitement by banging out a double that upset the even tenor of Mr. Dickerman's way. The long, lanky hurler lost the location of the plate and walked both Mitchell and Hannah to fill the sacks. Art Jahn batted for E. Jacobs and delivered a single to right center that scored Hood and Mitchell and sent Hannah to third. Stats forced Jahn at second, Dickerman to Reese, Hannah holding third. Staley also hit one to Dickerman, who had his mind made up to throw to second and take a chance on Reese or Lary completing a double play at first. However, Stats had gone down on the pitch and when Dickerman wheeled around to throw to second he saw that it was too late for a play there. Whereupon Leo became rattled and, after several false motions, threw Staley out at first, allowing Hannah to romp home unmolested with the winning run.

Reese and Arlett touched Sanders for singles in the sixth, but a double play was sandwiched in between them to deprive the hits of any possible damage to the Seraphs. Arlett was out stealing to end the round. In the seventh Bratcher led off with his third hit of the game, but Sanders didn't let the Oaklandw get past first, retiring Caveney, Pinchhitter Governor, and Lary to end the contest. Scores:

Nampa, Idaho. Ord ran back five kick-offs for touchdowns in 1924. In spite of his light weight, Ord a player of the Anse Cornell type, may prove a valuable man for Oregon. With Lynn Jones, fullback, he did most of the ground gaining yesterday.

If the University of Washington were to be judged by its 20-to-0 score against the battleship New Mexico, Bagshaw's gloomy forecasts would be sustained, but the Huskies likely did not exert themselves. At the same time it would have been almost impossible for a team including George Wilson and Tesreau to have made such a low score against a set-up team. If the old championship strength was there it wasn't demonstrated in this game.

MACKS TRIP CLEVELAND

Hold on Second Place Endangered as Athletics Win; Grab Both Ends of Double-Header

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26. (AP)—Cleveland's hold on second place was endangered today when the Athletics took two games from the Indians, 8 to 5, and 2 to 0, thus cutting Cleveland's margin to two games with another game to be played tomorrow.

If Philadelphia wins tomorrow's contest and three from Washington, the Indians will be crowded from second place. Ehmke outpitched a relay of Cleveland pitchers in the opener while Walberg proved effective in the second game. Score:

THOMAS TO ADD SPACE TO REFINERY

Newport Beach Asphalt and Oil Plant Will be Increased in Size

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The Thomas Oil Company, operating the refinery and asphalt plant on the Sloan lease in West Newport, is making preparations to enlarge its scope. The demand for asphalt manufactured from oil taken from five wells on the lease is said to exceed the supply.

The output is about 120 barrels per day and it is believed that this may soon be increased to 175 barrels. The distillate and lubricating oils are removed from the crude oil in the refinery situated in the center of the group of wells before it is shipped by truck to Los Angeles, San Francisco and other points.

The Weaver Paper Company is making use of some of the asphalt. It is in great demand for street and road paving and for roofing. A chemical laboratory has just been completed on the lease and a new storehouse is being constructed. Between $20,000 and $30,000 is invested in the plant. A storage and shipping warehouse now under construction will have a capacity of 1100 barrels.

Montana Oil Man Guest at Pasadena Home

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Arnold had as their guests yesterday at their home in Pasadena Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Emmons of Kalispell, Mont. Mr. Emmons is a prominent geologist and mining engineer, and is here on his way to Mexico to look over some mining properties.

At Kalispell Mr. Emmons is manager of the Kalispell-Kevin Oil Syndicate, which has been one of the leading factors in the development of the Kevin-Sunburst field, now Montana's largest producer.

FOURTH TEST ON WAY

Production in Temblor Hills Hole Expected at About 900 Feet

McKITTRICK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) L. E. Westrich is drilling his fourth test in the Temblor foothills west of the Belridge field, on Sec. 19, 29-21, and looks for production at about 900 feet.

He is using a new portable rotary rig built on a caterpillar tractor, made in Los Angeles. The machine was moved on its own power from the railroad at McKittrick to the lease, seven miles.

LEASE ASSIGNED

Chansler Canfield Takes Over Tract at McKittrick

McKITTRICK, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Chansler Canfield Midway Oil Company has taken a twenty-year lease on 900 acres in the McKittrick field. The lease to the property, which is owned by Miller & Lux, was assigned by R. H. Anderson, formerly of this city.

The agreement covers parcels of land on Sections 17 and 28, 29-21, and calls for the drilling of thirty wells if oil is found. One-eighth royalty is to be given. The first well must be spudded in before May 7, 1927.

PRODUCERS' STOCKS IN EAST SHOW LOSS

Pipe line and tank farm gross domestic crude oil stocks east of the Rocky Mountains decreased 194,000 barrels in the month of August, according to returns compiled by the American Petroleum Institute from reports made to it by representative companies. The net change shown by the reporting companies accounts for the increases and decreases in general crude oil stocks, including crude oil in transit but not producers' stocks.

FIVE promotions in the local headquarters of the Shell Company of California have just been announced by company officials.

W. C. McDuffie, who for about two years was vice-president and production manager for the Shell company in this State, has resigned from that position to continue his work as production manager for the Royal Dutch-Shell Oil Company, having charge of all its field work in all parts of the world. He still retains a position on the board of directors of the Shell Company of California.

William Rinehardt, who has been carrying on Mr. McDuffie's work in California since the latter was promoted to the Royal Dutch-Shell has just been moved up from the post of general field superintendent to that of production manager in California.

J. U. Stair, who has for some time occupied the position of assistant general superintendent, has been made general superintendent. F. E. Rehm has been advanced from the position of superintendent of the Long Beach division to assistant general field superintendent.

Walter Elliot, who has been superintendent of the Coalinga division, has been advanced to the position of superintendent of the Long Beach division.

NOTES OF THE OIL TRADE

The Star Drilling Machine Company is turning out a new type of rotary drilling machine at its Long Beach shops. The first at work in California, mounted on a caterpillar tractor that transports the one-piece machine from place to place, is located near McKittrick.

One of the machines was shipped to Montana during the week and sixteen have been shipped to South America. The large type will easily drill 9000 feet, weighing 30,000 pounds, and the small size will drill 1500 feet.

Several types of portable rotary drilling outfits are made in Los Angeles, but the Star is the only one permanently mounted and moving under its own power, the drilling engine also operating the tractor.

Shipbuilding and Oil

One does not ordinarily connect shipbuilding plants with turning out oil well equipment, but the Craig Shipbuilding Company at Long Beach is turning out a disc bit for oil-well drilling. It is the Craig corrugated bit.

Several years ago the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company at its San Pedro plant started to make a pipe tong, but dispute about the contract caused suspension of the work, it was reported. At its Philadelphia plant the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company manufactures several oil-field specialties.

Montana Operations

Robert Jordan has returned to Los Angeles after a year spent in the Kevin-Sunburst district of Northern Montana, where he did a great deal of geological, engineering and correlation work. He began his oil-production work in the Spindletop field in South Texas in 1901, spent some years in Oklahoma, North Texas and other fields, coming to Los Angeles two years ago.

He says that the latest important discovery is that of President Frasier of the Anaconda Copper Company. At five feet in the "big lime," below the regular producing horizon, after standing months with the tools in the hole, this well a few days ago started flowing, oil testing 42 degrees gravity, and looks like an important development.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

In nine States of this country there are fifteen goldfish farms with an annual output of several millions.

Ticket scalping is said to cost the railroads of this country $100,000,000 yearly.

HUNTINGTON HOLDS STAGE

Demonstration of Initial Output from Second Sand Outstanding Event of Week

The outstanding event in Southern California oil circles during last week was the demonstration that Huntington Beach's second sand zone is good for wells yielding 3000 barrels a day initial output. When the rank and file of operators now drilling in that field get their wells on production there will doubtless be a sudden diminution in the initial rate of production, but the first few wells are fairly certain to show real gusher class.

The Miley Petroleum Exploration Company's Pacific Electric No. 2 well, which started the ball rolling by coming in for 3000 barrels Friday morning, continues to hold up to that mark, with a gas pressure which indicates that it may be expected to produce at perhaps 3000 barrels when it settles down to a steady output. Gravity of the oil is 25 deg., which is the highest yet found in the west end of Huntington Beach. The company has two other wells which are likely to come in from the second zone within the next week.

While no official reports have been obtained from the Wilshire Oil Company concerning its No. 1 well, it is generally believed that the well is not making more than about 800 barrels a day. Comparing this rate with the rate of the Miley well, almost four times as great, oil men are inclined to believe that Wilshire probably muddied off considerable production during the drilling of the hole.

Another factor which may enter into the equation is Wilshire's attempt to produce from the upper and lower zones simultaneously. Such a policy, it is asserted, might result in the heavier gravity oil in the top zone holding back the more prolific light production from below.

Another important event of the week in Huntington Beach was the beginning of drilling operations on the Bluff property, owned by the Pacific Electric Railway and Huntington Beach Company. This acreage is located between the railway and the ocean, and by virtue of a three-cornered agreement, the Standard Oil Company already is building two derricks on the property.

There are now approximately 110 derricks in the new Huntington Beach field. Most of these projects are active, although a considerable proportion are idle, apparently waiting to see what aggressive neighbors develop.

Main Shaft of Verde Central Makes Headway

JEROME (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Verde Central now is down about 1800 feet in its main shaft. Bunches of copper ore have been intersected, one of three feet of chalcopyrite averaging 8 per cent. A new level is to be started at about 1900 feet.

The United Verde Copper Company has relinquished its option on the Mammoth and Collins mines, north of Tucson, and has removed to Jerome a quantity of drilling equipment. The mines at Mammoth have been noted in the past as producers of gold and bolybdenum.

United Verde has fired another great blast in its surface workings. The charge was of 54,000 pounds of Apache dynamite and tore away a large area on the northwest side of the big pit.

J. D. Levvers has been promoted to be master mechanic of the company.

Dredge Bought for Gold Dust Placer Ground

The Gold Dust Placer Company of Gold Dust, N. M., in Sierra county, has made arrangements for the installation of a large gold placer dredge upon their 3000 acres of proven placer ground. This dredge will be built by the Bucyrus Dredge Company of South Milwaukee, Wis., and will cost, when completed, around $800,000 including the power plant.

The Harmon Dredge Company, which is also the Yuba Dredge Company of California, has had its chief engineer, C. A. Bigelow, on the ground making an examination, with a view to installing a large dredge.

Expert drillers from California, through the Bucyrus Dredge Company are preparing for drilling out the entire property ahead of the dredge.

The Gold Dust Placer Company has worked for more than two years on its property, developing, testing and proving the values and water.

OIL EXPORTS TO ATLANTIC SHOW DROP

Bulk Petroleum Shipments From Harbor Last Week 463,000 Barrels Lower

Bulk petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor last week were off more than 463,000 barrels, compared with those of the previous week, the decline being noted particularly in shipments to the Atlantic seaboard. These were exceptionally light. Pacific foreign shipments were likewise somewhat lighter than usual.

Last week's shipments totaled 1,608,259 barrels, being taken by twenty-six tankers. The Pacific Coast trade took 776,809 barrels, consisting of 558,631 barrels of crude; 92,000 barrels of fuel and 126,268 barrels of gas. Pacific foreign shipments amounted to 210,879 barrels, made up of 97,000 barrels of crude, and 113,879 barrels of fuel.

The Atlantic Coast trade took 240,000 barrels, consisting of 149,000 barrels of crude, and 91,000 barrels of gas oil. Atlantic foreign demands required 380,481 barrels, embracing 111,481 barrels of crude, 169,000 barrels of fuel and 100,000 barrels of gas. The week's shipments were as follows:

PACIFIC DOMESTIC

Rince I to Oakland with 27,000 barrels of fuel for Richfield Oil Company.
D. G. Scofield to Richmond with 78,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Star and Crescent barges to San Diego with 4563 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
H. M. Storey to Richmond with 194,900 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
T. Juneau to Martinez with 73,000 barrels of crude for Union Oil Company.
Los Angeles to Olympic with 72,047 barrels of crude for Union Oil Company.
A. McNeil to Portland with 65,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
J. C. Fitzsimmons to Richmond with 70,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Washtenaw to San Francisco with 16,218 barrels of gas for California Petroleum Corporation.
Sonoma to Seattle with 27,000 barrels of gas for General Petroleum Corporation.
Montebello to Olympic with 51,504 barrels of crude for Union Oil Company.
Star and Crescent barges to San Diego with 27,000 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
D. G. Scofield to Richmond with 78,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.

PACIFIC FOREIGN

Manila Maru to Tokyama with 27,000 barrels of fuel for Suzuki & Co.
Miss Bres to Iloe with 40,000 barrels of crude for Imperial Oil Company.

ATLANTIC DOMESTIC

Dixie Arrow to New York with 91,000 barrels of gas oil for Standard Transportation Company.

ATLANTIC FOREIGN

San Mateo to London with 102,000 barrels of fuel for Eagle Oil Company.
F. H. Hillmar to London with 200,000 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
Inverclyde to Southampton with 97,000 barrels of fuel for Bankline Tank and Transportation Company.

Greene-Cananea to Open Mine in Democrata Gulch

BISBEE (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Greene-Cananea is preparing to sink 1500 feet of new shaft in Democrata Gulch, to ore that has been developed by diamond-drill holes.

New bodies of smelting ore are understood to have been cut below 1000 feet of depth, in addition to much milling ore found in holes sunk in that vicinity in the course of a comprehensive development campaign.

About two years of work will be needed before stoping can be started, it is asserted.

MARVELOUS ORE HIT IN ARIZONA

AJO (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive) — Forty-four miles east of Tucson, on the Tucson highway, has been developed what appears to be a phenomenal silver strike, with five feet of ore that samples up to 170 ounces of the metal, the vein widening from a mere seam at the surface.

The ore is declared to resemble Mexican petanque. It carries lead and copper in material quantities.

Report Obregon Buyer of Yaqui Valley Placer

NOGALES (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—In a recent visit to Tucson, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, former President of Mexico, is reported to have bought the Payne-Whitney placer mines in the Yaqui Valley, for a sum approximating $2,000,000.

Another Mexican mine sale is that of the old San Jose de Gracias property, in the State of Sinaloa, east of the station of San Blas, on the Southern Pacific Railroad. This property, which was confiscated by the national government, has passed into the hands of a syndicate headed by Roval A. Smith of Bisbee.

Its gold ore has been mined ever since the Spaniards came to Sinaloa, and it is asserted to still be rich down to 700 feet of depth. About 30,000 tons of tailings are reported to sample fully $25 a ton in unextracted gold.

PROJECT CEMENTED

Poso Creek Vedder Well of Shell Due for Early Test

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 26. (Exclusive) Standing cemented at 1578 feet, the Shell Company's Vedder No. 2 well on Section 9, 27-28, in the Poso Creek field, will probably be drilled out and prepared for a production test by the end of this week, oil scouts say.

The outstanding feature of the well is that the cementing job was done 171 feet above the production level of Vedder No. 1 on the northwest corner of Section 9. It was cemented at 1749 feet.

Combined with records of dry holes drilled on adjoining sections east and west, the log of Vedder No. 2 is expected to be a valuable asset in mapping that area of the field for future development.

ARIZONA MINE SOLD

California Syndicate Gets Old Yarnell Gold Property

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The famous old Yarnell mine, near Rich Hill, in the southern part of this county, has been sold by Edwards & Burk to a California syndicate, represented by E. I. Mills.

Engineers now are surveying the ground and sampling the workings. The property embraces an immense deposit of low-grade gold ore, which could be milled with water brought from rights acquired in a near-by mountain valley.

NEW OIL RESERVE LIKELY

Investigations by Department of Interior in Washington May Result in Action

A new Naval Oil Reserve may be established on the Pacific Coast. This possibility is foreseen by those carefully following the investigations now being made by the Department of the Interior along the western slope of the Olympic Peninsula, Washington. For weeks, inspectors for the department have been on the ground. The department's action was hastened by an application from the State of Washington for an exchange of State-owned land for the land now under investigation.

Approximately $100,000 already has been expended by the State and Federal governments in carrying on this work. Should the inspectors for the Department of the Interior conclude that the land in question is oil bearing, it will be withdrawn from entry and the oil rights reserved to the United States government, reports say.

RALPH ARNOLD.

Twenty-three years ago, when he was connected with the United States Geological Survey, Ralph Arnold of this city and Pasadena made a reconnaissance trip through the entire peninsula territory. He started at Port Angeles and walked all the way around to Gray's Harbor, a distance of perhaps 200 miles. He and the members of his party slept in Indian tepees on most of the trip, and got their rations wherever they could be obtained.

STRONG SEEPAGES

Yesterday, in discussing the prospect of a naval oil reserve in that region, Mr. Arnold said: "My conclusions on that trip were published in United States Geological Survey bulletin No. 581. We found countless seepages along the hills flanking the peninsula. The seepages were so strong that in many places the odors would cause one to believe that he was near a refinery. The singular thing about it is that the oil is of exceedingly high gravity—perhaps as much as 60 deg. gravity.

"I have never been optimistic over the prospect of commercial oil production there. Many good structures may be easily located, but in a careful investigation, during which I traced out many of the formations, I failed to find indications of sufficient organic matter to form the basis of a commercial supply of petroleum, although, without question, there is some oil in the district.

RESERVE JUSTIFIED

"As for the creation of a naval oil reserve there, it might not be a bad idea, because it is the only place I know of where there is an oil possibility coupled with sufficient public land to justify, the government in creating a reserve."

The Standard Oil Company of California drilled two wells in the southern part of the Olympic Peninsula, but the results of its operations were never made public. Several independents are now drilling in that region.

The Midcontinent producers seem to be more interested in the peninsula than Californians are. The Ohio Oil Company has started on the first of a five-well program and has organized a $20,000,000 corporation under the laws of the State of Washington. The Midwest is also reported to be represented in the district.

APEX MINE SEEKS ORE AT DEPTH

A winze has been sunk to a depth of fifty feet from the 700-foot level of the Western Apex mine at Oatman, Ariz., on the hanging-wall side of the vein, and a crosscut of the ore body exposed for a distance of 800 feet on that level is now about developed, according to word received from the camp. The management plans to cut through the ore channel and then continue sinking on it to the 800-foot level, where a station will be cut and the ore deposits blocked out.

It is asserted that the east drift on the 700-foot level is out a distance of 400 feet from the crosscut, but that at that point the ore body is smaller and somewhat broken. However, it is expected that there will be an improved showing when the dyke or "horse" in the ledge has been passed through.

In commenting upon this condition W. K. Ridenour, president of the company, who was in Los Angeles last week, says: "It is often quite true that a 'horse' appears in veins in this district, and this has happened several times in our development work on the 700-foot level, where the vein has been developed and followed a distance of 800 feet. The ore body is beginning to widen again in the face of the drift, and I believe that with a few rounds more it will show up as well as ever."

NINE WELLS BEGUN

Getty Leads in New Kern County Projects with Three

TAFT, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Of the nine new wells started in Kern county during the week ended the 18th inst., George F. Getty, Inc., is drilling three—the Tegeler No. 8 and No. 8 on Sec. 22, 28-27, and Lenhardt No. 4 on Sec. 14, 28-27, Kern River extension.

Woody & Sheedy are drilling a test on Sec. 20, 27-28, just south of Famoso, and on Sec. 8, 28-27, about two miles farther south, the Union Oil Company is drilling Gill No. 1 on a 320-acre lease.

The Standard is drilling two Midway wells, the Interstate Oil Corporation is drilling Perris No. 6 on Sec. 15, 32-23, south of Taft, and the Murvale Oil Company is drilling No. 11-M on Sec. 20, 32-24, east of Taft.

GOOD ORE FIND FANS INTEREST

Strike in New California Reported Rich

Quartz Mountain Activity Given Impetus

Mercury Mine at McDermitt Has Innovation

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The steadily growing interest in the Quartz Mountain district was fanned last week by a rich strike on the New California, and the finding of the ore-bone on the Hasbrouck property at a depth of 180 feet.

On the holdings of the New California Tonopah Company, controlled by Frank W. Stall of National gold fame, two to four feet of ore sampling $5 0to $300 a ton was struck at a depth of fifteen feet and it is widening as the prospect shaft goes down.

The ore carries silver, gold, lead and gray copper, and will be shipped to the Thompson Smelter. The tunnel is expected to cut the ore body at a depth of 180 feet within two to three weeks.

The vein in the Hasbrouck has not been developed sufficiently to demonstrate its value, but some good value shows. Crosscutting and drifting have started from the 350-foot level of the San Rafael, the Quartz Mountain Metals, controlled by the Cole syndicate, has started development of the rich surface deposit. Los Angeles and San Francisco interests have acquired large stock holdings in the Argentum, Apex and Hercules companies.

The Mercury Mines Company, operating large quicksilver properties near McDermitt, above Winnemucca, announces that it will maintain a special school to train miners and other underground workers. This innovation is designed to gradually overcome the shortage in skilled miners, which prevails throughout the West.

The company has installed a 100-ton plant and powerful mine machinery, and has started production. With the plant working at capacity, the management expects to produce 150 pounds of quicksilver every twenty-four hours. The company is a subsidiary of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining Company.

The mill of the Simon Silver-Lead Company, near Mina, is running at capacity. A large body of excellent ore has been developed on the 800-foot level, according to word received by Reno stockholders.

Late Reports From California's Great Petroleum Pools

RIG BUCKLES AT WILDCAT WELL

Try for Eleventh Gusher by Delany Indicated

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 26.—The drilling crew at work on the Miller & Haley wildcat well at Twentieth street and Magnolia avenue, where, it was expected, a new oil field would be developed, made a wild scramble for safety Friday morning, when the upper portion of the derrick buckled under the strain of attempting to loosen a string of drill pipe which had become stuck in the hole.

Rig builders are now trying to straighten out the buckle.

An attempt to bring in the Miller & Haley as a gas well is to be made soon, it has been announced. Present plans are to cement eight-and-a-quarter-inch pipe at 4865 feet. There is said to be almost 100 feet of gas sand at that depth.

SWABBING FOR PRODUCTION

Delany No. 12 at Pasadena avenue, near Wardlow Road, was swabbing Saturday for production from the lower sand. Umpire No. 36, at the southwest corner of Pasadena avenue and Wardlow Road, is cleaning out. Umpire No. 39, at American avenue, south of Wardlow Road, is doing 325 barrels a day. Chandler No. 34, at Locust avenue and Wardlow Road, is making 112 barrels a day on the pump. Umpire No. 40, at American avenue, south of Bixby Road, is down 4739 feet, at which point cores are being taken.

The United Oil Company, in addition to its Stakemiller well, has abandoned the Cook well at Pacific avenue, north of Bixby Road, the Barnes well, south of Bixby Road, and Bixby No. 2 at Chestnut avenue and Huntington street.

RIG TO BE ERECTED

Material is on the ground for the erecting of the derrick for Delany No. 38, in the Los Cerritos field. This is taken as an indication that A. J. Delany, one of the pioneers of the local field, is to make a try for the eleventh gusher in that area. The rig is to go up on a lease on the south side of Bixby Road, near American avenue. Mr. Delany's efforts to bring in a gusher at Chestnut avenue and Bixby Road recently failed.

Oil Royalties to University of Texas Drop

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Royalties for August from oil production upon land owned by the University of Texas, in Reagan county, have been paid to that institution in the amount of $241,607.05, which was a decrease of $7434.70 as compared with payments in the preceding month.

Of the amount paid $165,064.50 was by the Big Lake Oil Company, and $75,952.75 by the Texon Oil and Land Company. With the payments just made the total sum received by the University from oil royalties on production in Reagan county is brought up to $4,348,128.19. This sum is one-eighth of the amount of money for which the total production of these two companies in Reagan county has sold.

Figuring on this basis, the gross revenue from this source up to September 1 was $34,761,025.52. Both the Big Lake Oil Company and the Texon Oil and Land Company are owned by the same interests.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Not Chalk

INDEPENDENCE, Sept. 7.—Question. We are mailing you under separate cover a sample of what we believe to be a form of chalk, but everyone who examines it has a different opinion as to what it really is, so we are sending you this sample in hopes that you can tell us what it is used for. Whatever the charges are just mail us your bill and we shall send you our check to cover by return mail. We have a large deposit of this near railroad and you can drive a car right on the property. S.

Answer: The sample is not chalk for one reason that it does not effervesce in acids. It is a variety of diatomaceous earth known also as tripolite, infusorial earth, colloidal silica and kieselguhr.

Further on the mineral see this column of The Times published September 6, 1926. There are no charges for services rendered.

Interesting Samples

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Q.: Sample No. 1 is a very high-grade silver ore. What kind of mineral is it? Does it contain Germanium? (Argyrodite—a silver sulpho-germanate from Southwestern Chihuahua, Mex.) No. 2 is a sample of sulphide from near Buckeye, Ariz. What kind of mineral is it, and what is its chief constituent? D.

A.: Sample No. 1 is chiefly Tetrahedrite, and many are they who would let it go at that. Under a powerful microscope traces of pyrargyrite (dark ruby silver ore) shows up. Argyrodite and Canfieldite are not present, and no reaction was had for Germanium. The file streak is black, and not of bluish tone. The matrix carries some dolomite; the microscopic black crystals are silver glance, and lead is present. No. 2 is cook's-comb pyrite (marcasite, or iron disulphide.)

Andalusite

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8.—Q.: Sample from ledge near ——, Riverside county, California. What is it and what value?

A.: The locality given by you is not published in the hope that Sillimanite (anhydrous silicate of alumina) may be discovered in the ledge referred to.

The sample is Andalusite of a very interesting variety, and both of the named silikates are used in the manufacture of "spark plugs," etc. It is to be regretted that prices cannot be given you for the reason that it is not known whether the sample represents average, or selected, ledge matter.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—Q.: I am sending four rock samples taken in Sierra county, California. No. 1 was found in the bed of a stream, and seems to be plentiful. Nos. 2, 3 and 4 were taken from an old placer mine. What are the metallic specks in No. 1? Do any samples contain any minerals of commercial value? D.

A.: Sample No. 1 is milk-white, massive quartz, stained, in seams, with limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.) The metallic lustered, microscopic specks are altered pyrite, with traces of hematite flakes (micaceous iron.) Native gold is not present, but it should be found among the rocks in the bed of the stream referred to by you. No. 2 is a lightweight aluminum and magnesium silicate, stained with limonite. No. 3 is part of a small boulder, carrying traces of microscopic pyrite, with traces of microscopical arsenopyrite. No. 4 is part of a large boulder and very much like No. 3 in chemical reactions.

Magnetite

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Q.: One of the largest bodies of titaniferous iron ore in North America is contained in three claims located twenty miles in an air line from The Times Building. The deposit forms a true dyke, the outcrop of which is from ten to eighty feet wide and can be traced for two miles. The ore contains about 55 per cent metallic iron; titanium oxide 28 per cent and 1 per cent vanadium. All of the ore is of value, there being no gangue or tails. Titanium, when added to glass, has the power of reducing expansion and contraction, and it is possible to plunge titanium glass that has been heated to 300 deg. into ice water without shattering it. Titanium oxide is worth 35 cents per pound and vanadium, which is alloyed with the best steels, is worth 64 per pound. A process has been recently developed for treating ores like the above described so as to produce a very high-grade iron and recover all the vanadium and titanium separately from the residue. Electricity and crude oil are the two principal agents used.

A.: Space will not permit the publication of your letter in full. The sample by you submitted is magnetite with titanium oxide, but we cannot discover the vanadium. The blowpipe tests and wet methods are both negative. There are several deposits of titaniferous iron in California, and it is present in many of the black sands. At Twin Peaks, fourteen miles from Black Rock on the Clark railroad, is a commercially valuable ledge.

"Titanium is a dark gray metalic rare-earth element. Never occurs native. In small quantities it is widely distributed; found in all igneous and many sedimentary rocks in different minerals, notably in ilmenite, rutile, brookite, anatase and octahedrite. Ilmenite and rutile furnish the titanium of commerce. Used in cast iron, steel, (steel rails, rim and tread of car wheels,) and bronzes, largely as a purifier, deoxidiser, denitrogenizer and for increasing the strength and hardness. Titanium-potassium oxalate is used as a mordant in dying leather and some textiles. As the carbide and the oxide ilmenite is used in arc lamps, and in lining puddling furnaces. Other titanium compounds find small use. As oxide it is used in porcelain painting and it enters into the composition of artificial teeth."—[United States Geological Survey Bulletin.

Sulphides

Q.: The two samples inclosed are for qualitative analyses. No. 1 for gold, silver, lead, zinc and other metals. It comes from a two-foot vein and six feet away is a very small gold vein running perpendicular to this two-foot vein. Will they come together? The ledges are only thirty-six feet deep in shaft located in Cataract mining district, Montana. Please analyze No. 2 for gold, silver, and bismuth values; may contain arsenic, or antimony. Samples from tunnel twenty-two feet in. Will the ore improve with depth; small vein only and located in same district as No. 1.

A.: Sample No. 1 may carry gold and silver by fire assays, and the specimen consists of "Black Jack" (sphalerite, blende, or zinc sulphide.) Galenite (lead sulphide,) and pyrite (iron disulphide) present with quartz. As to the veins coming together at depths depends on faults, "horses," angles, etc. No. 3 carries no free gold nor native silver; arsenic traces. No reaction for antimony, and bismuth not present. The sample is pyrite, partly altered to limonite in quartz. For other gold veins consult assayers.

Native Gold absent

TEMESCAL, Sept. 11.—Q.: Please find in separate container some ore specimens from this vicinity. I am told that sample No. 1 may be silver ore as shown in the fern-like specks. No. 2 is grayish rock. Nos. 3 and 4 bluish. All of the samples appear to carry iron pyrite. Do these microscopic crystals contain any gold, tin or silver? I shall be glad to have some information regarding the samples and will be particularly obliged for results of analysis regarding specimen No. 4. Mrs. C.

A.: Sample No. 1 is altered rock reacting for quartz, magnesium, and aluminum silicates. The fern-like characters appearing in the mass are not of silver; simply dendritic iron and manganese. Pyrite traces. No 2 is a banded silicate rock, chiefly; it reacts in low percentage for lime carbonate, aluminum-magnesium silicate, traces of garnet, microscopic pyrite, traces of labradorite feldspar, and garnet. No. 3 is on the order of No. 4, it carries more or less garnet, traces of pyrite; iron and manganese No. 4 is a chorty, flint-like rock with microscopic pyrite, and arsenic present in the microscopic traces of altered arsenopyrite. Free gold not found.

Owing to the locality from which the specimens were taken, a thorough analysis was given in the hope of finding tin. The results were negative, and there is not a trace of tin in any sample.

"How's your new secretary getting along."

"Just great. Already she has things so tangled up in my office that I can't get along without her."—

BRANCH IN ENGLAND ORGANIZED

Rakestaw Establishes Firm for Distribution of California Oils

R. R. Rakestraw, vice-president of the Western Oil and Refining Company, has just returned from London, where he completed the organization of the Western Refining and Marketing Company, Ltd., the purpose of which will be to distribute the refined California products of the local company.

R.R.RAKESTRAW.

In addition to the establishment of an outlet for local products on the other side of the Atlantic, Mr. Rakestraw established marketing relations with a number of oil-producing oil companies of Rumania as a means of supplementing the local company's products until such a time as it can begin operating to the full capacity of its Wilmington refineries.

Establishment of the London marketing company is regarded by the company as a keen business move, because it will enable California oils to meet European competition at a distinct advantage, and should assure profitable distribution of the major part of the Western Oil and Refining Company's output.

As a part of the equipment for distribution in the British Isles and Europe, the marketing company has acquired a string of tank cars such as are used on the English railways. The comparison of these tanks with tanks used in the United States is interesting. The American tanks have a capacity of from 200 to 300 barrels, while the European tanks, mounted on smaller platforms, have a capacity of only 100 barrels. In European service the tanks are painted a light gray with a gasoline or kerosene identifying strip painted lengthwise around the body in red.

At present the Western defining and Marketing Company is drawing the petroleum supply from the Rumanian fields. This condition exists because the local organization's dockage facilities and steamer-loading equipment have not been completed at the Wilmington plant.

It is expected that these facilities will be ready for operation within the next few weeks, after which shipments of California oil products will start upon their way to the European markets. Tank ships are already under lease for this trade. It is expected that such export shipments will begin before the end of the year.

WICKENBURG (Ariz.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—A tryout has been made of the first seventy-five ton mill unit of the Tonopah Belmont Development Company, on its property twenty-eight miles southwest of here. This is considered merely an experimental plant leading toward the erection of a much larger mill.

Part of the machinery was brought from a Tonopah property, owned by the company and idle for several years, and was here equipped with a 500-ton cyanide mill.

It has been about a year since operations here were started by a Los Angeles syndicate. Development work has been done, a camp has been created with accommodation for 100 men, a 500-foot well has been drilled for water, a telephone line has been built and surface works have been installed.

Gain in Output of Shell Well is Unexpected

Operators in the Brea Canyon field were somewhat surprised last week to learn that the Shell Company's Orange No. 13, which was completed at 4854 feet as a 150-barrel producer, had built up to an output of 850 barrels a day. The oil tests 28 degrees gravity. No reason is advanced for the well's showing other than that it came in far too small, considering the performance of previous completions in that area.

Shell is now drilling its Orange No. 11 at 4992 feet and its Orange No. 18 at 4972 feet. Its Pico No. 8 is down 4540 feet. The Birch Oil Company is drilling its Birch No. 1-A at 4900 feet. The Fullerton Oil Company has just spudded in its No. 21 well. The Shell's Orange No. 11 and Orange No. 13 are going somewhat deeper than the general run of wells in that district.

NEW FIND STIRS OLD OIL FIELD

BEAUMONT (Tex.) Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Discovery of a third producing oil sand at a depth of 4244 feet in the reborn Spindle Top field has caused another big stir in oil circles.

The new well was drilled by the Gulf Production Company and it had an initial open flow of 15,000 barrels a day. The flow was beaned down to 4000 barrels a day. The oil tests 27 deg. gravity.

It is the belief of operators that the flow is coming from an entirely new sand and that it is not a dip of the 3400-foot sand. The drilling of several other deep tests to try out the new sand will be started immediately.

FOUR SHIPS OFF FOR ANTIPODES

Shipping Board Steamer on Maiden Voyage

Demands for Space Force Service Expansion

Illustrative of Los Angeles' rapidly growing trade with the Antipodes, four steamers were in port during the past twenty-four hours loading or departing for Australia and New Zealand with a total of 33,000 tons of Pacific Coast products.

Of the four vessels three were units of the General Steamship Corporation's fleet, the Swedish steamer Roxen, in this morning to load passengers, case oil and canned goods for Australia and New Zealand; the Swedish steamer Hellenic, with lumber from Seattle for Australia and sailing last night after taking bunkers; and the Swedish steamer Lyngern, sailing last night for Melbourne with a full lumber cargo from Columbia River ports.

Yesterday morning the Shipping Board steamer West Nivaria, on her maiden voyage in Swayne & Hoyt's American-Australia-Orient service, sailed south with 40,000 cases of case oil and 1000 tons of general cargo, loaded at this port for Wellington, Auckland and Dunedin.

Capt. W. J. Stofen, port superintendent of the General Steamship Corporation, announced yesterday that the increasing cargo demands for outbound space have necessitated immediate increase of the concern's passenger and freight service to the Antipodes.

"The arrival of the Roxen tomorrow will complete the circuit since the establishment of our Australian-New Zealand monthly service, that is, with her arrival all ships in the fleet will have made one voyage. The point of it is that we have been forced to add the steamer Hellenic already to meet cargo offerings," Capt. Stofen said.

"We anticipate the addition of still more tonnage, less than a year after the line was established."

Yesterday the General Steamship Corporation also had in port the new Swedish motorship Oxelosund, first unit of the new European-Pacific service of the Trafik A-B Grangesbourg-Oxelosund. She put in for bunkers only, having a full lumber cargo from Columbia River ports for the United Kingdom. The Oxelosund is the first of eight motorships to ply regularly to Pacific Coast ports.

The General's fourth ship in port yesterday was the French liner Indiana, in from the north to load out ore, concentrates, fruits and canned goods for Le Havre and Bordeaux. She sailed last night.

All coast ships were yesterday asked to be on the lookout for the little whaling steamer Herluf Winge, which sailed this week-end from, from Trinidad, Cal., for Los Angeles Harbor. She was in command of Capt. Louis Bentsen, a member of the 49er official of the Coast Sea Food Company, for which concern the Herluf Winge was coming here to enter the fishing industry. The Herluf Winge, sold in a couple of nine men, has not been sighted since departing Trinidad, according to Mr. Aftia.

The British refrigerator steamer Narenta, 5170 tons, the first of three new units of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Line's European-Pacific fleet, is due today from London. Increased demands for space for Puget Sound apples and Southern California fruits have necessitated the allocation of additional tonnage.

The Shell Company yesterday had five tankers in port, to load for offshore delivery, three of which were forced to lie at anchor for lack of room at the loading terminal. They included the British steamer San Fernando, of the Anglo-Saxon oil fleet, loading for Buenos Aires; the General Petroleum tanker Yorba Linda; the Norwegian tanker Malmanger, for Japan; the Norwegian tanker Malmanger, from Boston and loading for France; and the Eagle oil tanker San Fabian, from the Texas Gulf for London. The new arrival in the tanker fleet today will be the American steamer Olean, a 9317-ton carrier owned by C. W. Morse, now loaded at the Union terminal for the East Coast.

The Standard Gypsum Company's steamer S. A. Perkins arrived yesterday morning from Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor, with 2,000,000 feet of lumber for the first delivery of a long string of trip charter to the McCormick Lumber Company, the first discharge of the present cargo will proceed to Santa Fe Island to bring to this port a gypsum cargo.

Astoria work will begin this morning at the docks of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry-dock Corporation on the $1,200,000 reconditioning of the Shell Oil Company's floating plant at Honolulu, ex-President Arthur. More than 200 workmen will be engaged on the three months' job.

Announcement of the engagement of Capt. W. A. Johnson, youthful skipper of the Luckenbach intercoastal liner Walter A. Luckenbach, was made at the port yesterday. Capt. Johnson's bride-to-be is Miss Alice Ellison, of San Pedro. The announcement culminates a romance started several years ago at the local Luckenbach terminals.

Yesterday was a busy Sunday in passenger traffic, six offshore and coastwise carriers arriving. They included the Panama-Pacific liner Sonoma, in from San Francisco on her way to Havana and New York; the British motor liner Pacific Shipper, from London, in the service of the Furness Line; the Yale, from San Francisco, and the Harvard from San Diego; the Catalina, from Avalon, and the Emma Alexander, from San Diego.

The Mongolia will sail at noon today for New York with 334 California passengers and 4900 tons of California freight in her holds, every inch of cargo space being utilized, according to Capt. H. T. Cook. Mrs. F. Gibbons, local Panama-Pacific head, announced yesterday that the company's steamer Finland, which on the 26th inst. had a distinguished group aboard for the occasion of the Canal, would arrive here on schedule October 7, not 8, as previously announced. The Finland is bringing from New York 175 eastbound bankers, among them for the convention of the American Bankers' Association, October 4 to 7.

TONNAGE CUT URGED

Grape Men in Move to Reduce Picking and Shipping Period

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—A recommendation that grape growers stop picking on Saturdays and Sundays and that shippers stop shipping and loading on Sundays, as a means of improving California grape-crop marketing conditions, was unanimously adopted here today at a meeting of sixty grape shippers controlling the largest tonnage in the State still on the vines.

The recommendation was made in view of existing railroad embargoes and the congested condition of the principal markets of the country.

Krassin Victim of Poison, Say Soviet's Friends

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Krassin, who is expected to arrive in London tomorrow or next day to assume his post as the envoy of Russia, is stricken with pneumonia and a most unusual story, supposedly true, is current today. The story is that Krassin's friends charge that he was poisoned in some manner by Russia's former enemies among the Bolsheviki.

Krassin was stricken with pneumonia, it was first reported, in Paris early this year. Since then he has been reported to be dying on numerous occasions. The Russian envoy is one of those who vehemently denied that there was any truth in reports that he was poisoned. Friends of the Russian envoy say that the reports of his illness were started by enemies of the Soviet government.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED FOR BANDIT

PAR ROCKAWAY (N. Y.), Sept. 26. (AP)—Funeral services for Salvatore Vitale, murdered mobster and bandits were conducted in the Mission Church here shortly after arrival of the body from Mexico City. The services were attended by relatives and by members of the Society of the Sacred Heart of the United Church of Cedarhurst, of which Mrs. Vitale was a trustee.

MRS. M'PHERSON ASSAILS KEYES IN PULPIT TALK

Freeing of MeLosh and 'Miss X' in Case Asserted Inconsistent; Hearing Opens Today

On the eve of her preliminary hearing today with her co-defendants on conspiracy charges Aimee Semple McPherson, from her pulpit in Angelus Temple and over her radio, yesterday fired a broadside at Dist.-Atty. Keyes and his office. The evangelist severely criticised Mr. Keyes for releasing Harry L. MeLosh and his woman companion from custody and accused his office of unfairness in the prosecution of the charges against her and her mother and others.

Mrs. McPherson openly accused Mr. Keyes of discrimination in releasing MeLosh and Mrs. Babe Daniels, his companion, who gave "confessions" in San Francisco in the form of affidavits they were hired to manufacture evidence to substantiate the evangelist's kidnaping story.

MeLosh and the Daniels woman were released from custody Saturday night after being grilled for six hours when Mr. Keyes issued a ringing statement in which he denounced them, branded MeLosh as a pure fake and issued a warning that any attempts to "drag a red herring" across the trail in an effort to pervert justice will be exposed by the State.

MOTIVE SOUGHT

Mr. Keyes could not be reached for a reply to Mrs. McPherson's pulpit assertions yesterday, but it was said at his office that MeLosh's attempt to inject himself into the case is still being investigated; that every effort possible is being used to discover the motive which prompted him and his woman companion to affix their signatures to the "confession" affidavits and that if it is found a law has been violated the guilty parties will be summarily prosecuted.

While Mrs. McPherson was giving her side of the story to her followers from the pulpit and urging them to keep away from the Hall of Justice during the hearing, the announcement was made by Chief Deputy District Attorney Davis and Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Murray that the State's case is ready for the preliminary scheduled to open this morning at 10 o'clock in Municipal Judge Blake's court.

WANTS TO BE ALONE

The evangelist aired her feelings in a ten-minute talk preceding her sermon on the topic, "Behold the Lamb of God." She told her followers to stay away from the Hall of Justice to prevent any reports that trouble was made, expressed confidence she will be vindicated and asserted there will be none present at her trial but the "curiously vulgar."

"We wish to be alone. We do not want you to see any of it," she told her congregation.

"To show the absolute unfairness of the District Attorney's office, let us consider for one moment the attitude toward Mr. MeLosh and the woman who called herself Babe Daniels." Mrs. McPherson continued. "They admitted to have done the very same thing with which we are merely charged. Yet when he (it is thought she referred to Dist.-Atty. Keyes) has the undisputed testimony that they are admittedly guilty of the same charge with which he accuses us he discharges them; tells them to go their way.

"We would like to know why the discrimination—why the exception when they are admittedly guilty of that with which we are merely charged."

REFERS TO PARDON

Mrs. McPherson then referred to a newspaper clipping which she said appeared in a Pasadena newspaper. In reading excerpts from the clipping she declared that Gov. Richardson was said to have directed a broadside against the District Attorney's office. Gov. Richardson she quoted as stating that a man named D. H. Heaton, convicted of grand larceny in connection with a Los Angeles real estate real, had been innocent of the charge.

"This is the sixth pardon I have granted men wrongly convicted in Los Angeles county." Mrs. McPherson quoted the Governor as saying, adding that if the District Attorney's office had made six such mistakes it may be wrong in the seventh instance.

"No one who loves me—no one who cares for us will go any where near the Hall of Justice tomorrow or any day that I am there," the evangelist said. "I understand there might be something said that trouble was made. Only people who want to satiate their vulgar curiosity will be there. You would not want to be in such a mob. We want to go alone. We are going through smiling and coming up shining, Hallelujah!

EXPECTS VINDICATION

"Jesus trod the way before and we are going through with him. Pontius Pilate, even Calvary has no terror for us. 'God forgive them for they know not what they do.' The other absurdities of these frame-ups and those charges, any one who is our enemy today, was our enemy before—one so-called confession upon another.

"We believe we are going to be absolutely vindicated. Some say, 'Why did you believe Mrs. Wiseman?' We did believe her but when the District Attorney's office is taken in and believes her then he ought to excuse use."

Then Mrs. McPherson expressed satisfaction that Angelus Temple was the one church in the world, so far as she knew, to be singled out for persecution.

"Some day we shall all be called before the Great Tribunal, even Mr. Keyes will some day be called," she continued. "I believe that in this seventh instance, since there were six others wrongfully convicted, they will find that we are innocent, too."

CHARGES PERSECUTION

Declaring that she is the victim of unfair persecution and discrimination, Mrs. McPherson said that she faces today's hearing without fear and with the knowledge that her God is with her. She warned her hearers, however, that the outcome cannot be foretold, but whatever may come, she and Mother Kennedy will "grin and bear it."

Mrs. McPherson was given a great round of applause at the evening service when she declared:

"I would rather be in my boots than in Mr. Keyes's boots."

The Angelus Temple leader was interrupted repeatedly in the course of her talk by applause, that in many cases lasted for more than a minute. Referring to Dist.-Atty. Keyes she asked "upon what meat does this modern Caesar feast himself that he should demand the virtue and blood of a woman evangelist rather than the blood of self-confessed liars and extortionists with records of penitentiaries and asylums fastened to them?"

Explaining that today's court action is but a preliminary hearing, Mrs. McPherson said:

"Well-meaning friends try to tell us that it is impossible for the testimony of such characters to stand against one whose life and word has always been honorable. However, I see now how readily they can plant people and evidence to 'get' the victim they are after and I warn my friends not to be surprised at any outcome?"

While a short conference was held last night by attorneys for Mrs. McPherson and Mother Kennedy, no statements were to be issued, according to W. I. Gilbert, chief counsel for the temple leaders.

Mother Kennedy announced that

STATE CALLS THIRTY-FIVE

Majority Identified With McPherson Case to Appear This Morning at Preliminary Hearing

More than thirty-five witnesses have been placed under subpoena to testify for the State at the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, which is scheduled for 10 o'clock today in Municipal Judge Blake's court, it was disclosed yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Murray. The witnesses are being brought to Los Angeles from Douglas, Ariz.; Oakland, Santa Barbara, Carmel-by-the-Sea, Salinas, Venice, Santa Monica, Tucson, Ariz., San Francisco and possibly other points.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Benedict, owner of the famous Carmel bungalow; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parkes, next-door neighbors; Ralph Swanson, who delivered groceries to the cottage; Ernest Renkert, employee of a coal yard; Florence Leidig, owner of a grocery store; William Mack, laundry man; John Considine, carpenter.

From Monterey a Western Union messenger boy who delivered the "lease expires" telegram sent from Oakland to the Carmel cottage by Kenneth G. Orniston, and the Western Union Monterey branch manager have been supoenaed.

HERSHEY CALLED

Ralph Hershey, prominent Santa Barbaran, who positively identifies Mrs. McPherson as a woman he saw in Carmel and Walter Moore, newspaper man of that city.

Dennis Collins, Salinas garage man, who saw Orniston's companion in Salinas on the night he fled from the Carmel bungalow, and Jules Jerrod, motorcycle officer of that city.

Arizonans include O. E. Pape, Tucson automobile dealer, who identified Mrs. McPherson as a woman he saw in front of the International Club in Agua Prieta, Mex., a short time before her reappearance there. B. P. Greenwood of the same city, who said he saw a woman resembling the evangelist on the streets of that city; Acting Chief of Police Murchison of Douglas who participated in the desert investigation; Sheriff McDonald of Cochise county, the first official to express doubt of her story and Miss Meribah Shinn, nurse who treated Mrs. McPherson at the Calumet Hospital in Douglas.

Oakland will be represented by Leslie Bland, Western Union messenger boy, who will testify regarding the "Aimee safe" telegram said to have been sent to the temple by Ormiston, and the Oakland manager of the Western Union office there.

RYAN TO TAKE STAND

Local witnesses will include Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ryan, who investigated the case for the District Attorney's office; Chief of Detectives Cline, Mrs. Sylvia Oberman of Venice, Miss Bernice Morris, secretary of the late Russell A. McKinley, blind attorney of Long Beach; Miss Emma Schafer, secretary to Mrs. McPherson; Miss May Waldron, temple stenographer; Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Seiladf, Mrs. Elizabeth Frame of Santa Monica and many others.

It is possible Justice of the Peace Scott and Judge Bardin of Salinas, who witnessed the "Miss X" affidavit signature, will be called.

Mr. Dennison and Mr. Murray said it is probable nearly a score of other witnesses will be called during the progress of the hearing to testify concerning many less important matters which form a part of the chain they hope to forge against Mrs. McPherson and her codefendants on the conspiracy charges.

M'ADOO FLAYS LAW DEFIANCE

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury and principal "dry" candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and former Gov. Pat Neff of Texas were the principal speakers last night at the opening session of the fifty-second annual convention of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union at the First Methodist Church. Ex-Gov. Neff's topic was "Supremacy of the Law."

In his speech he declared that prohibition is now the law of the land and that this fact must be recognized by all parties and all individuals. Attacks upon the law, he declared, are anarchy and treason and cannot be countenanced. Mr. McAdoo spoke in similar vein.

In a spirited defense of the prohibition amendment, Mr. McAdoo declared that this legislation never could have been adopted unless public opinion had strongly supported it. He recited in detail the procedure followed in the adoption of any Constitutional amendment and pointed out that the act was ratified by forty-six of the forty-eight States when ratification by but thirty-six was necessary.

"The validity of the prohibition amendment has been sustained by the highest judicial tribunal as the supreme law of the land," the former Secretary of the Treasury told his hearers. "The bootleggers who ply their nefarious trade, in collusion with corrupt city bosses and faithless public officials present a serious but by no means insurmountable obstacle. They can be dealt with by vigorous, effective and courageous administration.

GRAVE PROBLEM

"But the flagrant and daring effort to nullify the Constitution presents a problem of grave import. The duty of a State is to aid the Federal government with all the power of the State in enforcement of the prohibition laws. Two, however, have refused co-operation, New York and Maryland. This is plain nullification of the Constitution. It is a revival of the issues which almost tore the country asunder in 1832, and which did rend the nation in a great Civil War from 1861 to 1865."

Scoring proponents of the proposed attempt to repeal the Wright Act, the former Secretary continued:

"Now it is proposed by those who are seeking to repeal the Wright Act to have California say that she will not support the Constitution of the United States or the constitution of California and that each and every public official in this State is absolved from his oath of office to support these constitutions, that California will join New York and Maryland in a course of nullification which can lead eventually to but one fateful result if successful, the destruction of the stable government under which we live and the loss of the priceless heritage of liberty and democracy which was gained by the valor and blood of our ancestors.

CONFIDENT OF ISSUE

"I am confident that the same spirit which kept California in the Union in 1861 pervades her citizenry today, and that when November comes Californians will declare at the ballot box their undying fealty to the Constitution of the United States and to the principles which have made their country the greatest nation on earth and California one of the greatest and most prosperous States in the Union.

"What will be accomplished for California if the Wright Act is repealed? The fair name of the State will be tarnished by an attempted nullification of the Constitution.

It will be an invitation to the criminal classes and the underworld to come to California, where violations of the laws of the United States can be made and illicit operations carried on with impunity.

"As to personal liberty—it may be conceded that the prohibition laws abridge personal liberty to some extent, but the same may be said of all laws. Innumerable laws and regulations are in existence—the accumulations of a century or more of government—all designed for the benefit of the individual citizen.

"As to the repeal of the prohibition laws because they are not effectively enforced—this is the chief ground upon which the propagandists and the opponents of prohibition base their argument. It is wholly fallacious. The assumption is that the law is not enforced because it is not fully enforced. Not all laws are fully enforced, but that is no reason why they should be repealed. Laws are intended to restrain the individual and deter him from violations as well as to punish him for infraction.

"The cost in money of enforcing prohibition has been grossly exaggerated. It is a reflection upon our patriotism as a people and upon the quality of our citizenship that it is seriously advanced as a reason why the Constitution and laws should not be enforced. The Constitution must be preserved at any cost and no price that we may pay for its preservation is too high.

GREATEST VICTORY

"Prohibition is the greatest moral and economic victory ever achieved in human history. Its benefits to the masses of the people have already been incalculable. The lawlessness and crime of our great cities have not resulted from the prohibition policy but from the lawlessness of those who deliberately refuse obedience to the Constitution and laws of their country.

"The issue is no longer whether prohibition shall be established; it is whether or not the Constitution shall be preserved. Nullification or preservation? Anarchy and license or regulated liberty? There is but one

FLEET GOES ON GUNNERY WORK TODAY

All Battleships Will Put to Sea for Rehearsals for Antiaircraft Practice

Actual gunnery work will begin in the battle fleet today, when all battleships will put to sea for their final rehearsals for antiaircraft short-range battle practice, which will be fired by individual ships during the week.

Next week the dreadnaught squadron will fire short-range battle practice with main batteries, for which elementary gunnery exercise practice runs have already been completed.

All ships will fire between October 4 and 8, next, except the U.S.S. Colorado, just returned from the Puget Sound navy yard, and the U.S.S. New Mexico, now undergoing annual overhaul at the Puget Sound yard.

Following the firing of short-range battle practice next week the fleet will not again engage in gunnery exercises until the week of November 1, next. The period from October 9 to 21 will find all divisions at anchor for machinery overhaul and signal competition; the second series of tactical exercises will be conducted October 22 and 23, while from October 25 to 30 all ships will be en route to and from various Pacific Coast ports for celebration of Navy Day, October 27.

FRATERNITY TO BUILD CLUBHOUSE ON BEACH

Plans are being completed by the Zeta Psi Chapter of the Alpha Sigma Lambda fraternity to build a clubhouse on the ocean front five miles north of Santa Monica, it was announced yesterday. The next smoker of the chapter will be held Wednesday evening, the 29th inst., at the home of E. T. Petteys, 1433 Edgecliff Road.

CAUGHT unaware by a long-range camera as he was playing in the yard with his nurse, Charles Spencer Chaplin, Jr., elder son of the comedian and the former Lita Grey, unwittingly posed yesterday for the first picture which has been taken of him since his birth was announced to an expectant world in June a year ago.

Since the birth of the baby Chaplin has been constantly approached for pictures for friends, for film magazines and for newspapers, but the comedian has always refused, saying he thinks it a poor way to get publicity. He also has refused to permit photographs to be taken of his younger son, Sydney Earle Chaplin, born this year.

Moreover, up to this time, every effort to take snapshots of either of the children has been unsuccessful. This was due to Chaplin's precautions. The comedian's Japanese servants are on guard at his Beverly Hills home, and two nurses are constantly with the babies.

For a long time after the birth of Charles Spencer Chaplin, Jr., the baby was not taken anywhere in public. Neither of the children has ever appeared at the children's birthday parties in the film colony, although both have been invited on numerous occasions. Sometimes their expected presence was announced, but invariably a crowd of photographers went away disappointed.

Both of the children are dark-haired and dark-eyed, like their mother, but the elder, who is called Spencer, has curly hair like his father. The baby's head is said to be an exact replica in shape of Charlie's.

Within the next two months Chaplin and his wife expect to make a trip to Europe, leaving the children in the care of Mrs Chaplin's mother, Mrs. Lillian Spicer, of Beverly Hills. It will be in the way of a belated honeymoon for Charlie and Lita, who returned directly to Hollywood after their marriage in Guaymas, Mex.

The City Council has denied protests against the installation of ornamental lighting posts in Grand avenue from Sixth street to Eighth street.

Mrs. Philip Morgan Drawn Into Hancock Case

Wife of Associate Warned by Blackmailers

Banker Threatened Through Note to Woman

A letter apparently from the same source as that to G. Allan Hancock, millionaire Los Angeles banker, demanding the payment of $50,000 under threats of death, was received by Mrs. Philip Morgan, wife of the manager of the investment department of the La Brea Securities Company, one of Mr. Hancock's holdings, it was revealed yesterday by Raymond Stephens, attorney for Mr. Hancock.

Another letter, on the same subject, was sent to Mrs. Hancock, it was stated. The missive to Mrs. Morgan, it was learned, made no outright demands for money, but presumably was for the purpose of furthering the scheme against Mr. Hancock.

Mr. Stephens said yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Hancock and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan spent Saturday night at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, but are expected to return here at once.

Christian C. Magenheimer, president of two oil companies, and Claude A. Conlin, vaudeville magician, known as "Alexander the Great," were free on property bonds of $50,000 each yesterday, deposited after their arrests on Federal warrants charging them with attempts to extort $50,000 from Mr. Hancock. Both men, at the time of their arrests, denied any implication.

GIRL THREATENED ALSO

In addition to threatening the life of Mr. Hancock, the letters contained threats against Miss Rosemary Hancock, the millionaire's 21-year-old daughter.

The letter to Mr. Hancock was mailed at the Arcade station, Los Angeles, June 24, and was postmarked 5:30 p.m. The one received by Mrs. Hancock was mailed at the same place at the same time. His letter was sent to his office in the California Bank Building and hers to the Talmadge Apartments on Wilshire Boulevard.

With numerous deletions, the letters were released for publication yesterday. That to Mr. Hancock, in part, follows:

"C. Allan Hancock:

"Your leaving Los Angeles was a fool trick on your part and will not save you and yours. Any more than it will save your daughter. You will pay. But your time is short if you don't do exactly as you are told and don't show this letter to your fool detectives. It won't do you any good and will only give him a little more of your money. We know every move you make on land or water, so be ready on your return to Los Angeles to deliver $50,000 in unmarked $20 bills. Do this and you will suffer no harm. I am going to wait for you to put a little line in the paper July 3; saying, John, I accept your offer, and it had better be there or you won't see October 1. Now you take a good think or October 1 will be your last day. If one of our gang fails the rest won't.

John and the Gang."

The letter to Mrs. Hancock read in part as follows:

"We have written your husband today to do something for us. You can tell him to do it or you will be a widow and before that comes your daughter will suffer. We never fail. . . . Now you take a hand and tell him to have our $50,000 ready or your daughter will be taken before him. It will be done.

"John and the Gang.

OFFICERS ARE ACCUSED

In a report made by Detective Lieutenants Stanger and Haan of Wilshire division, Conlin accused "government officers" of obtaining documents at his home, 239 South Oxford avenue, by "subterfuge." The detectives concluded the report by declaring that the government officers were located, but not apprehended, and that the case was dropped.

The first report on the affair was made by Lola Maher, the maid, while Conlin was in Canada. She stated that on the night of August 24 she entertained two men and another girl at the home, and afterward went to the girl's apartment.

The next day she discovered the house had been ransacked and reported the loss of money orders for $40, $10 and $5, and $10 in cash, as well as mail and documents. The money orders, she said, were made out to "C. Alexander."

LAYNG CONFIDENT

The United States government is fully armed with evidence against Conlin and Magenheimer, according to John R. Layng, Assistant United States Attorney who prepared the complaints.

"We are not proceeding against innocent parties and I am sure that the Federal grand jury when it receives the facts Wednesday at its regular weekly session will be persuaded the same way that I was when I filed the complaints," Mr. Layng said, yesterday.

"It was the intention of the persons who wrote the letters to Mr. Hancock to make them so filthy that he would not dare to prosecute," Mr. Layng added. "They were written by hand and we have obtained samples of the penmanship of the accused men. This was done prior to preparation of the complaints and as a precaution against error."

The actual contents of the messages were not disclosed by Mr. Layng who held this secrecy a part of his official duties as a prosecuting officer of the Federal jury, and as protection for Mr. Hancock.

HANCOCK AND MORGAN LEAVE SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Allan Hancock and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Morgan left the Palace Hotel here today and took a train for the south, intending, they said, to go to Los Angeles or Santa Maria. Hancock said he has business at Santa Maria. He referred all inquiries to his Los Angeles attorney, and said he has nothing to say about the case.

"But in the extortion letter a beastly accusation was made against

INTERESTING and alarming. The decline of vaudeville.

This is not a matter of conjecture; but an established fact. The two-a-day is on the toboggan all over the world—but especially in America.

"HE" STUFF

Various reasons are assigned—the growth of the films—the radio programs—the introduction of vaudeville acts into film houses.

As usual, I have a few theories of my own. I think vaudeville is making a nose dive into oblivion because the managers have catered to men instead of women. As conducted at present, a vaudeville show is "he" stuff.

SLAVES OF BEAUTY"

It is women who are the great boosters of pretty young girls on the stage. The most devoted fans of the beautiful women of the screen are girls.

Vaudeville has allowed the films to take away youth and beauty; the most popular vaudeville headliners among women stars are fat and rather repulsive old women with frowsy clothes and rough voices. Men seat-buyers roar with delight at them; but women—as I have often observed—sit in disgust.

GOOD TASTE

Women are in everything more influenced by the eye than the ear, and vaudeville runs to "ear" entertainments, rather than to eye.

What vaudeville needs is fewer "Siamese twins;" and more Dolores Costellos and Mary Pickfords and Claire Windsors.

Parading pitifully deformed children—like these twins—on a vaudeville stage is a horrible idea.

In fact, I should say that vaudeville is staggering on its feet on account of a lack of fastidious good taste.

WOMEN WITH BOOKS

When we come to book and magazines it is different—kind of mixed, so to speak.

There are three or four national magazines of a success so established and certain that nothing can shake them.

Two of these are frankly men's magazines—two cater avowedly to women.

The riotous sudden successes of the last few years have been made by novelists like Michael Arlen, who is a women's and a girls' author.

On the other hand, those who hold up big sales year after year—Kipling, Ring Lardner, Mark Twain, Harry Leon Wilson, Conrad, Dreiser—are essentially men's authors.

Although, in the case of Dreiser, I weaken. "Sister Carrie" and even "An American Tragedy" have equal appeal for women.

SKYROCKETS

The sudden skyrockets of literature are made by flappers.

Donald Ogden Stewart and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald is trying to struggle out of this tangle of tinsel; for he has real genius. Perhaps Mr. Stewart has, too.

CLINGING VINES

Generally speaking, men like to read old books best; women like to read new ones. As readers, it is men who are the faithful clinging vines.

I know how it is from my own experience. I like best to read the books I have already read. There are Kipling stories—like "The Man Who Was," which I have read at least 100 times.

Calls Prohibition Greatest Moral Victory

choice and we unhesitatingly make it—liberty under law and supremacy of the Constitution now and forever!

In answer to those who hold no brief for the much-maligned "younger generation," another champion has spoken from an unexpected quarter. Mrs. Maude B. Perkins, head of the young people's branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, expressed her faith in modern youth in no uncertain terms. She has worked with young people in all but four States of the Union and in many foreign countries.

"Young people," she said, "are finer today, more altruistic, more desirous of giving service and being useful than they ever have been before. Statements to the contrary, tales we hear of youthful wildness, are largely pure propaganda, a part of the plan to discredit them because so many are carrying on the prohibition campaign. This propaganda even has been spread deliberately to Europe. But I know what I'm talking about when I say that America is safe. Her young people are all right. It's some of the older ones I worry about."

Mrs. Perkins also said that the rising generation of other countries is looking to our young hopefuls as examples of conduct, and she asserts that, as a result of prohibition, it has been definitely proven that more boys and girls go to high school and college than formerly did.

Not only the destinies of prohibition come under the scrutiny of the W.C.T.U. delegates. Dr. Valeria H. Parker, president of the National Council of Women, member of the Race Betterment League and director of the social morality department of the W.C.T.U., is vitally concerned with the problem of educating the world to a single standard of morals. She says that she knows from talking to many college boys that there are more young men today honestly trying to live clean lives than ever before. She believes that girls should be taught to realize their responsibility in helping them.

Dr. Parker has only recently returned from three months in Europe, where she attended the international convention of women's suffrage. "Europe," she said, "is very much interested in prohibition in the United States. Foreigners who come to this country and who are served with liquor in our homes are receiving a very bad impression of the amendment. But the great American middle class is really in favor of it. I am certain that the law never will be modified; its beneficent results are already too obvious to those who really know the facts. When a nationally known rubber company has stated that hundreds of Monday morning absences amongst employees was a common occurrence, whereas now they are so rare as to be subject to penalty, it shows that the economic effects of prohibition are being felt."

Of prohibition affecting an inherent right of man to "eat, drink and be merry" as he pleases, Dr. Parker said:

"Inherent rights end when public good is affected. Drinking lowers inhibitions, and every man knows that if he can get a girl to drink he has her three-fourths of the way where he wants her. I never saw liquor do any good except in rare medical cases. Why, even Mussolini insists upon absolute sobriety as one of the requirements of his leaders."

STATE OFFICERS OF W.C.T.U. RE-ELECTED

All present State officers of the California State W.C.T.U. were re-elected at the business session of that organization, held as a prelude to the national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which formally launches its sessions today.

MRS. EVA C. WHEELER.

Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler was renamed State president; Miss Ada B. Cummings, vice-president; Mrs. Anna Brown Hall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Hattie Coffine Young, recording secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Warren, assistant recording secretary, and Mrs. Clara B. Sheldon, treasurer. W.C.T.U. for its efforts in preparing the welcome for the national convention.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, praised the California union for the work it is doing against the repeal of the Wright Act, stressing the importance of the movement in this State, as California is considered a pivotal State by the delegates in so far as the modification or weakening of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act are concerned. She emphasized the fact that the national convention would be of paramount assistance in keeping the State enforcement law of California.

HEARING ONLY PRELIMINARY

Court proceedings today in the McPherson case are in the form of a preliminary examination before Municipal Judge Blake. Mrs. McPherson will not be tried as to her guilt or innocence of committing a felony, as charged, in the sense that she would be if she were tried in Superior Court. The difference is:

In the Superior Court the people must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of the offense charged.

In a preliminary examination the magistrate must be convinced a public offense has been committed and there is sufficient cause to believe the defendant guilty, which proof need not necessarily be beyond a reasonable doubt.

There is no jury.

The magistrate hears the evidence and decides whether the defendant be held for trial in the Superior Court.

TRIAL RULES PREVAIL

At the preliminary examination the magistrate hears such witnesses as the District Attorney has to substantiate the facts as set forth in the information or complaint he has brought. The defendant's counsel has the right to cross-examine, as in a trial. In fact the examination procedure is governed by the same rules of evidence and procedure as in a trial, and witnesses may be excluded from the court room if requested by counsel.

In preliminary examinations the defendant seldom produces any evidence, placing the burden of proof entirely upon the people, and tests the people's case, without disclosing the defense.

After the magistrate has heard the testimony he must decide, according to the Penal Code, whether or not "a public offense has been committed, and whether or not there is sufficient cause to believe the defendant guilty thereof."

If the judge decides against the defendant, he orders the defendant held to answer to the Superior Court upon the offense as charged. He then fixes bail in whatever amount, in his opinion, is sufficient.

If the court believes no public offense has been committed the defendant is discharged, and the case ends as far as the magistrate is concerned.

ALTERNATIVES

The District Attorney, however, may although—he seldom does—again file an information against the defendant and again bring the defendant into Municipal Court. Or, the prosecutor can take the evidence before the grand jury, and it can return an indictment, or refuse to. If it returns an indictment, the defendant is held for trial in the Superior Court.

After a defendant is held to answer by a municipal judge the District Attorney files an information in the Superior Court charging the defendant with having committed a public offense, and the matter is set down for trial. The District Attorney has thirty days in which to file an information in the Superior Court.

The defendant is then arraigned in the Superior Court and has to enter a plea of guilty or not guilty.

"Sufficient cause" is interpreted by the law to mean a reasonable belief, or sufficient belief, that the defendant committed offense. The Supreme Court has held in some cases that grave suspicion is sufficient grounds to hold a defendant to answer in the Superior Court. But a magistrate has considerable discretion in holding that in some cases grave suspicion does not warrant putting the county to the expense of holding a trial. There must be reasonable and probable cause shown before a magistrate feels justified in holding a defendant to answer.

SEVEN UP TODAY IN SLAYINGS

Record Major-Crimes Day Scheduled for Courts; Three to be Sentenced

Four defendants will appear for arraignment for murder, and three others will appear for sentence on manslaughter charges growing out of original murder charges in local courts today. It is said to be the most unusual array of murder and manslaughter charges in the recent history of the county during one week.

The murder charges involve the following:

Ventura Enriques will be arraigned before Judge McLucas charged with the murder on July 29 of Juan Contreras.

James G. Alexander will be arraigned before Judge Keetch in the murder on August 27, last, of A. D. Lyon.

Jose Rosalio Cornejo will be arraigned before Judge Keetch in the murder on August 4, last of Felipe Cardenas.

A. B. Andrews will be arraigned before Judge Hahn tomorrow on a charge of murdering W. A. Dow on August 26, last.

In addition Mrs. Adelaide McLaren will appear for sentence before Judge Burnell on a charge of manslaughter of her husband, A. E. McLaren on May 20, last. Mrs. McLaren was originally charged with murder, but was found guilty of manslaughter. It was charged that her husband, while drinking, taunted her and said: "Here's a knife, stick me with it," and that she did.

Selso Gomez and G. Parrilla are to appear before Judge Hahn for sentence on a charge of manslaughter. They, too, were originally charged with murder, but were found guilty of manslaughter for the death of Hilario Martinez on May 18, last.

PICKPOCKET PICKS PURSE AND BASTILE

Visitor From Boston Helps Capture Suspect After Missing His Money

Two escapes, a leap from a moving train, a cross country chase and a rock-throwing battle featured the capture yesterday of George Brown, alias Frank Miller, who, police said, is a pickpocket with a record of thirty-nine arrests and known in many parts of the country.

Peter R. Metzer of Boston told police he was at the Pacific dock, San Pedro, when he felt his pocketbook containing $83 departing. He turned quickly to see one man pass it to another. He recovered his purse from the second man and then turned to seize the first but was too late.

Francis Gillico, a Pacific Electric Railway employee at San Pedro, who saw the disturbance, observed Brown board an electric train and pointed out the man to Metzer. The two seized the man and were bringing him to Los Angeles when, two miles north of Wilmington, he leaped from the train, notwithstanding its speed of about twenty miles an hour. Gillico leaped after Brown and after three-quarters of a mile of chase, during which they threw rocks at each other, Gillico captured Brown.

A passing motorist took the two to Wilmington police. Brown was brought to Los Angeles and charged with grand larceny.

KEYES ASSAILED BY EVANGELIST

Pastor Would Keep Members From Courtroom Today

the "defense fund" has now passed the $3000 mark.

Mrs. McPherson seemed in excellent frame of mind and if she looks forward to the trial of today with some foreboding her platform presence did not betray that fact. At one stage of the morning service, the evangelist called to her arms her daughter and son, Roberta Semple and Rolf McPherson, who were seated at her right and left.

With the two folded in her arms, she began to speak: "Do you believe the mother of two such lovely children could—" The remainder of her statement was lost in the fervent and voluminous applause of the congregation.

DRAMATIC MOMENT

One dramatic moment during the morning services came when Roberta Semple stepped before the capacity congregation and the radio microphone to say in a trembling voice, "I know not why these men should try to drag my dear mother down."

On order of Judge Blake a barrier has been erected in front of the door to his courtroom on the seventh floor of the Hall of Justice to prevent any attempts to crash into the courtroom and to keep the crowd at the hearing today.

Deputy sheriffs will be stationed in and about the courtroom to keep order, beginning at 7 a.m., and remaining on duty through the day.

It is expected the hearing will require at least two weeks inasmuch as Mr. Keyes has announced he will "lay all my cards on the table."

MANY SURPRISES

Many surprises in the form of witnesses and documentary evidence will be presented by the State, during the hearing, according to Deputies Dennison and Murray who will assist Mr. Keyes in presenting the evidence. Whether the defense will introduce any testimony at the hearing remains problematical in view of the fact W. I. Gilbert, chief counsel for Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, has declined to discuss his plans.

BUSINESS MEN SPEAK

Three men, introduced by Mrs. McPherson as "business men of Sunset Boulevard," appeared on the platform of Angelus Temple prior to the testimonial services yesterday afternoon and spoke in defense of the evangelist. Mrs. McPherson herself did not speak at the afternoon services, but delivered a sermon in the evening on "The Second Coming of Christ."

Declaring that "no jury on the American continent would convict Sister McPherson," C. H. Roberts, introduced as the owner of the Roberts Arms Apartments at 1827 Sunset Boulevard, spoke briefly to a capacity audience in the temple.

"I am not a member of Angelus Temple," he declared, "but I want to enter an earnest protest against the propaganda and persecution being heaped upon Mrs. McPherson."

CITES "DISCREPANCY"

Roberts also referred to the McLosh and Babe Daniels angle of the case by commenting on "the discrepancy of releasing two characters by the powers that be; two characters who are accused of the same offense charged against Sister and Mother."

H. E. Holbrook, introduced as a realty man of 1535 Sunset Boulevard, discussed the "rise of property values" created by the growth of the Angelus Temple movement in the Echo Park district, and commented on "the excellent influence of Angelus Temple on the community."

"There is nothing that could convince me Mrs. McPherson could do any wrong," declared F. M. Spinning, introduced by the evangelist as a notary of 1726 Sunset Boulevard. He also stressed the asserted increase in property values because of the existence of Mrs. McPherson's church.

MRS. McPHERSON ASKS FRIENDS TO AVOID COURT

A request that her friends stay away from the court room where she is being examined on charges against her is contained in a statement that Aimee Semple McPherson issued yesterday to the press. It follows:

"We believe it is for the best and request that none of our members or friends congregate either without or within the Hall of Justice during the preliminary hearing. We will know that you are thinking of us and praying for us. During the grand jury investigation the group who assembled voluntarily reported a number of embarrassing circumstances. This had led us to this request.

"We understand that some sensational circumstances are anticipated and planned; and that if temple people are in the group they are to be at least criticised for whatever trouble may arise.

"We will be looking for our friends at the services in Angelus Temple whenever it is convenient for them to be present, and we take this occasion to thank one and all for their expressions of confidence and sympathy."

[Signed]

Hundreds Pray for Pastor on Eve of Trial

Hundreds of prayers for Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple pastor, who will go on trial today for asserted felony, were offered last night at the evening service of the fashionable Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church.

The call for a prayer for the accused evangelist was made by Rev. Frank Dyer, pastor of the church, on behalf of the woman as a Christian worker. Many persons in the congregation bowed their head in silent imploration.

Dr. Dyer preached his evening sermon on the McPherson case.

Protests against the proposed La Brea avenue storm drain system will be heard by the City Council on October 8.

DECISIONS SAVE PUBLIC MILLION

State Railroad Board Issues Report for Fiscal Year

Shippers and Travelers Gain Through Cuts in Rates

Auto Ferry, Street Transit, Freight Costs Included

A saving of $1,000,000 to the traveling and shipping public during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, was accomplished by decisions of the State Railroad Commission, according to a report of the rate department, just made public.

Reduction in auto ferry rates alone is estimated at $750,000. Other adjustments were made in street-car fares in Oakland and Pasadena, railroad freight rates on forest products, crushed rock, sand, gravel; petroleum and petroleum products, fruits, vegetables, canned goods, radio equipment and passenger and express rates charged by auto transportation companies.

The rate department handled 387 informal complaints and 842 applications for rate adjustments during the twelve-month period. Approximately 12,500 new tariffs were filed and checked by the department in order that they may be available for public use. Accumulated since 1909, 170,000 tariffs and supplements are now on file.

you," he was told. "Have you nothing to say to that?"

"Such letters always contain beastly accusations," he returned, and again mentioned his attorney, Raymond Stephens. Mrs. Morgan and other members of the party could not be reached for questioning.

BOB SHULER ATTACKS JUDGES AND KEYES

Declaring that he was ready, if necessary, to go to jail for contempt of court, Rev. Bob Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, last night from his pulpit and in a magazine placed on sale launched a bitter attack against Superior Judges Keetch and Hardy for their attitude in the McPherson case. Dist.-Atty. Keyes also came in for considerable criticism.

Mr. Shuler spoke to a crowd of several thousand persons who jammed every available seat and crowded the corridors of his church.

"No county has a more serious situation to face in regard to its judiciary," declared the minister, as he led up to his subject. "The nation will stand or fall with the courts. Justice must be meted out. When the people are convinced otherwise then will the nation totter."

He then criticised Judge Keetch for his dismissal of the 1926 grand jury when it was engaged in important investigations and declared that "any time Judge Keetch wants it, members of the jury are ready to take the stand and testify that they were coerced while attempting to handle certain phases of the investigations.

"I have more respect for Aimee Semple McPherson than Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy," was another statement that Mr. Shuler made during his discussion that drew applause from the congregation.

"Turning On the Light"

There's No Mystery About This

THERE is nothing mysterious about the way the rate you pay for electric service is fixed.

It is nothing more nor less than a problem in mathematics worked out in a careful and exact way by expert engineers of the State Railroad Commission.

All the facts and figures used are public property, open through the Commission to anyone who wants them.

First, a reasonable value is set upon all our electric properties, and a "fair return" allowed on the money actually invested and used in giving you service. And this "fair return" is much less than most businesses expect to make. To the "fair return" is added the total cost of operating—wages, materials and fuel, upkeep of plant, and taxes. This total is then divided by the number of kilowat hours of electricity sold, and your base electric rate is found.

Everyone knows that the cost of living is much higher now than it was before the war—65% higher than in 1913, statistics show.

And yet, in spite of this and the vastly increased cost of doing business, the average Los Angeles householder today pays 6⅔% less per kilowatt hour for electricity than he did in 1913.

BITS OF IVORY STIR HOLLYWOOD

Sally Anne Can "Bare Fangs" Now

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carewe and Baby

TWO tiny teeth caused much excitement in Hollywood yesterday.

Sally Anne Carewe, daughter of Edwin Carewe and Mary Akin Carewe caused the trouble when she opened her eyes from a nap and displayed the two choice bits of ivory just inside the lower lips.

Telephone wires burned in frantic efforts to locate Sally Anne's daddy, who was at the studio. Mother Carewe clutched the telephone receiver until she finally heard Carewe's voice at the other end. Then the glad tidings were heralded from Beverly Hills to the busy picture plant.

Sally Anne chose a most appropriate time to display her ivor and first "chompers." She was just 6 months of age to the day. When interviewed, Miss Carewe had little to say, but smiled broadly.

The above photograph of Sally Anne and her proud parents is the first one taken since Sally Anne first saw the light of day six months ago in Hollywood Hospital.

Chamber Plans for Observance of Balboa Day

Balboa Day, commemorating the discovery of the Pacific Ocean, will be recognized by the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow evening by a banquet, according to A. G. Arnoll, secretary and general manager of the chamber. The banquet is a forerunner of the Festival of Nations, to be held in Los Angeles in November.

The program, which will be held in the banquet hall of the chamber at 6:15 tomorrow evening, will be unusual. Representatives of different nationalities around the Pacific will give songs and dances illustrative of their national spirit, and a number of young Spanish girls will present a feature called "The Spirit of Colonial California." Brief addresses will be given on Balboa by Lorrin Andrews, and on the relations of Los Angeles to the Pacific Ocean by Dr. William A. Brown.

Cyrus Field, whose name is associated with the earliest Atlantic cable, began life as an errand boy, and H. M. Stanley, the African explorer, was a butcher boy. William Chambers, founder of Chambers's Journal, was originally a bookseller's errand boy; he rose to be Lord Provost of Glasgow. Sir Thomas Lipton began business life as an errand boy, and Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M. P., former Secretary of State for the Colonies in the British Cabinet, went to work as an errand boy at 9 years of age.

PUNCH-BOARD DRIVE OPENS

Contreras Cites Thirty-Five Storekeepers to Appear; Seventeen Held in Dry Net

Inaugurating a country-wide drive against the operation of punch-boards, which was ordered by Dist. Atty. Keyes, George Contreras, county dry law enforcement officer, cited thirty-five storekeepers to appear at the District Attorney's office tomorrow at 2 p.m. Week-end liquor raids conducted by officers under Contreras netted seventeen prisoners, four stills and a large quantity of liquor, according to his report filed yesterday.

The drives against the punch boards which, Contreras says, are operated in violation of the county gambling ordinances, were ordered launched because of complaints that school children were permitted to play the boards for merchandise of questionable value. Merchandise valued at several hundred dollars was seized pending disposal of the cases by the District Attorney's office.

The week-end liquor raids were conducted by Contreras in Long Beach, Belvedere, Santa Monica and Hawthorne with the co-operation of the police authorities in the places mentioned. In Belvedere with the assistance of Constable Zalles the following were arrested: Juan Echeverria, charged with selling whisky; Edward Telles, charged with possession of a still, mash and whisky; Manuel Barbosa, charged with possession of a still, mash and whisky and Sebastian Melino, charged with selling whisky.

Among those arrested was J. R. Sunquist, said to be a former Beverly Hills police officer, on a charge of selling and transporting liquor. William Willette, said to be Sunquist's partner in a taxi business in Santa Monica was taken on a sale charge. Others arrested in Santa Monica were: R. Mahoney, George Jackson, Frank Brown and H. Brown.

In Long Beach H. E. Rockwood and C. Anderson, charged with transportation and possession of six gallons of liquor; truck seized; Percy Williamson and Gus Satterlee, charged with sale. Alec Burns and T. W. Lockhart were taken at Hermosa Beach on a manufacturing charge, the officers seizing a 100-gallon still and eighty gallons of liquor.

Edward Robinson, arrested at Hawthorne by Police Captain Plummer and Federal authorities, was turned over to Contreras's custody for having whisky and some mash in his possession.

DEPUTY CONSTABLE HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Joe Poliquin of 223 North Home street, Bell, said to be a deputy constable, was arrested in Coyote Pass yesterday by Motorcycle Officers Mitchell and Shand, who declared his car contained fourteen cases of Scotch whisky. The officers halted him for speeding, they said.

He was charged with possession and transportation under both Volstead and Wright acts, and suspected smuggling, and was lodged in the City Jail.

Defenders of Indian Rights to Talk Here

Congressman James A. Frear of the Tenth Wisconsin district, and John Collier, executive secretary of the National Indian Defense Association, will be the guests of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon in the chamber on October 15, next, according to Dr. George F. Clements, manager of the chamber's agricultural department, who is investigating Indian conditions.

Both Congressman Frear and Secretary Collier took an important part in the defense of Indian rights during the last session of Congress and have just completed a tour of the Indian country. Conditions on our Indian reservations will be the topic under discussion at the luncheon.

TOO INCLUSIVE

"Everything in this world," says Thomas A. Edison, "should be done by machinery." What! Has Thomas got beyond the kissing age?

A WORSE VICE

PROLIFIC ITALY

"We Italians," says Benito Mussolini, "have need of more territory, because we are prolific and desire to remain prolific." Advocates of birth control would better keep out of Italy.

HE IS IRRESISTIBLE

Gabriele d'Annunzio, who apparently imagines himself to be a he-vamp of the most devastating order, says: "I have only to beckon to women and they come to me." In hordes, no doubt. But it would be indelicate to inquire whether it's a matter of quantity or quality. It's nice to be irresistible, anyway.

A SPOILED STORY

Lady Astor has spoiled the story that, while in Virginia recently, she wiped the paint off the lips of an unknown girl with her handkerchief. She says the incident simply didn't occur. "It's none of my business," she remarked to an interviewer, "if women want to make 'The Last Days of Pompeii' out of their faces. But I do think it's ridiculous." Maybe Nancy didn't want to ruin a perfectly good handkerchief, though she did ruin a perfectly good story.

A WINTER FAIR

Imperial Valley is pretty hot in the summer solstice, but after old Sol crosses the equator that rich, transformed desert has the edge on cooler summer resorts. The valley will stage again a midwinter fair such as could be held at that time in no other section of this far-flung republic. Imperial Valley can assemble in the month of December a diversified collection of fresh vegetables and field crops unique in the Northern Hemisphere and its winter climate is delightful.

HIS WIFE'S HUSBAND

Masculine pride has suffered many blows when an ordinary male is linked up with a wife of more popular standing than himself. Many men have fretted inwardly at being known merely as Mrs. So-and-So's husband. But it was left for a resident of Salinas to wish to change his name to escape this supposed humiliation. The husband was a chauffeur and the wife a grand-opera singer. The petition for change of name followed divorce proceedings. Grand-opera singers ought to know better than to force their names on simple chauffeurs.

THE CAMELS ARE GOING

Fewer camels are said to be in existence now than there were forty years ago, when enormous caravans crossed the Sahara. The Gobi Desert in Mongolia, which since time immemorial had been crossed only on camelback, now has a 'bus line. Camels are giving way to autos on both those great stretches of waste land. On the route to Bagdad the ships of the desert nowadays are motor trucks. A new modern song, "The Camels Are Going," should make a hit in the Bagdad cafes, and Irving Berlin should lose no time in writing and syncopating it.

LOOSE TALK

For reckless meddling in a delicate international affair Senator Caraway of Arkansas has outdone for the moment even Senator Hiram Johnson in the latter's most vitriolic moods.

Faced with a flat denial of his charge that the graves of America's war dead in France have been desecrated, denials proceeding not only from the French government, but also from the American Graves Registration Service, Senator Caraway replies in this wise:

"The statement made by me rested upon no personal information of mine."

Yet Senator Caraway, upon his return from Europe after a relatively brief trip abroad, did not hesitate to charge the French with a base offense against American's heroic dead. Apparently he had not taken the trouble to learn the facts, to determine whether there was the least basis of truth for such a serious accusation against a people always chivalrous even if often misled. Gossip seemingly was sufficient for him—a Senator of the United States.

Undeniably, the French have just cause for resentment. Such a charge, coming as it did from a man as high-placed in the political life of the United States as Senator Caraway, could evoke little less. It is merely unfortunate that France and all the nations of Europe take the carpings of our Johnsons and Caraways so seriously. These mean so little in the United States that we are prone to disregard them altogether. But in Europe a Senator of the United States, no matter what his intelligence or ability, apparently is still visioned as a spokesman for America.

CROSSROADS OF THE WORLD

Air routes exercised a strong fascination on the map-makers of the latest volumes of the Encyclopedia Brittanica. In their estimation, the North Pole is a traffic signal standing in the new crossroads of the world. Most of the suggested new routes pass through the Arctic Circle, and some of the recent explorers envisage this territory as a great future mineral and industrial district.

Isolation was lost to the extreme north when the Norge soared over the top of the world. In an article on "Climate and Resources of the Arctic Regions" Stefansson waxes as enthusiastic as a real estate promoter. Replying to the self-proposed question whether flying across the pole will ever be safe, on account of the numbing cold, the fogs and the violent storms of the Arctic, he replies that the Arctic is one of the least stormy regions of the world, that its average snowfall is less than that of Illinois, that its winters are no colder than those of Dakota, and that there are few places in the Arctic where the summer temperature does not rise at times above 80 deg.

The flight of the Norge from the Old World to the New is referred to as a "Magellan voyage." It is called the first flight along what will later become commercialized routes. He anticipates little difficulty in establishing landing stations in the Arctic and the absence of storms will make these routes much safer than those through the tropical zones.

To accept all this we must surrender many of our hereditary illusions. The inaccessible parts of the world passed with the nineteenth century. We must be prepared to see the grain belt extend across the Arctic Circle. The future New Yorkers will spend their summer vacations in the polar mountains instead of in the Adirondacks. The World Court will devote many sessions to deciding the territorial rights in the polar regions of contesting governments. The drift for centuries of populations to the warm seas will turn backward. In place of saying, "Go west, young man, and grow up with the country!" the admonition will be "Go north!"

The world grows larger while it grows smaller. The disciples of Malthus will thus find the era of overpopulation delayed a few centuries. Fantastical as some of these assertions may seem, they are really more firmly grounded in fact than many of the fulfilled prophecies of a century ago.

An air route from London to Peking, passing through the Arctic Circle, is about 6000 miles in length, almost 800 miles shorter than a similar route from New York. Passing almost directly over the pole, the length of an air route from Chicago to Calcutta is about 8000 miles. From New York to Canton is about the same distance.

When air navigation becomes more commercialized our northern Alaska territory will begin to develop as a summer-vacation land; and this will be followed by increased mineral and agricultural development. Alaska may rival the Middle West in the production of cereals; for Stefansson asserts that "The climate of the Arctic is no worse than that of other places already occupied by prosperous and contented white races, such as Manitoba. Coal has been reported by many explorers. Oil is known to exist. There are indications of copper and iron. There is grazing for millions of reindeer, which need no protection from wind and weather."

If these predictions come to be verified the "coming race" will be nourished by reindeer meat instead of the meat of cattle.

Such glimpses of the future are alike interesting and educational. Their discussion is more profitable than that of wars and rumors of wars. A civilization conquering the polar regions is vastly to be preferred to one bent on self-destruction through using for a deadly purpose the new discoveries of science.

PREMIER AND PRESIDENT

Just before sailing for England the other day Lady Astor said to the reporters that that country had become more democratic than the United States. Among the reasons she gave for saying so were the following:

"In the House are peers and dukes and bootblacks and miners. The government may be called to account at any moment. The Premier can be questioned any day. Here you elect the government and they are in four years. You can't question the President. Think of it! And I can ask the Premier about anything any minute. And if the people are dissatisfied out the government goes.

While there is no cause for questioning the growth of democracy in England, if Lady Astor sought to prove by the statement just quoted that our government is less democratic than Britain's and that our President is less heedful of inquiry from proper quarters than the British Premier, it would seem that she is not as well informed as she might be. In fact, one gathers that she knows more about the high official affairs of England than those of her native land.

A legislator of Lady Astor's relative rank in America has as much right to visit the White House and interrogate President Coolidge as Lady Astor has to rise in the Commons and pop a hot question at Premier Baldwin, and the Presidential quiz would receive as much, if not more, attention. In the heat of debate the Premier might pay but slight heed to such a question, while the President would accord it respectful attention.

Our Chief Executive is elected for a term of four years. Save by impeachment, he cannot be removed during that time, while the tenure of the head of the British government is subject to the will of Parliament, and if his measures go awry he and his Cabinet may find themselves out in the cold on very short notice. That is what happened to Gladstone in 1874 and to Beaconsfield in 1880, though their terms of office were long ones, and it is what happened to Ramsay MacDonald and his Laborite Cabinet in 1924, after only nine months in office.

The British Cabinet is of an informal character. The Premier has a representative and not an official will, which latter is accorded to the sovereign. Like that of our President, the Cabinet is selected by the head official; but the Premier's selections must be ratified in by-elections in their respective districts. Premier and Cabinet are officially appointed by the crown.

The King has been termed "a picturesque figurehead" whose acquiescence in the acts of the dominant party is taken for granted, yet in him resides the sovereign power. Though his speech is drawn up by the Cabinet and may or may not be delivered by him, yet this necessity for royal sanction of essential affairs, which would be repugnant to Americans, contravenes the idea of democracy. The form of the British government is essentially monarchical, but in practice democratic.

Americans are prone to think that their President is subjected to considerable criticism in Congress and out of it, but he is let off very lightly in this respect when compared to the British Premier, who is made a target for rapid-fire abuse of the most virulent order on slight provocation. Many of the Premier's acts are bitterly challenged, and if in a crisis he fails to receive a vote of confidence in his policy he is bound to resign. Even his minor rulings may be nullified. Rabid partisans are always making trouble for him and seem to take delight in doing so.

Imagine such a state of governmental affairs in this country—the President hampered at every turn, his Cabinet appointments confined to members of Congress and referred back to the electorate, a storm of abuse ready to be precipitated upon him at any moment and the gate open to emit him at any hour! How could the business of government be carried on with anything like decorum? No wonder the phrase "muddling through" is such a favorite one in England. And yet Lady Astor affects to consider the British brand of democracy superior to ours!

With our Constitution always in full play, with a Chief Executive reasonably sure of his job and with no monarch above him to have the last word, even though it be a rubber-stamp one, how can Lady Astor or anybody else say that our governmental system is less democratic than that of England? She had best take a little time off from her Parliamentary duties and study her civics.

BOUNDLESS FEARS

Reports that Southern California intends, if it succeeds in gaining its rightful representation in the State Legislature, to remove the State capital south of he Tehachapi and to divert the course of one of Northern California's principal rivers so that it will water the Southland, are being circulated to beat the reapportionment initiative. The fears are groundless.

Instances are lacking where the possession of a State capital added much of anything to a community's importance. Seldom, indeed, is the executive and legislative headquarters found in the principal city, or even one of the secondary cities of a State, and, in fact, the business of politics seems to retard the development of other business. Columbus, O., Harrisburg, Pa., and Albany, N. Y., are three conspicuous examples of State capitals which started out with fair equality with other communities in the State and have dropped behind in the race for population and wealth. Indianapolis and Des Moines might, perhaps, be cited as exceptions.

If there is any movement on foot to move California's capital anywhere it has not been heard of in this end of the State. No one here is envying Sacramento its glory, such as it is. We have plenty of other attractions. Nor will any water be diverted from Northern California, which that section needs, nor at any time without due regard for the rights of all parties. No one here has heard mention of that scheme either.

Southern California is asking in the reapportionment initiative less than its plain rights under the present constitution. At no time has it sought anything to which it is not fairly entitled. Fair-minded and intelligent residents of the northern part of the State recognize this fully and have joined in urging a measure which will restore the constitutional balance, and permit Southern California to have that voice in public affairs which is its due in proportion to its population, its wealth and the taxes it pays.

There are politicians both in the north and in the south who would, if they could, plunder Southern California or any other section of the State like a conquered province. These feel that the present inequitable and unjust distribution of legislative seats favors their schemes, and these are the chief enemies of reapportionment. They, and those whom they succeed in duping with false statements, will vote against it. The fair-minded in all sections are in favor of and will vote for the measure, made necessary because the politicians have so far succeeded in preventing the Legislature from doing its sworn duty.

Southern California has no ulterior motives, no intention of seeking revenge for being deprived of its rights. It is ready now as always to extend the hand of cooperation in furthering the interests of the State. It is merely asking why a Californian in one part of the State should have a greater voice in State affairs than a Californian in another place. To that question the politicians have returned no answer.

SOMETHING NEW

A very wise and somewhat cynical individual many years ago remarked that there is nothing new under the sun, and the remark has been since echoed by large numbers who wished they might be esteemed as wise and were, perhaps, as cynical. Life in those days did seem to go round and round a good deal, doubtless, but nowadays it goes definitely forward. For instance, a man in Wisconsin has hung a string of electric lights over his trout ponds. The gleaming incandescents attract myriads of insects and the trout are fed and get their necessary exercise with no more exertion on his part than the mere turning of a switch. If he is extra lazy he can have the switch turned by clockwork.

Great discoveries are always simple things. The desire of the moth for the flame was the theme of poets long before anyone thought of raising trout artificially, but no one before this Wisconsin genius combined the two ideas; just as countless teakettle lids clanked with escaping steam before Watt made the steam engine practicable. By reason of the Wisconsin man's ingenuity the price of a very expensive table delicacy may be brought within reach of the masses; trout raising will go into large-scale production, and Charles R. Wolf of Delta, Wis., will go down in history as the Henry Ford of the hatcheries.

The idea is worthy of extension. A line of lights at the New Jersey beaches, say half a mile at sea, would serve the double purpose of luring some of that State's justly notorious big game away from land and of ridding the waters of sharks and sea serpents. There is no doubt which would be the winner in a battle between a Jersey mosquito and a shark, but a sea serpent might prove a more formidable adversary and a fight between a mosquito and a sea serpent be worth going miles to witness. In single combat the serpent might more than hold his own, but one can readily imagine that many mosquitoes might combine and turn the waves into a shambles.

THREATENED MEN LIVE LONG

Another plot against the life of King Alfonso of Spain has been unearthed in San Sebastian. That intrepid monarch must find life just one assassination plot after another. We don't know whether the Spanish King bears a charmed life, but certainly he leads a fearless one—which perhaps may be the same thing. When it comes to facing public perils Mussolini has nothing on Alfonso.

THE RIDDLE OF THE SOUTHWEST

BY ARTHUR FARWELL.

II

One need not go as far as the mystical to find grounds for believing that something substantial and highly unusual is to enter into the character of the future life of the Southwest. Consider the racial bearing of the matter, noted in some important aspects by my New York friend. This region of our country represents an Anglo-Saxon population superimposed upon Spanish and Spanish derivative. It should be noted that this Anglo-Saxon is of the "100 per cent American" variety so frequently and glowingly anathematized by Mr. Hoodoo and his school. Welcome as is the leaven of the better element of the "foreign" races in the life of the United States, it remains a fact, interpret it as you like, that the "American" of the Southwest is the old pioneering colonial stock, north and south, which created the nation and gave it its original characters.

Now that it is beginning to be evident, it is necessary to believe, as admitted that the melting pot has not lived up altogether satisfactorily to the function and program originally assigned to it, the fact of this comparative purity of stock in the Southwest may be admitted with a somewhat greater degree of satisfaction than it would have been a few years back. It remains that this stock, as it is found in the Southwest today, is practically without the incumbrance of the hordes of more or less unassimilable aliens admitted by the insufficiently restricted immigration of the past, which constitutes one of its most difficult problems in so many other sections of the country.

This in turn means an influence in future development in the Southwest closer to fundamental American character and principles than can be possible in many other localities, a character which received its spiritual mold from such seers of the New World as Lincoln, Emerson and Whitman. It can well be conceived that the fact of this old American racial stock, taken in conjunction with a basis of pronounced material success and stability, may constitute the soundest kind of a foundation for a surpassing spiritual and intellectual attainment.

It would, indeed, be idle to pretend that these facts are without special significance for the cultural outlook of the Southwest in all of its reaches and ramifications.

PAST AND PRESENT

Let us admit that the greatness of Greece arose in considerable part from the fact of a new race being created by the various and divergent hordes who, in the earliest times, poured down into the Peloponnesus. It is presumable that these races were all of a similarly primitive character, to whom intermixture was easily possible, as it would be virtually impossible for highly evolved representatives of highly evolved peoples today to mix with the cruder representatives of any other peoples, highly evolved or otherwise. Nor is this a time when civilizations are evolved through dim mythic centuries of primitive existence.

It is a sophisticated epoch of railroads, telegraph, airplane and radio.

We are dealing today with a highly developed individual, a not far removed descendant of the American colonist and pioneer, who has not yet in his new estate had time to show what sort of a culture and civilization he would eventually create under the proper conditions.

He has but recently conquered the soil of his land, from East to West, and established the means of trade, to say nothing of rearing the intricate structure of a characteristic culture. It comes before us with the force of a conviction, almost from racial considerations alone, that the proper conditions for such an achievement exist here in Southern California and the Southwest generally as nowhere else in the United States.

The admixture that will work for good under these circumstances is not such a one as the "melting pot" ordinarily implies, but the one which is caused by the intermingling of the different aspects of the original sturdy stock, the direct descendants of the Atlantic colonists, north and south, coming directly from their original habitat and environment, and their indirect descendants coming from localities farther to the westward. This is a melting pot which will melt to good advantage.

THE SPANISH ELEMENT

Now comes something new and intensely interesting in the life of the United States, in the presence of the Spanish element. For three centuries and more the descendants of the bold and noble Conquistadores have inhabited this region, their contact with this soil and their establishment of missions and ranchos creating a life of inexpressible distinction and charm. Unaggressive, taking life easily, making no to-do about their unimaginably rich national and racial culture, they yet proffer us the racial consciousness which gave birth to the architectural splendors of an Alhambra the cosmic satire of a Cervantes, the illuminated imagination of a Calderon, the eternal superportraiture of a Velasquez and the flaming fantasy of a Goya.

They are Latins, for which we Anglo-Saxons, emotionally stiff-jointed by comparison, should be profoundly grateful. And they come from that Latin country least known and understood today, most mysterious and alluring in its charm, which is now being newly discovered and perhaps more eagerly sought out by students and tourists than any other.

If a modifying influence upon the so-called "American" is to be sought (and who will say that such a thing might not have its advantages?) it would be difficult to imagine one more nicely calculated to improve him than an assimilation of this same Spanish consciousness.

The "American," except in isolated instances, has not discovered this as yet, but in time he will. Much has been made of the element of romance which the old Spanish life brings to us. Without in any way belittling this aspect, which in its exterior charm is as welcome and gratifying as it is —Taste it again—as in days gone by. Nothing else was ever so cooling, refreshing and delicious—good for you, too, because nature had purified it in the natural way.

That Old Time Flavor Of Spring Water

POSSIBLY you scooped it up in your hands; or used your cap; or even lay flat and got your face wet, but that didn't matter—pure spring water was the world's best drink then—just as it is today.

You'll find that same old-time flavor in Arrowhead Springs water—for it comes from a genuine mountain spring.

Drink it again! Let it take you back to childhood.

Arrowhead Springs water contains all of the minerals that are natural to the blood. Doctors advocate this better water—they say drink at least three pints a day. You will drink what you need when it really tastes good.

We transfer it immediately to glass-lined tank cars. In a few hours it is bottled and ready at your door. The natural flavor remains just as delicious as when it bubbled from the spring. Pure as mountain dew.

If this delicious spring water isn't all that we claim—as good as any that came from your old-time spring—return the empty bottle and get your money back.

Telephone WEstmore 5231 and ask to have a five-gallon bottle delivered to your home. It costs but 50 cents. Nothing more. We furnish you a stand and cooler free.

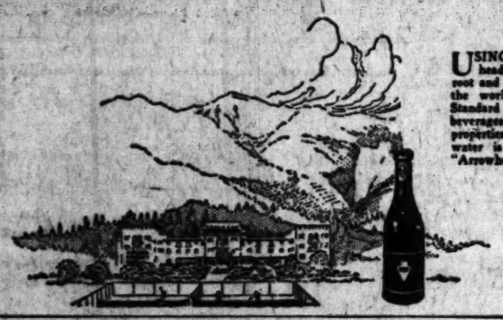
Arrowhead Springs, seven miles from San Bernardino, is one of the world's most famous health and pleasure resorts. Thousands come each year, stay at the famous Arrowhead Springs Hotel, and rest and play as they choose. Twenty-three different kinds of springs, natural steam and mud baths are here, and are known to science as possessing remarkable curative properties.

Arrowhead Springs



USING the famous, naturally pure water from Arrowhead Springs as the base, we add Jamaica ginger root and twenty-one spices from India and all parts of the world to make Arrowhead Ginger Ales, both Standard flavor and Pale "Dry." They are exclusive beverages, unusually good because of their rare blending properties. Scientists say that a pure mountain spring water is superior for this purpose. That is why "Arrowhead" stands among high-quality ginger ales.

OPPOSERS OF NATION'S LAW DENOUNCED AS TRAITORS

W. C. T. U. Convention Orator Excoriates Proponents of Liquor Referenda

"While true Americans sing 'The Star Spangled Banner,' traitors to our Constitution are singing 'How Dry I Am!'" declared Dr. E. E. Helms in his sermon on "The New Crack in the Liberty Bell," preached yesterday before the delegates to the national convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at the First Methodist Church. Dr. Helms spoke in part as follows:

"We have now reached in America the referendum age and stage, whereby each State is to be not only a law unto itself but a land unto itself—a government unto itself; by which, to all practical purposes, each State is to decide whether it is to be longer of the Union. And when these referenda have done their worst the crack in the Liberty Bell will be the knell of the republic. Ours was not intended by the fathers to be a referendum government, but a representative government. Referendumitis has become the national disease and when once contracted it is seemingly incurable, for the attacks are recurrent and frequent.

"In due process, both of time and of law, the California Legislature, in conformity with the act of Congress and counting herself a part of the United States of America, passed a State Enforcement Act, which, duly signed by the Governor, became thereby the law of the State. But the wets, by means of the referendum, forced a popular vote in November, 1922. In that election the people by a decisive majority said, 'We are still a part of the Union; we claim the Liberty Bell still as our bell, we still believe in upholding and enforcing the Constitution of the United States in and by the several States.' That settled it—one would suppose. Only it didn't.

"The real issue before the California voter this fall is simply the bootlegger or the Constitution—which? You can't vote for both. A vote for the Wright law is a vote for the Constitution. A vote against the Wright law is a vote for the bootlegger. You can no more repeal the Wright law and favor the Constitution at one and the same time than you can ride two horses going in opposite directions at the same time. So the one and only question before the voter of California is, are we Reds of Russia, against law and order, or are we red-blooded Americans, for the Stars and the Stripes?

"If, as the wets are loudly proclaiming, it cost $35,000,000 to adopt prohibition, and $30,000,000 a year to enforce it, in that some breath they are confessing themselves to be the blackest brood of traitors ever unhung. Not one dollar was ever spent to enact prohibition against the drys. No one dollar was ever spent to enforce prohibition against the drys. All the millions have been spent to enact and enforce prohibition against the un-American Benedict Arnolds, Judas Iscariot wets. While all true Americans stand and sing, 'The Star Spangled Banner,' these traitors stand and sing 'How Dry I Am.'"

CHURCH UNHARMED BY HUMAN PERFIDY

Dr. Bruce Brown of South Park Christian Church preached yesterday on "Watchman, What of the Night?" He said in part:

"When two fundamental principles are overlooked we have confusion confounded in religion. The first is that the church, as founded by the apostles, was not dependant upon any person for its credentials and authority. It had no human head. Its future was not linked with the success or failure of any man or woman. Paul affirmed that God's truth should go on, though any or every man should be a liar. A church that draws its life from any person will fail when its head fails. The perfidy of any human being cannot affect the church of God. Human institutions will fail when their builders fail. The gates of Hades cannot prevail against the church that Christ built upon the rock of eternal truth. Whatever is founded on truth will stand."

WORD OF CHEER FOR AFFLICTED IN BODY

Rev. Bruce Black, pastor of Wilshire Baptist Church, addressed the KHJ audience yesterday from The Times' broadcasting station. He said in part:

"Some people think that Christianity is merely being saved and then holding on as best one can until death relieves. The truth is that where you are, as you are—if a Christian, you are being momentarily changed into the glorious image of God. This message is primarily to shut-ins, and I have you in mind now as I preach the message. You, on the bed of illness, in the wheelchair, on the sun porch, in your present experiences are being changed into the divine glory. I hope that you are going to get well, either by direct healing of God or some human agency; and no doubt this is going to happen to some of you, but what if it does not? Are you going to become bitter and skeptical? I pray not. Remember an unseen process is going on right now—transformation from glory to glory. Perhaps you have made greater headway in that direction than the many well people who are too busy enjoying good health to learn the meaning of hardship."

DISCUSSES ADVENT OF KRISHNAMURTI

"Art Thou the Master, Krishnamurti?" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Svend Raasted at the meeting of the School of Equilibrium, 327 South Hill street. Mr. Raasted said in part:

"The mastership of the Master, even Christ, does not prove itself by demonstration. Therefore, whenever demonstrations of any kind are used in order to prove mastership, such mastership is of a purely individual nature, and does not even shadow forth an image of the mastership of the Christ. To that one among the many, who has become one in the mastership of the Christ, there is nothing anywhere in time nor space to master, because all things were mastered completely in their beginning, and to the Christ-mind it has stayed thus mastered, and will stay thus mastered to the end. To the individual, the greatest realization, therefore, is to clearly and absolutely understand that the created eternally rests sublimely in the hand of its Creator; that it, like the little child, is being eternally led by its Father."

SUPPORT URGED OF COMMUNITY CHEST

Dr. E. F. Magnin, rabbi of Temple B'nai B'rith, spoke at the temple last Saturday on "Dollars Only." He said in part:

"Los Angeles soon will have a Community Chest campaign for the majority of our worth-while charities in this city. Many, in fact most, of our best business men will enlist. Our women will work with zeal and enthusiasm. We have an orchestra of first rank, the Hollywood Bowl and Art Theater, a number of wonderful institutions to support and encourage. The more we encourage and work for these institutions, the more we do for our own city, State and country and the happier we become. It is easy to fall into a habit of laziness, indifference, and assume a carping attitude, but the more we give and work, the more we receive in love, appreciation and, what is more important, the satisfaction of seeing smiles instead of tears; health instead of disease; joy instead of sorrow; culture instead of ignorance."

EVEN DESTRUCTION SHOWS GOD'S LOVE

"The God of Storms" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. H. C. Culbertson at Mesa Congregational Church. Dr. Culbertson said in part:

"Suppose there were no storms. Suppose the sky were always blue, the fields always fertile, business always successful, no accidents possible in home or street, no hurts, no strains, no temptations. Then there would be no sympathy, no tenderness, no love, no character. This impersonally functioning universe machine is a boon on which character may be woven and there could be no moral development, no sweetness of disposition, no courage, no heroism, no patience, no kindliness if there never had been suffering and need; something to struggle over and to achieve. Human bodies strewing the fields, children crying for their dear ones, homeless families begging for food, all this arouses the best impulses in us, the priceless impulses of Christlike character. In no other way could spiritual personalities be developed in such a universe as this. God is not indifferent. Jesus said that He marks the very sparrow's fall. When He revealed Himself, translating the cosmic consciousness into tears of human life, it was not as radiant life, but it was as a man of sorrows, one who bore the nails and wore the crown of thorns."

NEED OF SPIRITUAL VISION INSISTED ON

Dr. Kerr Boyce Tupper was the preacher yesterday at Temple Baptist Church. In his sermon on "Spiritual Vision," Dr. Tupper spoke in part as follows:

"Oh, men and women of one of America's most lovely cities, blessed with glorious sunshine and sweet air, in vain all Los Angeles' natural beauty, commercial enterprise, even educational institutions, if the material be placed above the moral and the temporal and ephemeral dominate the spiritual and the eternal. Nothing can make a people prosperous and a nation noble save those enduring principles of right and righteousness which lay the basis and erect the superstructure of the true, the beautiful and the good. Vision is that state of mind by which one is impressed with that which lies beyond the senses. It is mind and spirit in exultant operation. Ideals are the product of mental and spiritual vision and out of ideals is constructed character. Herbert Spencer tells us that there is no alchemy by which golden conduct can be referred from leaden instincts. A greater than Spencer declares that as a man thinketh in his heart, so is his character. In the movements of both vice and virtue there comes first the image in the mind and then the tangible reality."

SPEED-MAD WORLD HAS NEED OF REST

Rev. W. C. Isett preached at Amanda Chapel yesterday on "Religion and Nerves." He said in part:

"At first sight there might seem to be no connection between religion and nerves, but a study of religion today convinces one that religion is more nerves than worship. We are longing for rest and in all the ages religion has been the only agency which has offered rest. All religious systems hold out the hope of rest hereafter. No conception of God in the world thinks of Him apart from poise and calmness and rest. We are not surprised, therefore, when we hear Jesus saying, 'Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.' He makes it a practical, every-day thing; something which is a cardinal principal in His religion, meeting a world-need and a world-desire."

A POETIC "RAFFLES"

LITEL SCORES IN "NOT HERBERT" AT MOROSCO

By Herbert Moulton

Irrespective of the number of novelties, dramatic and otherwise, that follow in the wake of a new season of theatricals, the melodramatic crook play may always be depended upon to put in a perennial appearance and furnish a plenitude of thrills of the spine-shattering variety.

The first of this year's group is called "Not Herbert," and if there are any who feel that this form of diversion has lost its power to make red corpuscles turn pale, I suggest a visit to the Morosco, where this nerve-ruffler opened yesterday.

One will discover all of those familiar, but none-the-less chilling, ingredients that always form an integral part of such plays.

The darkened stage in the third act, the sliding panel, the hidden electric switch, the eerie flickerings of signal lights, and the many other mechanical "touches" that invariably prove so shocking—they're all in evidence.

These familiar features, however, while still very potent, do not provide the real punch in "Not Herbert." The zest, the kick, the thrill, lies in the character of Herbert himself, the queerest jewel thief that ever twirled a combination.

Verily, he is a crook with a soul! His chief interest in life is poetry. His excursions into the realms of felony are a secondary consideration and to him quite innocent.

It is around this character that the plot of "Not Herbert" revolves. And there is nothing conventional about the plot, even if certain phases of the stage business emit an antiquated creak now and then.

The piece is sluggish in its start, with too much dialogue that is inconsequential, but after the middle of the second act the movement picks up and is thenceforward fairly well sustained.

The character of Herbert, as played by Morosco's new leading man, John Litel, is as strong a masculine role as I have seen over the footlights in a long time.

Litel's interpretation is well-nigh perfect. He easily dominates the play. Without apparent effort he accomplishes the feat of creating sympathy for a character that ordinarily would gain only laughs and the sort of excited interest that stage crooks usually engender.

He bears a similarity to that famous predecessor, Raffles, in that he is something of a gentleman crook, above suspicion, and master of any situation in which he might find himself. There the comparison ends. Herbert is a rich man's son, with an independent income; he is a poet, a dreamer—and he's afraid of the dark.

His overpowering fear of darkness, he explains, is really what started him on a career of pilfering priceless pretties. His poetic soul was fascinated by the night; the blackness outside drew him irresistibly. Dark rooms proved to be too strong a lure; he succumbed to that which he most feared.

Were it not for this explanation, this whitewashing of his actions, I doubt if the last act of "Not Herbert" would win the approval of those who insist on seeing dishonesty punished even in the theater.

For all its thrilling situations and hair-raising episodes in the dark, "Not Herbert" is essentially a comedy. The principal character itself, the detached, unsocial poet, is provocative of mirth. His scene with the detective, in particular, is riotous in this respect.

Alma Tell does a sympathetic heroine capably, though the part is not large enough to make it by any means distinguished.

The ingenue role is played by Elizabeth Allen, who puts a lot of vigor into her performance and makes it generally acceptable.

Of the supporting men, honors will have to go to Frederick Fymm, who plays Herbert's butler-accomplice. His delineation, like that of Litel, is done with deftness and distinction.

Others appearing are Alexandra Phillips, Edward P. Wade, Harry Garrity, Jasoda Marinoff and James Bush. J. Morris Foster would do well to give less austerity to the character of the father.

BUSY EVENING AT THEATERS

New Plays Provide Interesting Menu

Distinguished Names

LOS ANGELES theatrical first nighters are in for a busy evening.

Three important new plays will be seen locally for the first time tonight.

To be on hand at these three events the seasoned playgoer must make a hurried jaunt from the Playhouse, where Louis O. Macloon is presenting "The Cradle Snatchers," to the Philharmonic, where Margaret Anglin and Blanche Bates appear in "Footloose," and from the Philharmonic to the Hollywood El Capitan Theater, where Martha Hedman will be seen for the first time in "The Bride of the Lamb."

Quite a busy evening.

"The Cradle Snatchers" is said to have had a most successful run in San Francisco, and is a leading box-office attraction in New York. Helen Bolton is the featured member of the cast. It is the only comedy of the three attractions.

Margaret Anglin and Blanche Bates are presenting two Zoe Akins plays in their repertoire at the Philharmonic. The two stars have invited as their guests on the opening night the principals of the "Julius Caesar" cast, which was presented in the Hollywood Bowl recently. The Anglin-Bates costarring engagement is for but one week.

"The Bride of the Lamb," at the El Capitan, an intensely dramatic play by William Hurlbut, is a treatment of modern evangelism. Martha Hedman, the star, is supported by Louis Bennison in the role of the evangelist. It is the first play to be staged by Frank Reicher since his connection with the El Capitan.

Rod La Rocque Will Show at Million Dollar

Paul Whiteman and his gang of "fleas," as they term each other, are now entering their second week at the Million Dollar Theater with an entirely new repertoire of numbers and settings. "The fleas" are a national organization with three chapters of some of the best musicians in the country. Whiteman's band is chapter No. 1, which contains the big and little "Cockroach," the large and small "Bedbugs," and the similarly proportioned rest of the insect larvae. Herb Wiedoeft and his orchestra were made chapter No. 2 in New York, and Don Clark and his Biltmore Hotel orchestra will be initiated into No. 3 next Sunday night.

Whiteman's present program, in conjunction with Thomas Meighan in "Tin Gods," on the screen, closes Wednesday night. Rod La Rocque in his latest picture, "Gigolo," opens Thursday, the dramatic story of a man marred by the war in face, and deprived of his sweetheart at home. He turns to professional dancing as a business, a "Gigolo."

Leo Forbstein, is now working on the score of "Gigolo." He will take up the baton of the Million Dollar Theater pit orchestra beginning Saturday. Forbstein was formerly guest conductor of the Metropolitan Theater orchestra, and later guest conductor at the Egyptian.

FOX NAMES STARS FOR PRODUCTION

What is believed to be the biggest motion-picture announcement of the year came from the executive offices of the William Fox West Coast studios yesterday after a decision was made as to who would play two of the most coveted roles in filmdom—those of Diane and Chico in the screen version of Austin Strong's drama, "Seventh Heaven."

JANET GAYNOR

They are Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell.

This decision came after a year of search, testing, and more searching through the screen and stage world, during which, it is said, virtually every important dramatic star of the screen — male and female—had sought to be cast for these golden dramatic plums. The list of those who angled for these two parts includes every big dramatic name in the business yet, in arriving at a selection, Winfield R. Sheehan, vice-president of Fox Films, demanded personalities instead of names.

Charles Farrell.

Janet Gaynor, who will play the soulful, tragic, then joyful Diane whom Helen Menchen immortalized on the spoken stage, first attracted attention to herself in "The Johnstown Flood." She showed that she could feel the great emotions in her soul and had a seriousness of purpose in her work. Then she was cast in "The Return of Peter Grimm," and she repeated with another vivid emotion achievement.

Like Miss Gaynor, Charles Farrell is on the brink of cinematic fame. He is a dramatic discovery of Mr. Sheehan and is under contract to Fox Films. He has just finished the male lead in "Old Ironsides," being loaned for this role by Fox. Farrell is the epitome of youth—a veritable Chico in real life—typification of unconquerable youth, virility and determination, whose "seventh heaven" is just above the manhole; yet with a naivete and romantic turn that should blend ideally into the story.

Frank Borzage, who will direct "Seventh Heaven," departed for New York Saturday en route to France where he will do much research work in connection with actual conditions which prevailed in Paris when war was first declared. He took with him a completed script written by Benjamin Blaser and his camera man, Ernest Palmer, who will shoot scenes for "Seventh Heaven."

'Volga Boatman' Seen on Screen for Last Times

"The Volga Boatman" will flash its farewell performance across the screen at Fred Miller's Carthay Circle Theater tonight.

For the next two days every moment will be devoted to getting ready for the second big opening in the career of this showplace.

The world's premiere of "Bardelys The Magnificent" Wednesday night will bring John Gilbert to the screen as a romantic and daring young man of King Louis XIII's time.

CARROLL McCOMAS COMES BACK HOME

Old Friends Bank Orpheum Stage With Floral Tributes to Los Angeles Actress

By Katherine Lipke

Elsie Janis in her third week of mimicry . . . Carroll McComas appearing in her own home town, with flowers over the footlights 'n everything . . . Adela Verne of the charming musical technique . . . Harry Fox, the shy devil. . . . well, the Orpheum is very much the Orpheum this week.

Elsie, with an informal gesture, has thrown away her regular schedule and is doing this and that and everything. She proceeds to get chummy with everybody and has a beautiful time. Anything Miss Janis does is popular but she is at her best when she goes back to her famous impersonations at the close of the act. No audience will allow Elsie to be herself long while they know she has Will Rogers and the Barrymores up her sleeve.

The name of Carroll McComas is well known in Los Angeles. The sight of her on an Orpheum program brings a tumult of applause from her many friends. However, we could wish her a better vehicle than "Right You are," the skit she brings with her. The story of a modern situation between a man and a girl, it falls short of being funny and is at best mediocre. Miss McComas herself is as attractive and charming as ever, and the wealth of flowers sent over the footlights at her opening yesterday nearly covered the stage.

When a pianist with a classical repertoire can cause a stampede of enthusiasm from an amusement-bent Orpheum audience, it means many laurels for the pianist. Miss Adela Verne possesses a splendid technique and in her present program gives a series of selections as popular as anything on the bill.

With even Elsie Janis a little more serious than usual and one or more of the other acts classical in intent, Harry Fox with his pleasant nonsense is a welcome friend. His songs are accompanied by facial gyrations and all in all he is great for the laughter muscles of the face. With him is that amazingly pretty girl Beatrice Curtis and a towel chorus which the program states are "six beautiful girls."—go and see for yourself.

Lionel Ames is a new female impersonator as far as Los Angeles vaudeville audiences go. He is good "in his line." His voice still keeps a masculine hoarseness but the face and the figure look for all the world like the "second from the left" in any musical comedy show. Paule Bernard assists him.

A venture into the grotesque is Pepito's clown act assisted by two beautiful blondes Rosita and Nenette. Pepito gives some interesting animal imitiations as well as allowing the blondes to express themselves in song and dance.

Sidney Marion and Gene Ford call their act "Divertissements." The involved nature of this word seems to give them endless liberties with the patience of the folks in front. There was applause when they finished yesterday. Some of the audience must have liked them. A-Hack and Dale appear at the beginning of the program in athletic stunts. They are well worth one's being on time.

BACKWARD TURN

It seems that on last Thursday evening two gentlemen not totally unknown to fame staged a little boxing match in Philadelphia for the edification of rather a large audience.

Hence, quite apropos is the present appearance at the Hillstreet of Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, whose lengthy fight at Coney Island on November 3, 1899, was decidedly the event of that epoch in sporting circles.

The former champions box three rounds, supposedly duplicating the decisive round of their historic fight.

It is interesting to see men whose names have been synonymous with boxing for decades. Too, both are dignified and likable.

Comedy galore is injected into the Jeffries-Sharkey "match" by the rotund Larry Rich, who obligingly remains after his act to engineer proceedings.

Incidentally, Rich and his gorgeously garbed little girl friend, who rejoices in the name of Cherie, though she asserts that she is none other than the well-known Cleopatra of Egypt and who also favors with an unmistakably Spanish dance, are one of the bright spots on the bill.

Offering sheer foolishness, of course, but "getting over" wonderfully.

Wilfred Clark and his fellow mirth makers offer the reliable old farce situation, where the wife and the other woman arrive on the scene simultaneously, while George Yeoman has something novel in the way of radio numbers. Lizzie assists George—her contribution to the act being mainly in the way of looking very dashing in a very dashing costume.

Groh and Adonis open the bill. Apparently Groh is the nimble youth who performs all over the piano and Adonis must be the most talented of his cavorting canines. Anyway, they're clever.

"Sunny Side Up" tells all about a little waif who aspires to glory behind the footlights.

Fortunately for her dreams of fame, she catches the eye of a theatrical manager and then, of course, everything is "all set." By way of variety, Sunny almost "flops" on the opening night of the show, but her awkwardness appeals to the audience and she emerges a success.

Vera Reynolds is amusing and appealing as the wide-eyed Sunny, while Edmund Burns makes a decorative, if not impressively, dramatic hero. Ethel Clayton is convincing as the wife with gold-digging tendencies, while George K. Arthur and Zasu Pitts give their usual splendid performances.

PLAYS SIMON LEGREE

George Siegmann having fully recovered from his recent illness, will shortly resume work before the camera. His first assignment will be a featured character role in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which he appears as Simon Legree. Following the completion of this, he will immediately begin in "The Bargain Bride," both Universal productions.

SOCIETY

When the Prince of Wales visits the United States next spring it is understood that he will do so in the strictest incognito. This means that everybody in the country will know that he is on American soil and also probably where he is from hour to hour; but it will mean also that it will be "bad form" to shower invitations upon him or take notice of his presence officially in any way.

The Prince loves the time he had last year but on his coming visits he wants to see more of America and less of super-palatial homes.

The only way to do that is to come "incog," as they say, and he will travel as the Earl of Chester or the Duke of Cornwall but that will not prevent Americans stopping in the street to look at him or copy the cut of his cap . . . and by the way a rumor has crept around that the Prince's ""double" will visit America at the same time, to draw off some of the adulation. It has been denied, of course, but the fact remains that he has a "double" and the resemblance is uncanny.

However, as the young man moves in the smarter younger set of London and is to be found in the restaurant foyer of the Savoy or Berkeley, color is lent to the situation, especially when the prince is there at the same time.

The international regatta continues to be the main topic of conversation in Lucerne, although tourists are spreading all over Continental Europe many going on to Paris for a brief sojourn before settling down for a long stay.

Mrs. Edwin Jessup Marshall of Los Angeles and Pasadena and her small grandson, Edwin Jessup Marshall II, have arrived at the Savoy Hotel in Fountainbleau, from Biarritz, to enjoy a brief visit before going to Lausanne. Mrs. Marshall will be joined October 1 by Mrs. Guggenheim and Miss Michaelis Newborg, a member of the Guggenheim house party, in Biarritz, whence they are planning to leave for the Orient, going by way of Constantinople, where they expect to pass the winter season.

Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, who sailed early in June for Europe, joining her daughter, Mrs. Leila Holterhoff-Heyn, in Paris, left with Mrs. Heyn several days ago for Vienna and Taromina and will return to Paris before sailing for home. Mrs. Heyn and Miss Mabel Otis will accompany Mrs. Holterhoff home and are planning to arrive here in time for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Small of Los Angeles are visiting in Wiesbaden, the Rhineland hot springs resort, where they are stopping at Hotel Rose, while Mrs. Mary L. Freudenberg, Mrs. Anna Gilbert and daughter and Miss Mary N. Smith of Pasadena are staying at Hotel Kaiser.

Mrs. Deborah Leivin of Hollywood is stopping at Hotel d'Angleterre in Biarritz for the fashionable autumn season at the Basque coast resort, and Mrs. Dora Fuller has been visiting in Zurich, a guest at Hotel Baur-au-Lac.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Mathews and family have arrived in Nuremberg, Germany where they are registered at the Grand Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stearns with their two sons have arrived in Saint-Jean-de-Luz, on the Basque coast of France, and are stopping at the Golf Hotel, while Mrs. Johnston Preston of Hollywood has returned to Paris from Deauville and is giving a series of small smart dinners for friends who are passing through the French capital on their way home. Last week she entertained for Mrs. William Howland and Mrs F. P. Woods of New York.

Miss Florence Preston gave a dinner at her home in Avenue Morceau, Paris, last week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talley of Boston, who are in Paris on their honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Scott have arrived in Paris, having motored from Aix-les-Bains, and will be domiciled at the Hotel Majestic. They plan to sail for home in October. Mr. and Mrs. Scott were hosts at a dinner party Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cruttenden and Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Wyeth of New York.

Miss Anna Smith and Mrs. Lulu Miller are visiting in Lausanne, as guests at Hotel Mirabeau, while Mrs. Frances Allen of San Diego and Mrs. Constance Ellis of Alpine are at the Alexandra Grand Hotel there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave de Bretteville, who were married in Paris recently, were noticed last week at a tea in the Ritz gardens with the former's sister, Mrs. Adolph B. Spreckels, of San Francisco, and several California friends. Mrs. De Bretteville was formerly Miss McKim of Los Angeles. They are planning to go to England soon for a short visit before sailing for home.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. McClintock and children, Robert M., John C. and Betty, of Pasadena, having completed a two months' tour of Europe, have sailed for home aboard the liner, President Van Buren, from Marseilles.

Mr. and Mrs. James Holt are stopping at Hotel Beau-Rivage in Geneva, while Mr. and Mrs. William R. Staats of Pasadena have arrived at Royal Monceau Hotel in Paris from Montreaux, Switzerland.

After passing the whole of August at Hotel Excelsior on the Lido at Venice, Mrs. Herbert L. Jaffe and her attractive daughter, Miss Lois, are now at the Grand Hotel in Rome, where Miss Jaffe will pass the winter in school.

Mrs. Laura B. Hadley was a passenger aboard the Minnetonka on its most recent trip to Europe.

Mrs. B. S. Good is visiting in Lucerne, a guest of Hotel Schweizer, while Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Stanley with their son were recent visitors to Cologne, Germany, and Miss Irene Patterson of Long Beach is in Paris, a guest at Hotel Savoy.

Wedding Plans

Of much interest to members of the younger set is the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Frances Halliburton Luna, charming young daughter of Mrs. E. White Luna, of Dallas, Tex., to Robert Ash of Washington, which will take place next month in Dallas. Miss Luna was much entertained here last year, when she visited Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Peter Werner, and Mrs. Werner is leaving here October 3 to assist as matron of honor at the ceremony.

Mr. Ash and a large party of friends are going down from Washington in his private car and the wedding is to be one of the brilliant events of the fall in the southern city.

Mr. Ash and his bride are sailing October 9 from New York for Europe on their honeymoon, and after their return will be at home at the Wardsman Park Hotel, Washington.

After the wedding Mrs. Werner is going down to Richmond, Va., where she will attend the national convention of U.D.C.'s, November 15-17, and afterward will go to New York City, where she is planning to attend a series of lectures at Columbia University. She will be home early in December.

Philharmonic Orchestra

Mrs. Cecil Frankel, chairman of the woman's committee of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, announces that the principal speaker at the women's committee luncheon this afternoon at the Biltmore will be Mr. James McDermott Sheridan, formerly chief assistant to the Attorney-General during the Taft-Wilson administration, and who is now making his home in Los Angeles.

The executive committee of the women's committee includes Mrs. Cecil Frankel, general chairman; Mrs. Force Parker, vice-general chairman; Mrs. Hansen Moore, secretary-treasurer; department chairmen, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Ralph W. Buckham, Miss Gladys Caldwell, Mrs. Caroline B. Eager, Mrs. E. H. Furman, Mrs. W. F. Howard, Mrs. Kent Parrot, Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Mrs. Robert I. Rogers, Mrs. James G. Scarborough, Jr., Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mrs. Leslie Sloan-Orcutt, Mrs. Alfred Stern, Mrs. Harold B. Wrenn, Mrs. John Cook, Mrs. Harry H. Culver, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish.

Luncheon Party

Mrs. Oscar A. Trippet entertained at luncheon Friday afternoon at the Women's Athletic Club in honor of Judge and Mrs. Douglas L. Edmonds. The table was arranged in the lovely gardens of the club and was decorated with a profusion of colorful blossoms and foliage. Those included were Judge and Mrs. Edmonds, Mrs. Robert McReynolds, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey McCarthy, Miss Ruth Sterry, Miss Antoinette Sabel, Oscar A. Trippet, Jr., Mrs. Dora A. Stearns and the hostess.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

DIET IN CHRONIC GASTRIC ULCERS

The death of young, athletic Rudolph Valentino, apparently well and at the height of his fame as a screen actor, will, I hope, serve as a warning not to neglect symptoms of disorders. He died from the effects of a ruptured gastric ulcer, and he was unaware that he had an ulcer.

According to the reports, however, he had had symptoms of severe indigestion and was continuously taking bicarbonate of soda. So he had had warnings of trouble, and had he seen a competent physician in the beginning and been treated, he no doubt would have been saved; for gastric and duodenal ulcers are very often remediable by dietetic and medicinal treatment. If not, then by surgical removal.

As I told you last week, the dietary treatment of acute ulcer is mostly milk, or milk and cream, or milk and raw eggs, after a preliminary fast of a few days, if hemorrhage has occurred. Rest in bed is imperative, and at first, if hemorrhage has ocurred, ice bags to the stomach. After the hemorrhaging has ceased, hot applications.

Gradually the diet is extended until it is large enough to keep the patient in normal weight and health. But even in these cases, there is a tendency to relapse and the acute symptoms to recur, because, as Kellogg says "The average ulcer patient does not consider himself cured of his ulcer unless he is able to return to the ordinary dietary, which is invariably the dietary well calculated to develop ulcer and very likely to lead to a relapse. The development of ulcer can, in the future, be prevented only by careful avoidance of all the causes known to be provocative of this condition, particularly those foodstuffs which unduly tax the energy of the stomach and weaken its defense by prolonging its digestive period and overstimulation of the gastric gland."

Dr. Kellogg is a veteran and he believes that the eating of flesh foods is one of the causes of ulcer. Other physicians do not believe that flesh eating in itself is the cause, but that the excessive meat eating or the excessive eating of any particular foodstuff, gives an unbalanced diet, which in itself will cause lowered resistance in the mucous membranes and other organs.

After the ulcer is cured, the patient must, for many months, continue on a nonirritating diet. I will give you Kellogg's ulcer diet list (with the modifications that Tice allows,) as many have asked for it.

ULCER DIET LIST

Vegetables: Purees of vegetables such as spinach, peas, asparagus, beets, carrots, corn, celery and egg plant. Mashed or baked potato.

(Tice allows simple salads after four months. Use a small amount of lemon juice instead of vinegar for the dressing, for it has vitamins and is not so irritating.)

Cereals: Rice flakes, wheat flakes, cream of wheat, Granola, soft buttered tost, cream gluten mush, rice and gruels of all cereals.

Breads: Toasted bread, Granose and rice biscuit.

Miscellaneous: Olive oil, butter, cream, soft cooked eggs, cottage cheese, chese with cream, youghourt cheese.

Accessories: Agar, bran, paraffin oil. (For constipation.)

(Tice also allows meat to be chewed, not swallowed, up to three months, then, later, if tender and well chewed, to be swallowed.)

It seems to me, in the light of our newer knowledge of vitamins, that Tice's modification is the better. The heavy meal should be at the middle of the day, and Tice advises eating at 7, 9, 11, 1, 4 7 and at bedtime. The 7 a.m. feeding is a pint of skim milk and one ounce of cream; the 9 a.m., breakfast; at 11 a.m., cup of bouillion and two graham crackers; 1 p.m., dinner; 4 p.m. one glass of hot peppermint water (twenty drops to glass, sipped,) and two graham crackers; 7 p.m. supper; the bedtime meal is one glass of malted milk or hot skim milk.

It must be remembered that when the regular diet is attained, food must be chewed very thoroughly and those that are known to give distress are to be avoided.

Tomorrow—Birthmarks.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on Reducing and Gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 300 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Double Hems

One Mother Says:

When making a wash dress for my growing daughter, I find it is best to turn up a double hem. If the dress shrinks in washing or the child grows and the dress must be lengthened, it is easy to drop one hem and the material will be the same color as the dress, if any fading has taken place.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Change in Cereal

One housewife gives the family boiled rice for their washday breakfast cereal and uses the rice water for light starching of the clothes. Not bad, is it?

Time to Stop

It is all right to try home remedies for the child's cold, but if, after a good trial, you can see no improvement, it is time to call a doctor and get professional treatment.

Light for Cooking

The lighting of the kitchen at night is most important. If the center light does not throw sufficient light on to the stove, it will be worth the price to have a side bracket installed next to the stove. One cannot cook well if one cannot see well.

To Dry Quickly

If you wish to wear a certain pair of silk stockings and they must be washed first, a quick way of drying is to wring them out as dry as possible and then roll tightly in a Turkish towel for five minutes. Then hang in an airy place. They will dry very quickly.

FRICANDELLES

Have the butcher chop very fine one-half pound each of pork and beef. To this add one medium-sized onion, chopped fine, two slices of bread that have been soaked in cold water and squeezed dry in the hands, one egg and one-half saltspoonful each of pepper and salt. Mix all together thoroughly, shape into small cakes, dip in egg and cracker crumbs and fry in hot olive oil.

MELON D'EAU SALAD

Keep a watermelon on ice long enough to be chilled through; cut in half lengthwise and scoop out the pulp in egg-shaped pieces with a tablespoon rejecting every seed. Clean and smooth the inside of one-half of the melon shell and polish the outside to serve as a bowl. Arrange grape leaves on an oblong platter and set the melon bowl in the midst, with a chunk of ice in the middle of it. File the pink melon about the ice, and pour over a French dressing made with salt, lemon juice and oil.

KESWICK PUDDING

Three-quarters cup sugar, one cup boiling water, yolks three eggs, one quarter cup sugar, few grains salt, tablespoon rejecting every seed. Clean one and one-quarter tablespoons granulated gelatine, one-quarter cup of cold water, one-quarter cup lemon juice. Dissolve sugar in water and again bring to the boiling point. Beat yolks of eggs slightly and add sugar and salt. Pour on gradually the boiling syrup and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; then add gelatine soaked in cold water, and lemon juice. Strain, set in ice water and stir until mixture begins to thicken. Turn into a mould, first dipped in cold water. Remove from mould and garnish with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

CORN MOCK BISQUE SOUP

One can corn, one quart milk, one slice onion, three tablespoons flour, one-quarter cup cold water, one-half can tomatoes, one quarter teaspoonful soda, one-third cup butter, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, one-eighth teaspoon paprika.

Scald milk in double boiler with corn and onion. Mix flour with cold water to form a smooth paste and add to scalded milk; then cook twenty minutes, stirring constantly at first and afterwards occasionally, and rub through a sieve. Cook tomatoes ten minutes, add soda and rub through a sieve. Combine mixture and strain into a tureen. Add butter bit by bit and seasonings.

PIGEONS CHAMBERLIN

Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, let it get smoking hot and then put in one-half dozen pigeons carefully cleaned, with head and feet cut off, and tied up in thin slices of salt pork. Brown them, then dust with flour, moving them about until the flour is also browned. Cover with boiling water, season with salt and pepper and simmer gently until tender; then add a pint of shelled green peas and continue to cook until the peas are done. Lay the pigeons in a platter, with the peas heaped around them.

The LAST WORD

By ALMA WHITAKER

CHILD EVANGELISTS

There is evidently going to be a bumper crop of child evangelists this year. I have been collecting newspaper cuttings about them lately and a new one pops up every few days.

Last year they ran to girls—earnest maidens of about 16 or 17 years of age who hoped to become Aimee Semple McPhersons, or whose relations hoped it for them.

But a boy or two broke out here and there—mostly a trifle younger. Boys of 16 are not so interesting and eloquent as girls of 16.

But since then both boy and girl preachers have been getting younger all the time. The latest in our district is a golden curly headed lambkin of 6, who divides his time with motion-picture acting and doing fancy swimming stunts under father's direction at the athletic club.

JUVENILE SERMONS

This small boy gravely enters the pulpit, where a box has been placed for him to stand on, and carefully recites the little sermon planned for him. He is most careful to get all the gestures and emphasis in the right place. If he makes a mistake he goes back over it. He concludes with a little prayer in which he invokes the Almighty to lead this congregation out of the darkness into the light and bestow special blessings upon them.

Then there is a little 6-year-old girl with long corkscrew curls. This dear child is in great request, especially as she leads the hymns in a little shrill voice. So we see her advertised to appear twice on Sundays, one or two evenings for prayer meetings during the week and holding receptions for people who want her to specifically pray for them individually.

We can easily guess that the rest of this dear child's time is devoted to learning her stuff, rehearsing her sermon and public prayers—and no wonder her little forehead is already a bit corrugated.

UNFAIR TO CHEAT THEM OF CHILDHOOD

Now many a husky male pastor would consider this heavy work, a full-sized man's burden and responsibility. Apart from the doubtful religious benefit of such exploitation of the babies, it is surely unfair to saddle these children with so much study and hard work. And surely the religious benefit is very doubtful indeed. Rather difficult to understand the psychology of a congregation that will approve such a practice or of the pastors who share their pulpits with these little people.

I cannot help feeling that there is something wrong with us grown-ups when we are reduced to exploiting the babies in this way. It is regretable when litt. children are exploited for public entertainment and kept up all hours of the night, and trained to mimic their elders—often in very dubious performances. But I cannot see that exploiting them for religious purposes is very much better. Perchance there may be a small child once in a way who shows a peculiar spiritual ability and was "born to be an evangelist"—but one would suppose they must be very rare. And, even so, it seems unfair to cheat them out of their childhood.

One small boy, in velvet trousers and a white silk shirt, has proved an adept at raising money for church funds. The little fellow recites his piece so glibly and exhorts the congregation to generosity so earnestly. Someone had to teach him that. Yet an pastor will admit that "raising the money" is the most distressing part of his work! One can't help hoping the child evangelist vogue will soon pass.

WELL SMALL PUMPER

Project is First Between Ventura Field and Summerland

CARPINTERIA, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—The producing well near the ocean just west of here is pumping about seventy barrels of oil a day when operated. This is heavy oil, and the well is the first producer between the Ventura-avenue field and Summerland.

The Becker test well at the edge of the Coast Highway in Summerland, recently suspended at 3000 feet, is to resume drilling. The shallow sand that produces in the shallow ocean water was not productive in the Becker test and it will be carried down in search of deeper sands, according to field reports.

KERN OUTPUT GIVEN

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 26. (Exclusive)—Kern county produced an average of 150,799 barrels of oil daily during the past week, the Sunset and Midway fields leading with 94,000 barrels daily, while the other fields ranked as follows: Elk Hills, 34,000; Kern River, 11,297; McKittrick, 5332; Lost Hills-Belridge, 4720, and Wheeler Ridge, 1450 barrels.

During the same period nine new wells were spudded in, six tests for water shut-off were made and as many deepening or redrilling jobs begun.

Appeal Court to Hear Variety of Cases Today

Division One of the Second District Court of Appeal will hear a wide variety of cases when the monthly calendar is called today by Presiding Justice Conrey.

In addition to the appeal of F. Amy Wallington from a conviction of improperly attempting to influence a juror, the court will hear pleas in burglary, embezzlement, robbery, forgery, Wright Act, State Poison Act and driving-while-intoxicated cases.

The case surrounding Miss Wallington arose out of the trial of Barney Schwarz and others on charges of violating the Corporate Securities Act. She is said to have been Schwarz's secretary.

Louis Wallach, convicted of burglary on a charge of breaking into the dental school of the University of Southern California, July 26, 1926, will appeal from his sentence on technical grounds.

The court will hear a total of twelve criminal and eight civil cases.

COST OF ELECTRIC SYSTEMS TO BE SET

A hearing to determine the compensation to be paid by the city of Los Angeles for certain electric-distributing systems acquired from the Southern California Edison Company will be held here tomorrow by State Railroad Commissioners Seavey and Decoto. The systems were taken over by the city as part of its municipal system when Hawthorne and other districts were annexed. The equipment includes lines, poles, transformers, meters and substations.

Letters Praise Work on Drain for Hollywood

The board of directors of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce has forwarded letters of appreciation to City Storm-Drain Design Engineer Armstrong and to Construction Engineer Cortelyou for their handling of the design and construction of the sections of the Arroyo de la Sacatela storm drain in Hollywood and for their work in preventing unnecessary inconveniences to the public during the construction period. The directors' letters said that the handling of the work by Engineers Armstrong and Cortelyou and by the contractor, Will F. Peck, "has been such as to materially allay our apprehensions with reference to the handling of other drainage proposals now under way in the Hollywood area."

Employment Shows Increase Over Last Year

There was a 3 per cent increase in the number of persons employed in California industries and a 4 per cent increase in the total pay roll during last month, as compared with August, 1925, according to a statement issued yesterday by State Labor Commissioner Mathewson.

The statistics are based on information furnished by 670 manufacturing establishments, which pay $623,703 in wages to a total of 162,958 workers.

The average weekly earnings of wage earners in August, 1926, was $38.37, compared with $38.13 in August, 1925, according to the commissioner.

She Trained a Natural Wave—

—You Can, too WITHOUT WATER

THE most alluring hair dress is the kind that is not too formal in appearance. Today is the day of the shadow wave. The slightly curving lines of a natural wave give the face a background of harmony. It gives that undetermined something in grace of carriage that just speaks culture. Too, it lends a wholesomeness to the personality. MENTH-O-FOAM tonic shampoo is so easy and convenient to use and if used properly, will so aid in the attainment of natural beauty that it is becoming a part of the proper young lady's daily toilette.

The natural wave in my hair has increased immeasurably since I have been using MENTH-O-FOAM. And it is so easy to use too.

Irish Tenor and Local Composer

BLANCHE EBERT SEAVER, LOCAL COMPOSER, AND JOHN McCORMACK

It was our privilege to present to you a gifted group of young women—the Levings Trio. Each one of the members of the trio is an accomplished performer, but the individual talent of each is submerged in a beautiful ensemble.

Grace Wheeler Warren you have heard in solo numbers from this studio. She is a graduate of the Institute of Musical Art in New York, and was a member of the Damrosch Orchestra.

The 'cellist of the trio, Marcia Levings, is an artist pupil of Axel Simonsen, and has had wide experience in both solo and ensemble work.

WORK HAS FINISH

Doris Levings, the pianist of the organization, has had the advantage of study with Thilo Becker, and recently has coached with Olga Steeb.

So it is not surprising that their work has the exquisite finish and stamp of unmistakable artistry which characterizes it. The First Movement of a Cadz Trio opened their program, and instantly won the approval of the studio audience. Other numbers given were "Minuet" from Trio No. 3, by Beethoven; "Londonderry Air," arranged by Kreisler, and a Kreisler arrangement of the lovely old "Nina," by Pergolesi.

Frank Soares, Portuguese baritone, has a voice of pleasing quality. His selections for the evening included "In the Garden of Tomorrow," "Portuguese Serenade," the "Gypsy Love Song" and "Caro Mio Ben."

Frederick MacMurray is such a great artist, and such a modest one. We know of no one who is doing just the sort of thing that Mr. MacMurray is doing. His own compositions, and arrangements of the familiar old songs for viola alone, are truly the work of a genius. On his program last evening, he gave one of his own compositions for violin and piano, "Moods," a very lovely thing. Other selections were "La Golondrina," "Ben Bolt" and a composition of his own for viola alone, "Ivy Wild."

FAY DURST SINGS

A charming young soprano, Fay Durst, made her second appearance before our microphone last evening. She has a clear, lovely voice, which was heard in "Song of India," by Rimsky-Korsakov, and aria from "Il Trovatore," Clark's "Bowl of Roses," and "Swan Song."

The Orpheus Four completed the list of those broadcasting last night. Following the regular half-hour of hymns, the quartet gave many request numbers.

The program this noon will be given by the Piggly Wiggly Girls, James Neill Northe, tenor; Portia Newport, in popular ballads, and Dick Lyons with his ukulele.

Tomorrow evening Ethel Glassman Clark is going to give a recital of the songs of Charles Wakefield Cadman, using some of his new compositions. It will be of interest to our friends.

A recent visitor in our studio was Anne McPherson, of the Music School Settlement Association. Miss McPherson is doing such a wonderful work among the foreign children, organizing choruses and training them. It is really amazing what fine quality of work is being done. Miss McPherson has had broad experience, having been doing this sort of thing in Chicago in the foreign settlement. The whole-hearted support of the public should be accorded this branch of the Music School Settlement, as it is a vital part of our Americanization problem—music is a universal language and reaches all nations and creeds.

HOSPITAL RACE WON BY STORK

Baby Girl Born While An Auto Speeds Mother to a Doctor's Care

Old Doc Stork started a race against time last night and won.

A bouncing baby girl was ushered into the world unannounced in a speeding automobile as the husband and father, J. R. Herman, 7916 Norton avenue, was making a desperate but futile attempt to reach the General Hospital. The mother, Mrs. Viola Herman, 25 years of age, and the new arrival were rushed to Receiving Hospital, where they received first aid and emergency treatment by Police Surgeon Carey. Mother and daughter later were removed to the General Hospital, where both were reported doing well late last night.

PASSAGE OF PLAYGROUND BOND URGED

Meeting Will Acquaint Public With Need for More Recreation Parks

To perfect the organization of a proposed citizens' committee to arouse public interest in the $1,500,000 bond issue that will appear on the November ballot in behalf of more playgrounds for Los Angeles, a number of civic leaders and representatives of organizations interested in boy and girl welfare will have a luncheon meeting at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce tomorrow. About fifty men and women will be present to discuss means of acquainting the voters with the present drastic need for more municipal recreation centers.

Members of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Commission and playground department heads will attend the conference, and not only tell the present status of the city in the matter of playgrounds, but will outline the use to which the bond revenue will be put in the event of approval at the election. Civic leaders who will be present will, when a general committee has been named, appoint officers and name special committees to direct a campaign in favor of the bonds.

ESTATE OF RANCHER VALUED AT $200,000

Levra Garfield Rice, rancher of Compton, who died in Nevada, while on a hunting trip the 5th inst., left an estate worth $200,000, according to a petition for letters of administration filed by Attorneys H. T. Sherer and W. Mayock. No will has been found, it was set forth in the petition. Rice leaves his widow and four sons.

Monrovia Man's 'Shopping' Tour Mere Moonshine

While Jose Estrada of Monrovia went shopping the other day, Constable Quiggle, also of Monrovia, went stopping. He stopped Estrada as the latter was walking hurriedly down the main business street in the neighboring city, carrying a large shopping bag.

"Where you going, Jose?" Constable Quiggle asked.

"Shopping," Jose answered. "Where you goin'?"

"Oh, I'm stopping and shopping, too," the constable said. "Let me see what you have in the bag."

"Just groceries, senor," Jose assured the officer.

But the groceries, the constable learned, were of the same variety as those on which Jose had been convicted for violating the Wright Act, some time prior. The groceries were, in fact, eight bottles of moonshine.

So Constable Quiggle took Jose Estrada up to Municipal Judge Edmond's court, where he stopped and shopped with the county to the extent of paying a $250 fine for possession of liquor.

Pair Will Face Court Accused of Extortion

Accused of having extorted $500 from C. C. Wyman, acting as agent for Dave Allen, a motion-picture casting director, Mrs. M. S. Dolan and F. O'Neil will be arraigned today before Judge Keetch on a charge of conspiracy to extort money.

It is charged in the information that the two defendants threatened to have published a statement by Rosemarie Dolan, 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Dolan, that Allen had insulted her.

Both Mrs. Dolan and O'Neil are at liberty, Mrs. Dolan on bail and O'Neil on his own recognizance.

DELEGATES ON WAY TO BANK MEET

Representatives Totaling 5000 En Route Here for Opening of Convention

In automobiles, by rail and boats, representatives of more than 5000 banks are en route this week to attend the annual American Bankers' Association convention to be held in this city from October 4 to 7.

Local committees of prominent bankers have been working for months to make the convention the most successful in the history of the organization. In addition to the business of the session many interesting entertainment features have been arranged for the visitors, including trips to Catalina and the motion-picture studios.

W. R. Morehouse, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, is chairman of the program and publicity committee. Financial problems of international scope will feature the discussions of the convention.

Special arrangements have been made by the committee for the entertainment of women members of the families of the visiting bankers. General sessions of the meeting will be held at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

PROTECTION AGAINST RIVER HOLES SOUGHT

Councilman Allan has urged the City Council to enact legislation to protect the lives of children and the public at excavations made in the bed of the Los Angeles River by sand companies. Children have been drowned in these holes, the Councilman said, and he proposed that the ordiance require the excavation of banks and sides be sloped to prevent accidents.

New City Hall Furnishing to be Next Step

The construction of the new $5,000,000 City Hall now being well under way and proceeding rapidly, the Board of Public Works has taken up the problem of furnishings for the new building, which will be financed from the $500,000 margin left for that purpose by the board from the $5,000,000 bond issue. The board will ask the City Council today for authority to employ the City Hall architects, John C. Austin, John Parkinson and Albert C. Martin, to design the furniture and furnishings for the Council chamber, the Board of Public Works' public hearing room and other offices and rooms in the new building. The building will be completed at the present construction rate, in about one year.

Bribe Defendant in Liquor Case Arraigned Today

Accused of having attempted to bribe two police officers and a Federal dry agent, Sam Rosen will be arraigned today before Judge Keetch on that charge.

It is charged in the information that after his arrest for an asserted violation of the Wright Act, in a raid by Police Officers Crane and Regan and Dry Agent Mosley, the defendant paid the three $80 to allow him to go free.

TUESDAY INDIANA NIGHT

Hoosiers are reminded that their State society social will be tomorrow and regularly on the fourth Tuesday of each month this year. They will meet in the Fraternal Brotherhood Building at 845 South Figueroa street. Popular programs followed by dancing are planned.

Said A Great Writer

"There is something in the pleasures of the country that reaches much beyond the gratification of the eye—a something that invigorates the mind, that erects its hopes, that allays its perturbations, that mellows its affections; and it will generally be found that our happiest schemes, and wisest resolutions, are formed under the mild influence of a country scene, and the soft obscurities of country retirement."

Delightful homes and well-located homesites, in the suburbs, outlying districts, and country, are among the real estate offerings presented day by day in Times Want Ads.

WANT-AD RATES

Effective March 30, 1926

Rates per line, 6 words to a line, minimum 4 lines. Consecutive times, 15c Daily, 25c Sunday; if to be run 3 consecutive times, 30c Daily, 50c Sunday; if to be run 6 consecutive times, 55c Daily, 90c Sunday.

SITUATIONS WANTED: 7 or more consecutive times, 25c Daily, 40c Sunday, 3 & 6 consecutive times, 17c Daily, 30c Sunday; ONE TIME, 25c Daily, 35c Sunday; maximum charges, Daily, $1; Sunday, $1.50. Advertisements for the subdivisions of "PAINTING, DECORATING, CAPERTERING," "DRESSMAKERS & DRESSMAKING" and "NURSES" are not classified as Situations Wanted Advertising, and will be charged for at the General Want-Ad Rates for 30c Daily and 50c Sunday.

"NOTICES OF SPECIAL INTEREST," "SOCIETY MEETINGS," "PERSONAL," "MONEY TO LOAN," "STOCKS AND BONDS," "STREET IMPROVEMENT BONDS," "MONEY TO LOAN—DIAMONDS & JEWELRY," "PHYSICIANS," "MEDICAL," "SANATORIUMS" and "BATHS & MASSAGE" are not classified. Rates: Daily, 75c Sunday; 1 to 7 consecutive times, 25c Daily, 31c Sunday; 8 to 13 consecutive times, 20c Daily, 25c Sunday; ONE TIME, 25c Daily, 31c Sunday; 14 consecutive times, 15c Daily, 18c Sunday; ONE TIME, 41c Daily, 50c Sunday.

To estimate the cost of want ads count 5 average words per line. Words containing more than 6 letters should be counted as two words.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times for payment of Want-Ads, as no mistakes will be rectified without them.

Consecutive order advertisements for the Daily or Sunday Times cannot be discontinued before the third insertion. Copy received before 4:30 p.m. of the day preceding date of insertion.

Correction of advertisements before appearance cannot be guaranteed to take effect until after the advertisement had appeared once. Corrections received after 1:30 p.m. for daily issue and 4 p.m. Friday for Sunday Times.

Display lines in display advertising will be furnished on request.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

The inadvertent omission or incorrect insertion of an advertisement will be rectified only by cancellation of the charge made for the service rendered.

IS RED GRANGE IN TOWN?

I want to reach a bunch of young fellows of the Red Grange type who will go out and get business because they just have to get it. I have a force now which I have built up from just this kind of material and I have paid the boys around $40,000 commissions in the last four months. I want to make some additions to this force and there is, therefore, a chance for some real hard-hitters who want to go out and make $100 or more per week through their own efforts, with my help and leads. There is no reason why you can't make $500 a week if you work hard enough. Many of my boys have done that in recent months. Come in this morning and ask for MR. GORMAN. 735 So. Spring St.

SALESMEN

Our San Diego office is swamped with inquiries and positions for the present small San Diego solid front permit basis to take care of the leads obtained from the extensive newspaper advertising campaign now being waged in San Diego county. Several of our men in San Diego who a few weeks ago were total strangers are becoming wealthy. This is a big California corporation handling a legitimate product and is taking San Diego by storm. The overwhelming demand for our product means that we need somebody in our present small sales force immediately. There is an immediate and permanent connection with a real future awaiting several men of high caliber who can start the ball rolling this week. Get the details at
